REPORTERS' FACES RED—POLICE GET LAST LAUGH

VANCOUVER (CP)—Reporters in Vancouver are trained to work fast when they hear a holdup alarm on the police radio.

Today a few of them worked too fast. At 10 a.m. the radio carried a report that two men held up a bank near east-end Exhibition Park and escaped in a car with an unknown amount of money.

Two broadcasting stations issued a brief bulletin on their newscasts at 10 a.m. and the Canadian Press put out a 75-word item.

A few minutes later, red-faced reporters learned it was an exercise for new police recruits.

A police official said each training class is given an exercise in a simulated bank holdup.

$50, $55 Pension Studied by Tories

OTTAWA—Increases in the personal income tax exemption by $50, easing the tax load on individual Canadians by an estimated $25,000,000 to $250,000,000 are among proposals now under consideration by Hon. Donald Fleming, minister of finance.

Parliament will be in session this fall, with a new budget to be brought down which will increase old age pensions, reduce taxes, introduce cuts in other government spending and relax the tight money policy, the minister declared in a press interview. He gave no details of the proposed tax cuts or pension boost.

The boost in old age pensions raising the pension from its present level of $40 to $50 or even as high as $55 is another proposal being studied by the minister. He has obtained a memorandum from the finance department officials outlining the cost to the treasury of carrying out pledges made to the electorate by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker during the campaign.

The increase in the personal income tax exemption would raise the exemption of married persons to $2,500 and it would lift the exemption for single persons to $1,500. This, it is estimated would cost the treasury between $25,000,000 and $250,000,000.

Raising the old age pension to $50 from the $40 level the Liberals placed it at in the last budget, would add another $40,000,000 in expenditures to the federal treasury.

There is some suggestion among the Conservatives that since they accused the Liberals of being "niggardly" in raising the pension by only $6 they can hardly now make a raise of just $4. There are some in the party who are advocating a raise to $55 a month. The cost to the treasury involved in a raise to $55 would be more than $80,000,000.

'Honk-Honk' Replaces 'Toot-Toot' In Parliament's Railway Room

OTTAWA (CP)—The call of the wild goose echoes through Parliament's railway committee room today as a U.S. game official demonstrated a controversial electronic hunting device.

Robert H. Johnson of Washington shocked delegates to the annual federal-provincial wildlife conference with the realism of geese and ducks calling coming from a compact battery-operated record player. He said it was being used by U.S. hunters to bring waterfowl within range of their guns.

Use of the waterfowl-calling devices is "reported to be devastatingly effective," he said.

They are "being studied by the fish and wildlife bureau with a view toward recommending possible bans or control measures."

P. F. Oasler of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations, immediately said any ban which authorities in Canada might impose would be supported by the associations. Mr. Oasler said the machine posed a real threat to good hunting.

H. Viv Sutton, secretary-manager of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, also promised support by his organization of any controls on the devices.

A survey in one east-coast goose-hunting state indicated a kill and crippling loss of 100,000 geese last fall, a substantial increase compared with previous years. U.S. state and federal officials attributed much of the increase to the use of the calling devices.

V. E. F. Solman, assistant chief of the Canadian wildlife service, said outside the conference "there is no question that it (the device) is a real killer."

"It is not sportsmanlike at all," Dr. Solman said that no steps have been taken in Canada toward banning or controlling the machines, mainly because it has not yet become a problem in this country.

"But they're selling like hotcakes in the U.S.," he added.

COMMONWEALTH PARLEY IN LONDON

JOHN D. GETS BIG PLAY BY BRITISH CARTOONISTS

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker makes his bow today as a central figure in British cartoons. David Low in the Manchester Guardian pictures the Canadian leader standing beside Premier Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana outside the Downing Street residence of

Prime Minister Macmillan. In the cartoon the house is being remodelled by a "united Europe" reconstruction company.

Friell in The Evening Standard portrays Diefenbaker, poring over European plans with Premier Robert Menzies of Australia, while a

New Zealand representative passes the scissors as Diefenbaker can do a scalping job on the document.

Canada has given a general blessing to the conception of the common market and free trade plan, but has indicated she may have some reservations on points of detail.

Leaders Optimistic On Partial Treaty

LONDON (CP)—Commonwealth prime ministers unexpectedly launched into world disarmament discussions at the opening today of their one-week conference here.

The inaugural morning session was intended to limit itself to opening speeches and approval of the agenda, but the leaders of the 10 countries—representing one-quarter of the world's population—apparently felt the current five-power disarmament talks important enough to warrant immediate discussion.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd who has been attending the five-power talks, outlined the present stage of negotiations.

Reuters news agency said it was understood that the general view of the prime ministers was one of guarded optimism for the conclusion of a partial disarmament agreement.

The morning session, first of two today, lasted two hours.

World problems will be thoroughly discussed during the week by the prime ministers. They met at 10 Downing Street, headquarters of Prime Minister Macmillan, for week-long private talks on such issues as relations with Russia, hydrogen bomb tests, disarmament and the Middle East situation.

Flags of Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Ghana and the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland fluttered from specially erected flagpoles.

The visiting statesmen represent about 600,000,000 of the world's 2,000,000,000 people and territory extending to about a quarter of the earth's land surface.

Diefenbaker Last to Arrive

First to arrive was Jawaharlal Nehru, the Indian prime minister. The crowd surged forward to cheer him.

Twenty minutes later H. S. Suhrawardy, the Pakistan prime minister, arrived. Next came Senator M. W. H. de Silva, Ceylon's minister of justice; Thomas MacDonald, New Zealand minister for external affairs, and Eric Louw, South African minister of external affairs.

These three are representing their countries in the absence of their prime ministers, who were unable to attend.

Prime Minister Dr. Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana was next to arrive.

Australia's Prime Minister Robert Menzies was the only one to walk up Downing Street. His arrival coincided with that of Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

Last to arrive was John Diefenbaker, the new prime minister of Canada.

This is the broad pattern of the Commonwealth statesmen's world-ranging talks.

Today—the opening session discussed the agenda and then switched unexpectedly to disarmament, to be followed by a discussion of East-West relations and recent shifts of policy in the Communist bloc.

Thursday—All-day discussions of the Middle East situation and the Suez crisis.

Friday—An analysis of the situation in Southeast Asia and the Far East.

Weekend—Informal outside-conference talks by groups of prime ministers with Macmillan at his official country residence, or with the Earl of Home, Commonwealth relations secretary.

Monday—The problem of world disarmament, including an exchange of ideas on the controversial issue of H-bomb tests.

Tuesday—Problems related to a revision of the charter of the United Nations.

Wednesday—The economic and trading problems of the sterling area.

Thursday—Progress of various British colonial territories toward self-government within the Commonwealth.

Outside the conference there will be group discussions on defence by prime ministers whose countries are linked with Britain in regional alliances. India and Ceylon, as in past conferences, will not take part in these discussions.

IWA to Meet Bennett Strike Poll Underway

About 1,500 members of Local 1-118, International Woodworkers of America, in 15 plants in Victoria, Jordan River, the Malahat and Saanich Peninsula areas are voting along with 32,000 other IWA members today whether they will strike for higher pay.

An affirmative vote could cripple the $500,000,000 industry within 48 hours—the mandatory waiting period before a walkout can take place.

However, a ray of light shone through Tuesday when Premier W. A. C. Bennett invited both sides in the dispute to meet with him Friday in an effort to reach a settlement.

It was understood Mr. Bennett had no firm formula for agreement, but wished to get the two sides together.

20% Pay Boost Main Demand

The IWA is seeking a 20 per cent increase from the $7 main-land and Vancouver Island operators. The increase would boost basic pay to $22.25 an hour for sawmill workers and $1.90 an hour for others. Employers say market conditions make this impossible.

A conciliation board recommended a four-month "truce" in negotiations but this was not agreeable to the IWA.

In preparation for a possible strike, local contractors have been increasing purchases from 30 to 50 per cent within recent weeks.

Unless the strike lasted into the fall, there would be no major curtailment of construction here.

Available lumber in yards would all be considered "hot."

Some of the polls here opened at 7.30 a.m., others later in the morning. Voting is during coffee breaks, at noon and after

"I have every hope that both sides will come to an agreement and there will be no closure of the industry," he said.

Meeting with the premier would be Joe Morris, B.C. district president of IWA, and J. M. Billings, head of Forest Industrial Relations Operators' spokesman.

It seemed almost certain the government-supervised poll would result in a heavy "yes" vote.

Hours. Polls, each attended by a government and union scrutineer, close at 7 p.m.

Results of the poll are expected to be known within 24 hours, and an announcement will likely come from Vancouver.

President of the local here, Jack MacKenzie, said of the proposed meeting with the premier:

"I feel sure it will be quite satisfactory to the union, and we are quite willing to negotiate at any time."

If the strike comes off, it would be the fourth major stoppage in the industry since the Second World War.

There was a 36-day walkout in 1946 which caused a production loss of 250,000,000 board feet of lumber; in 1932 a 10-week stoppage cost the industry an estimated $170,000,000, and in 1954, 5,000 workers were idle three months.

U.S. World Policies Under Fire by Chou

PEIPING (Reuters)—Premier Chou En-lai said today in a major policy speech that after the anti-Communist revolt in Hungary "unity of the camp of socialism" was strengthened, and not weakened.

He warned Red China's internal enemies that the Communist dictatorship would not be changed "and no effort to shake it will be tolerated."

Dealing with foreign policy—

Chou is also foreign minister—he launched an attack on the world-wide policies of the United States, saying that "the new colonialism of the United States will end up no better than the old colonialism."

Chou spoke of a "demand to get rid of U.S. control, adopt a policy of peace and neutrality and oppose aggressive military blocs which were mounting in practically all U.S.-controlled countries."

DEFORMED TOES SOLVE MYSTERY

Headless Diver Identified As Buster Crabb by Coroner

CHICHESTER, England (AP)—A coroner ruled today that the body of a headless frogman washed up on the shore early this month was that of Lt.-Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabb, U.K. diver who vanished mysteriously a year ago after being spotted near a Soviet warship visiting Portsmouth Harbor.

Coroner G. F. L. Bridgman said he is satisfied the remains were of Crabb, but there is no evidence of the cause of death. He returned an open verdict.

Crabb, 46, a famous wartime frogman, disappeared near Portsmouth in April, 1956, during the visit of a Russian cruiser that brought Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev to Britain on a goodwill tour.

The missing diver's wife, Mrs. Margaret Crabb viewed the remains but was unable to identify them. Mrs. Crabb, who divorced Crabb about 18 months before his disappearance, heard medical experts give a detailed account of the deformed toes of the corpse which virtually solved the mystery of the identity.

PLANE PROP PICKS PURSE OF WOMAN OFF IN A WHIRL

CHICAGO (UPI)—An airplane propeller picked a woman's pocketbook of $125 Tuesday. She was seeing her daughter off on a honeymoon flight and had brought along a $200 "nest egg" as a present.

The plane started up, the woman dashed excitedly after it, and the propellers' backwash flipped open her purse.

Airport workers managed to find $75. The woman fainted and left the airport without even giving her name.

Nudist Club Host To 300 Visitors At 3-Day Rally

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—Sol Sante nudist club of Vancouver Island will play host on the weekend to 300 members of Canadian Sunbathing Association at a three-day convention of the association's western division.

They will meet on the club's grounds near here.

Sports finals and a fancy dress parade will be held Monday.

CCF Maps Out Role At Winnipeg Caucus

WINNIPEG (CP)—A party caucus of CCF members elected to Parliament in the June 10 federal election got underway here today to plot future plans for its role in the new House of Commons.

CCF leader M. J. Coldwell, has said that, in view of the fact his party holds the balance of power in the Commons, the Winnipeg meeting will be the most important party caucus in some time.

Interview statements by some of the CCF members who arrived in Winnipeg Tuesday showed no indication of compromise with the Progressive Conservative government.

Two of the MPs, who declined to be identified, said that, in their opinion, the Progressive Conservative government will call an election this year.

They predicted a June, 1958 date for the next federal election and also predicted that the Progressive Conservative party will sweep Quebec in the next election with up to 60 seats because "Quebec will get on the band-wagon."

Mr. Coldwell said in Ottawa Monday the party caucus will "talk over the results of the election" and generally get organized for the next Parliament.

He said the caucus will discuss attitudes the CCF will take toward certain campaign proposals by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

There's $500 waiting for Wednesday afternoon shoppers in downtown Victoria.

Victoria Six-Day Shopping Week Committee will pay $100 each Wednesday throughout July to the adult who locates a "mystery woman" who will mingle with the crowds on streets and in stores.

The scheme is meant to attract shoppers to the downtown area on Wednesdays and publicize the fact stores now may remain open on the usual half-holiday between July 3 and August 28.

PRIZE DOUBLED

If the mystery shopper is not located the first Wednesday, the prize will be doubled on the second. She will answer truthfully if confronted with a question, but will be otherwise indistinguishable from other afternoon strollers.

The winner of the money each week, if there is a winner each week, might be advised to take some of the payoff in pennies. City hall authorities state meters will be in operation during Wednesday afternoons in the two summer months.

A by-law which made meters ineffectual on half holidays has been amended for the two months and arrangements are complete for Wednesday afternoon meter patrols.

Some shoe stores and men's clothing stores have decided to remain closed on Wednesday's despite the new freedoms offered in the Municipal Act.

Spokesmen for men's wear dealers on Yates and Douglas, Keith Borman, said there will be no change in their store hours. They will neither open Wednesday afternoon nor Friday evening. He said extra staff wages for longer hours would force an increase in prices.

Twenty-one retail shoe outlets will go on a five-day week in July and will close their doors all day Wednesday.

Spokesman Donald King said: "Further opening would mean increased costs for us because we do not attract tourist business."

Death Takes Flower Expert Wm. Hamilton

He was a member of Mt. Newton Lodge, A.F. & A.M.

Survivors include the widow, Jessie Isabel, at home, and three daughters, Mrs. J. M. Knight, Mrs. H. D. Stewart and Mrs. P. D. Noble, all of Victoria.

Rev. A. I. Avery will officiate at the funeral and interment will be at Royal Oak Park.

QUALICUM BEACH—Intending a police officer and being a minor in possession of liquor.

Johnstone family.

Last Thursday RCMP Cpl. H. M. C. "Bud" Johnstone received the George Medal from Lieutenant Governor Frank Ross for his part in foiling a bank holdup at Coquitlam, when he was hit by eight bullets.

On his way home from Victoria to invest with his wife and parents, he stopped a party of teenagers who had thrown a beer carton in front of his car.

One of the four youths in the car struck him.

"Dad thought the whole bunch were going to gang up on me, so he hit the boy," Cpl. Johnstone said.

The following day Ronald Wilson, 18, of Nanaimo, was fined a total of $53 for assault.

The Perils Of Teenage Promiscuity

Adolescent boys seem to have a great need to prove their manhood—often by succeeding with the town child-harlot or an older woman.

In July Reader's Digest, Toronto's Dr. Martin Hillard tells why promiscuity is sure to make a shambles of a boy's adult life... and how parents can help their son cope with this teenage danger. Tax Slash Pension Hike Tory Pledge

Fall Budget Will Carry Out Election Promises—Fleming

OTTAWA (CP)—A new budget, to pare taxes and increase old age pensions, will be brought down by Finance Minister Donald Fleming next fall.

"Our election promises will be fulfilled," the 52-year-old Toronto lawyer said Tuesday night in an interview in which he also disclosed:

1. The Progressive Conservatives plan to ease the federal "tight-money" policy as soon as possible with the hope of reviving Canada's housing slump.

2. A new federal-provincial tax conference is to be called, probably this year, to revise federal-provincial tax - sharing arrangements and increase provincial tax revenues.

Still to be settled is the date of calling Parliament. Prime Minister Diefenbaker, in his election campaign, had promised to call the session in September to reduce unnecessary taxes. But previous planning of the defeated Liberal administration was to call an October session to be opened by the Queen.

The government's temporary supply of funds, voted at the last

Parliament, runs out Oct. 31. Parliament undoubtedly would have to be called before then to vote a further supply.

Mr. Fleming, Toronto Eglinton MP and a bitter critic of Liberal party fiscal policy, said he will declare "open war" against waste and extravagance in the government. He also will be aiming for a balanced budget, rather than a surplus or deficit.

He did not "hold with those who think the government can manage people's money better than the people who earn it can themselves."

In the last budget of the Liberal administration, handed down last March, former finance minister Walter Harris forecast a surplus of $152,000,000 for the 1957-58 fiscal year. Mr. Fleming charged that the Liberals had overtaxed the people, allegedly on the grounds that overtaxation helped combat inflation.

Tight Money Policy Attacked

He also had criticized the Liberals on their "tight-money" policy, maintaining that it had damaged efforts of provinces and municipalities in obtaining needed capital by increasing the cost and difficulty of financing loans.

The policy also had discriminated between different regions, injuring particularly those areas which had development problems such as the Maritimes and far western Canada. The policy had hurt small businessmen and farmers.

"Everyone must recognize the dangers of inflation. It is a thief and a fraud. But we must be very certain that the measures taken to combat inflation are going to do more good than harm. One has only to look at the house building industry to realize how much damage the tight-money policy has wrought."

"I want to see early measures taken to revive home construction which has fallen off so seriously this year under the tight-money policy of the late Liberal government."

"There very definitely must be early relaxation of the rigors of the tight-money policy."

As for the existing federal-provincial tax-sharing arrangement, Mr. Fleming said a new federal-provincial conference will be called probably this year, to revise the basis for division of the joint fields of taxation and to provide the provinces with increases in these revenues. No province would receive less than available under existing arrangements.

The actual administrative job of fulfilling most of the Conservatives' election pledges will fall on the shoulders of the new fiscal chief, a brilliant university student who started his political career as a Toronto alderman back in 1939. He was sent to the Commons in 1945 and has retained his seat ever since.

Energetic and keen, he has wide interests, mixing heavy political and social work with such sports as tennis, long-distance swimming and lawn bowling.

Married and the father of three children, Mr. Fleming is a non-drinker and non-smoker who strongly believes in thrift and hard work.

"Thrift is a virtue of individuals as well as of nations and governments. I believe the individual who works hard is entitled to the fruits of labor. Governments should not tax people to the point where it reduces incentive and enterprise."

Wife-Swapper Goes Berserk Killing Former Mate, Son

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (UP)—Jail under $50,000 bond on a mild-mannered man who was driven to murder in his fight for what he thought was right. Mrs. Dorothy Whitaker, whose husband shot and killed his ex-wife and son, said today she would stand by her wife-swapping husband because he was "fighting for what he thought was right."

Thomas Witaker, 39, a truck driver, went on a berserk shooting rampage Tuesday after brooding for two days over the "grief" he suffered in the wife trade.

He fought a gun duel with his first wife's husband, Stewart Martin, 40, in the early morning darkness, crippling him with a shotgun blast in the leg. Then he battered his way into Martin's luxurious suburban home to wipe out the woman and child he once loved. He killed his former wife, Mrs. Alma Martin, 36, and her son, Jack Whitaker, 11, with the double-barreled shotgun.

He then shot and seriously wounded his daughter, Regina, 9, as she pleaded for her life. Whitaker, held in Vigo County for three hours to comfort him. In a signed statement to chief deputy prosecutor John Kessler, Whitaker was quoted as saying the wife-swapping caused him "lots of grief" because he couldn't see his children often enough.

"He told of driving about Monday and Tuesday and finally making up his mind to do something about it," Kessler said.

Mrs. Whitaker said she "definitely" would stand by her husband. She described him as a Clean H-Bomb Here in Five Years Eisenhower Told by Scientists

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today scientists tell him they believe they can produce an absolutely clean hydrogen bomb after four or five more years of tests.

Eisenhower told a press conference the same scientists say that tests must continue if the world is to get the full benefit of knowledge regarding possible peaceful uses of atomic power.

The president said the scientists feel the tests must go on without any pulling back.

Eisenhower based his remarks on information he said he received earlier this week from three atomic scientists who conferred with him at the White House.

But despite this report of the scientists' views, Eisenhower reiterated that the United States still is hopeful an agreement can be reached with Russia providing for suspension of tests.

He emphasized that "hope does not stand as an isolated thing in the disarmament field."

Czech Reds Purge Party Liberals

PRAGUE (Reuters)—A purge in the ranks of the Communist party, aimed at "revisionists" and "liberals," is reported under way in Czechoslovakia. Informed quarters say the purge is being directed against Communists held to be responsible for shortcomings among the Czechoslovak intelligentsia, mainly artists and writers, accused of "wavering" in their loyalty to the party line.

As State Secretary Dulles did Tuesday, Eisenhower said the American disarmament offer also contemplates an agreement to halt production of atomic weapons out of newly produced fissionable materials.

Further, Eisenhower talked of at least limited aerial inspection and reduction of manpower as other facets of the disarmament package he has in mind.

Canadians Probed By Grand Jury In Stock Case

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A federal grand jury here will investigate the case of two Canadian men arrested in New York city last week in connection with an alleged stock swindle.

Roderick Cunningham, assistant United States attorney, says the case of Joseph R. Fleming, 33, and Alexander D. Freeman, 33, both of Toronto, will be presented to the grand jury here because a large number of residents in western New York state were among the persons who had purchased stock from the accused men.

Fleming and Freeman were accused of mail fraud by federal authorities in connection with the sale of stock for the development of uranium claims in Canada.

Back to Business

SINCE EARLY SPRING THE temporary excitement of an election campaign has obscured the permanent business of Parliament. And that business has fallen far into arrears.

When it was dissolved the House of Commons has not even passed the annual budget. The Government has lived since then on an installment of its annual supply. The rest of the appropriations must be voted during the summer, at latest by the autumn. In addition, the Diefenbaker Government will wish, at its first session, to pass several highly important pieces of legislation, promised during the election campaign. It is pledged to reduce the income tax by September, to raise old age pensions, to provide higher prices for farmers and to arrange a new financial deal for the provincial governments.

The approaching session of Parliament will be significant not only as a test of the new Government's strength but as a revelation of its policy.

It seems foolish, therefore, to assume that the session will last only a few days or weeks. It must have sufficient time to study a large array of vital legislation.

No doubt Mr. Diefenbaker would like to end the session quickly, dissolve the deadlocked Parliament and call another election in early autumn. To do that he would have to postpone most of his proposed reforms; for he cannot expect any self-respecting House of Commons to rubber stamp highly controversial legislation without serious consideration. The Liberal Opposition has agreed to vote for virtually anything that Mr. Diefenbaker may suggest but this does not mean that it will not debate everything. Its strategy will be to postpone the election, if it can, at least until next year.

Once Mr. Diefenbaker has a single vote of confidence, which he will secure immediately, he will have the constitutional right to dissolve Parliament. But he needs at least a colorable excuse for dissolution and the Opposition will not knowingly give him that excuse. Mr. St. Laurent has promised that his party will obstruct no business. What need, therefore, to call a quick election?

But if the Opposition will not obstruct it will certainly discuss all business fully, and Mr. Diefenbaker would be the last man to object to full discussion. He is honorably dedicated to the sovereignty of Parliament. He intends to repeal the rule of closure so that even an outright filibuster cannot be limited.

Of course no filibuster is intended by the Opposition at this time and against legitimate debate Mr. Diefenbaker would not wish to use dissolution, the harshest form of closure.

The timing of the next election thus becomes a rather delicate business—the Opposition trying to postpone it, the Government eager to reach the country and secure a clear majority. Apparently the nation will soon face in Ottawa a polite, correct and deadly game of parliamentary manoeuvre. Mr. Diefenbaker holds most or all of the trump cards. It will be interesting to see how he plays them.

Saanich Turning a Corner

SAANICH COUNCIL HAS APPARENTLY recognized its responsibility to the public in a tentative decision to seek another vote on the approach to amalgamation.

After sober second thought, councillors who were prepared to ignore the instructions of the last referendum to study joint services with the city are now ready to resubmit the question to the voters. There is, as yet, no agreement on the exact question.

Councillor Passmore suggests that the electors be asked: "Are you in favor of amalgamation?"

Reeve Ash has been joined by Councillor Stuart Brock in the proposal to ask: "Are you in favor of the investigation of amalgamation?"

The latter submission is closely parallel to that approved by the voters last December. At that time the people voted almost 3 to 1 for the continued study of plans for a joint hall with the city and certain joint services.

In view of the decision rendered then, it seems proper to repeat the question if some councillors are convinced that their people did not know what they wanted.

Both the reeve and Councillor Brock point to the obvious unfairness of asking voters to pass judgment on an issue without knowing the facts. Those facts could be produced by continued study.

The councillors who opposed the reeve have turned a corner in their march away from the instructions the ratepayers gave them. In fairness both to the reeve and to the people of Saanich they should make a further turn and seek directions again on the point at issue.

If they do not—if they stand firm for a straight vote on amalgamation, without knowing what amalgamation entails—they are inviting Saanich voters to dive into waters which may be quite safe but, on the other hand, may be shallow and rock-studded. Prudence requires investigation. That is what Reeve Ash has asked for. That is what the voters said they desired the last time they were asked.

'... Into an Irishman's Shanty ...'

REPORTS FROM DUBLIN outline plans of American Stuart Robertson to develop a group of cottages on the Kenmare estate he bought in Killarney.

According to report, Mr. Robertson will preserve the external appearances of the typically Irish cottage. Inside he will have the appointments of a modern American housing development.

To these cottages will be invited members of a newly formed American club who will be able to leave their homeland for vacations in the romantic Irish countryside in traditional cottages complete with all modern conveniences.

This should be good for the tourist business, good for the Irish countryside, good for Mr. Robertson. But it will call for a change in the words of that fine old ballad "The Irish Washerwoman."

"Have you ever looked into an Irishman's shanty?"

No? Well, don't. Keep a few of your illusions. Imagine that some habitation still exists where the housewife hasn't become a kitchen engineer and where there is still sentimentality in place of shiny-clean and thoroughly sterilized chrome equipment.

TRIP TO KEMANO

Miracle Inside a Big Mountain

WE FLEW into Kemano one day last week, on one of those junkets which make newspaper work an endless source of variety and excitement.

There were six of us—five newspapermen and Alcan's benign shepherd, George Vincent. We were flying in a twin-engine PWA "Mallard"; not a big plane, but sturdy, and amphibious, which lends a certain sense of comfort in that mountainous territory latticed with inlets, floods, bays, and wonderful mile-high lakes.

Up the coast we flew—past Horseshoe Bay, Campbell River, Ripple Rock, Twin Isles, Powell, Savary Island, Ocean Falls, Bella Bella and Prince Royal Island.

Then—though there was no "junction" sign visible—our pilot turned suddenly to starboard off Hecate Strait and pointed his craft east, swooping and darting through a tortuous channel until we reached the blue-green headwaters and Kemano jetty, 10 miles from the renowned tunnel entrance.

The story of how Ray Powell rearranged the landscape in this area is well known—how he backed up rivers and bored a 10-mile tunnel through a mountain, so that a waterfall 16 times the height of Niagara would drop on the turbines below.

But it has to be seen to be believed. Kemano itself is not too impressive—a cluster of construction camps and a few houses, affording shelter for about 500 persons.

A tremendous gash on the mountain-side indicates the aerial tramway to the western end of the tunnel, whose gaping entrance is framed in concrete and stands there, inviting, like the portal of an ancient Inca cave.

DISNEYLAND

You can walk inside this access tunnel, perhaps 200-300 yards (after security clearance in an office that might have been transplanted from Madison Avenue), and right there, you get your first shock. There's no jagged rock inside the tunnel. It's all been treated with some kind of blown cement, giving it a papier-mache, fantasy-like romp through some child's grotto, as though the architect of this immense project might have been Walt Disney himself.

The tunnel opens onto the power station, and you find yourself casting furtive glances upwards when your guide remarks: "There's a mile of solid rock overhead."

EISENHOWER DISARMAMENT INSPECTION PROPOSAL "COMICAL" — KHRUSHCHEV

HOW MUCH?

By B. A. TOBIN

Customer and Cost

THERE is a story about a London street merchant who used to sell fruit from a barrow. One day he had a fine bargain. He had to get rid of some elderly apples, so he put up a sign: "Apples, a penny apiece," and waited for a rush of business. But the passersby ignored him. Hardly anybody came to buy, and even then they looked rather disdainfully at his produce. "I can't understand it," the man moaned to a friend. "I thought they'd go like hotcakes." The friend looked at the apples, looked at the sign, and suggested some alterations. They put up a new sign: "Fully-ripened apples, 4d apiece," and the barrow was emptied within half an hour.

Whether or not the yarn is true, it seems to be a good example of a buying trend that is becoming very evident these days. People seem more and more inclined to accept the other fellow's assessment of the value of the goods.

The higher the price on it, the more valuable the object must be, and hence the more desirable. Too many people today shop by the price tag not by the quality, or their own need for the object.

Almost as well-known a type as the "mother-in-law," the "school marm" or the stage Englishman, is the housewife who staggers home from the auction sale with some hopeless monstrosity which was "such a good bargain she couldn't resist it."

Easy to Choose

The more she had to pay for it the more she is pleased, because the higher price tag enhances its value in her eyes.

Perhaps the whole philosophy is a product of our North American culture, in which bigness and cost, rather than utility and beauty, are the criteria. Stand two apparently identical cars side by side. The one which is priced $200 more than the other will be the "better" one.

Perhaps this situation arises from our abandonment of bargaining in our everyday purchases. We do not use the "haggle" to determine selling price, such as is done, for instance, in a Chinese stall or an Arab market. The price ticket is on the goods; we would not dare to argue about it. And the highest price naturally points out to us which article is superior.

If an errand breeze or a mischievous child switches the tickets, we are still likely to accept them as genuine valuations.

Right in keeping with this growing attitude are the bus advertisements that have been warning lately that somebody else's pills aren't as good as our pills even though they may cost twice as much. That's a direct recognition that a good many potential buyers are going to think that the higher-priced pills must naturally be better than the others.

In an earlier era the warning would not have had to be issued against more expensive goods but against the cheaper competition. It would have been the lower prices that attracted customers then. Today they are attracted by the expensive tags.

The high price gives an object prestige and authority, regardless of how much quality was actually built into it. The same philosophy attaches to the world of entertainment, and I use the word loosely. One comic makes $500 a week, another makes $2,000. Which is the funnier? Naturally, the higher priced one.

Last Word

It does not matter that he may have an agent who made a better bargain with the sponsor, that his jokes are all stolen from other performers, or that he has no more sense of humor than a tax collector. His price tag, as far as most of the public is concerned, determines his entertainment value.

This is probably why entertainers fall so quickly from popular favor these days. To compete, you don't have to think up a better entertainment than he has. You just announce that you are paid so many thousands of dollars more than he is, and for a while the audience will be yours.

People may not like your jokes. But they will be convinced that if you are paid that much money the fault must lie in themselves rather than in the comedian.

One city gets a $50,000 mural painted on the city hall wall. A rival community announces that it will have a mural painted for $100,000. Its mural, by simple mathematics, will be twice as good, and city No. 2 will have scored a resounding victory over its competitor.

It's hard to say just where this process will end. Ultimately, no doubt, it will die of its own excesses. Commercial valuations will get to a point where they are so obviously ridiculous that the public will revolt.

There will be a return to simple evaluation by the buyer on the basis of his own taste and requirements. And the day of the meretricious and trivial will be at an end. Well, I can dream, can't I?

In Our Neighbors' Eyes

THE Canadian Embassy in Washington reports that United States newspapers gave more editorial attention to the recent Canadian election than they have to any other Canadian event since the Embassy was opened. Following are quotations from some of the leading American journals on the results of the balloting:

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: "Canadians can expect a period of uncertainty in Ottawa—and an early return to the polls—as the price they must pay for re-establishing the two-party system. But the recent experience of their American neighbors and their British cousins with split governments: indicates that the price is not too steep."

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL: "Still it is clear that many Canadians voted for at least a relative conservatism—enough of them at any rate, to turn the Liberal government out. The change they wanted was not toward more government meddling but, if anything, toward less experimentation; toward restraint and preserving things pretty much as they are."

SALT LAKE TRIBUNE: The Conservative and Liberal labels do not mean exactly what they seem to. Though the Conservatives are more to the right than the Liberals, Diefenbaker promised to raise old age pensions and gave no indication of wanting to alter "welfare state" programs instituted by the Liberals. In other words, he might be considered as representing "Modern Conservatism."

THE DETROIT FREE PRESS: The Conservative party platform does not sound exactly conservative, at least not to the point of being reactionary. It's doubtful that it will advocate any sharp swing away from the relatively liberal program which Canadians seem to like. Maybe the easiest explanation is that Canadians wanted a change for change's sake and heeded the Conservative warning that the Liberals had been in power too long.

THE BOSTON HERALD: "John Diefenbaker is no reactionary. He is the only Tory M.P. from socialist-dominated Saskatchewan and he ran on a platform that would be considered New Dealish south of the border. He is a Canadian version of Mr. Eisenhower's modern Republican. His party, if it takes office, may well out-liberal the Liberals on social reform."

DETROIT NEWS: "The Liberal party's biggest handicap, probably, was the prosperity for which it claimed the credit. . . . When the people are content they turn instinctively to the conservatism which will preserve what they have. . . . Our Canadian neighbors have shown distinct preference for moderate conservatism. Thus, more than ever, are our national destinies likely to be intertwined."

THE NEW YORK TIMES: "The pendulum swung much farther than expected; instead of cutting down the Liberal majority just enough to chastise the party, the voters cut it down so far as to throw the party out. . . . What about the effect on American relations? When the St. Laurent government goes, we in the United States will suffer an almost personal loss in the departure of Lester B. Pearson from his post as Secretary of State for External Affairs."

THE PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN: "The Conservatives were 'fortunate' in this campaign to have a militant and effective leader, John Diefenbaker. . . . Canadians are worried over the extent of American investments in their country. They dislike our taking their markets by selling our farm surpluses abroad. But the Conservatives will keep the common front with us in foreign policy."

THE WASHINGTON POST: "Everywhere the Tory cry that the Liberals had assumed the mantle of infallibility seemed to strike responsive chords. . . . The Conservatives used United States investment, trade and Suez policies as villains in the campaign, charging the Liberals with undue subservience to Washington. But there is as much concern in the Liberal Party on these questions as in the Conservative, and Mr. Diefenbaker was careful not to let this appeal get out of hand. Nonetheless the extensive domination of Canadian business by American investors, this country's tariffs against Canadian imports, and the consequent growing deficit in Canada's trade with the United States, gnaw at the innards of many Canadians."

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE: "The Liberal Party guided Canada through two decades of danger and success. It gave to world statesmanship figures like Mackenzie King, Mr. St. Laurent and Lester Pearson. Now, like all parties in democratic countries, it must bow to the popular will. In any case, the alteration of parties north or south of the line between Canada and the United States cannot disturb the close relationship that has grown up over so many years."

NEW YORK WORLD TELEGRAM: "Americans naturally wonder what effect this change will have upon American-Canadian relations which have been under strain recently. The answer should be as quick as the question. Good American-Canadian relations are too well entrenched to be upset by a shift in political power in Canada."

THE TOLEDO BLADE: "After 22 years of one party rule, there undoubtedly was a lot of voting for a change for change's own sake. It appears the change will be more in name than in political policy or direction."

THE DALLAS NEWS: "The Canadian upset is unexpected because it comes at a moment of business and industrial optimism in Canada, usually a factor that keeps incumbents in. But the political bones picked have been largely concerned with traditional parliamentary independence which apparently has fared none too well under St. Laurent."

THE SPOKANE SPOKESMAN REVIEW: "Losers sometimes take a rather bitter view of election results, and the comment of Trade Minister C. D. Howe, is one of the significant quotes of the post-election news. The swing to Conservatism, he said, 'is a kind of disease going across the country.' It isn't considered a disease by voters who support it, but it is true that it is sweeping not only Canada but much of the world. The trend toward Conservative government is unmistakable in these years of prosperity and a desire for permanent peace."

THE PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE: "The fact is that the Conservatives, accustomed to 22 years of criticizing rather than leading, had very little to offer in the way of a program. What's more, they simply won't have the parliamentary muscle to steer a new course. That is comforting to Americans who have feared that a Conservative victory might bring adverse economic changes."

SACRAMENTO BEE: "Current history records that it is the Liberal governments which have backed most firmly the Western alliance, which have been most alert to the Communist threat and generally have added to the peace of the world. . . . The record hardly warrants American hosannas when liberal parties go down to defeat anywhere in the world." (This editorial was headed: "Defeat of Liberals No Cause for Applause.")

WATERTOWN DAILY TIMES: "Why was the government turned out at a time when its leadership on international matters was as able as that of any country in the world? The simple answer which may well come closest to the facts, is that it was time for a change. . . . It was not necessarily the rejection of government policy and a replacement of that with a more conservative type of viewpoint. . . . It was merely that the Progressive Conservative was the party of opposition, and the opposition party won."

OAKLAND TRIBUNE: (published by Senator Knowland's father): "But taking most major factors into consideration, there appears little reason for the United States to fear any Canadian approach for a study or revision of the programs of common defence that have been advanced through co-operation of the Liberals. . . . Canada will continue to be a full-time partner of the United States."

WASHINGTON STAR: "Canadian politics appear to be very much like our own. But the new Conservative government in Ottawa, since it will lack a parliamentary majority, will need the support of the Socialist and Social Credit parties to carry on, and it may therefore run into trouble requiring general elections again at an early date."

TACOMA NEWS TRIBUNE: "What then happened to Prime Minister St. Laurent's regime. . . . In this case it was the controversial Norman case. . . . Pearson was not candid with his fellow members and later was accused by newspapers and members of parliament of withholding information. Diefenbaker seized upon this as a campaign issue."

NEW YORK JOURNAL AMERICAN (and all the other Hearst papers): "We have an idea one of the underlying causes not mentioned by the glib experts was the bungling and distortion by the Liberals, and in particular Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson, in the Norman case. . . . The Norman case was not an open campaign issue, but we think it was there nonetheless, and was reflected in the election. So-called experts on both sides of the border missed on the election. They missed on the Norman case. When you want to get the right answer don't go to a pundit; go to the people."

COLUMBUS EVENING DISPATCH: "Canada's Foreign Minister, Lester Pearson, was a world-minded figure in what is essentially a provincial nation. . . . Mr. Pearson furthermore championed Red China as a member of the U.N. and his 'softness on Communism' ideas went so far as to cause him to attack the United States Senate as a wilful and inconsiderate culprit in the suicide of Canada's ambassador to Egypt a few months back. Political repercussions in Canada at that time were adverse to Mr. Pearson and, of course, his party."

ROCHESTER DEMOCRAT AND CHRONICLE: "Canadian spokesmen agree that their people feel handicapped and resentful over widespread American indifference to their problems and aspirations. . . . So the role for this season should be to stop taking Canada and Canadians for granted. They deserve better. In fact, considering that they are excellent customers, staunch allies, and the custodian of some of the best hunting and fishing territory in this hemisphere, they can demand better if they want to."

NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE: "When Mr. Diefenbaker forms his cabinet the U.S. will get its clearest picture of what the immediate future holds. Lester B. Pearson in the cabinet of Prime Minister St. Laurent, was an exceptionally able man who contributed much to U.S.-Canadian unity. He and Mr. St. Laurent were the only two top Liberals left in parliament by the voters."

Algeria Situation Critical

NEW YORK—The compromise resolution on Algeria which was passed unanimously by the General Assembly last February was hailed by some as a solid achievement, but there were many who had misgivings about its usefulness.

It seems clear today that those with misgivings were the better prophets, for the UN debate on Algeria, and the resolution passed at its conclusion, seems to have contributed nothing toward a solution.

If anything, a solution is harder to visualize today than it was in February. Violence in Algeria increases, the attitudes of the French and of the nationalists seem to be hardening against any form of compromise. Eye-witness reports of massacres and murders are horrifying to Frenchmen, as well as to their friends and to their foes.

The Algerian nationalists and their Arab and Asian supporters call what is happening in Algeria "the only shooting war now going on in the world," and that seems a valid enough description by any standard. What is happening in that troubled area of North Africa bespeaks the failure of the United Nations to help the situation, and makes it virtually certain that the subject of Algeria will be the prime candidate for the agenda of the 12th General Assembly session, which opens here in September.

Pushing for fresh UN action on Algeria will be the African-Asian group of 28 member nations—the ones chiefly responsible, for placing the Algerian item on the agenda of the last assembly. The Afro-Asian group, in meetings here this month, endorsed an appeal to the secretary-general, Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, for an investigation by the International Red Cross of the actions of both sides in the Algerian strife. The group will ask Mr. Hammarskjöld to seek French co-operation in such a neutral investigation.

Sitting in with the Afro-Asian group as an observer at its sessions here was Mohammed Yazid, a member of the National Council of the Algerian Revolution and a spokesman for the Algerian Front of National Liberation, which has its "external" headquarters in Cairo. Mr. Yazid, who left Algeria in November of 1954 and has been touring the world since on behalf of the nationalists, said violence in Algeria would continue until France agrees to open negotiations for a settlement—and when Mr. Yazid says a settlement, he means independence for Algeria.

ANTI-COLONIAL

"Do you hate the French?" we asked him. His reply: "No—our movement is not anti-French, it is anti-Colonial."

Until the last General Assembly, France had resisted UN discussion of the Algerian question, on the ground that it was a matter of internal French politics. In 1955, France had pulled her delegation out of the assembly when the Algerian item was placed upon the agenda—the delegation returned when the item was subsequently removed from the agenda.

At the last assembly, France, feeling that the best defence was the offence, and confident of the support of her major allies, agreed to an Algerian debate, while still insisting that the problem was an internal one. Her foreign minister, M. Christian Pineau, made a forceful defence of French policy in Algeria, and after a stormy debate, and consideration of several draft resolutions, the assembly did no more than express "the hope that, in a spirit of co-operation, a peaceful, democratic and just solution will be found" in conformity with the principles of the United Nations Charter.

Frenchman and Arab alike hailed the unanimous vote on the resolution as a victory. France said she would stick to her program of a cease-fire first, then elections, and finally negotiations. An Arab spokesman put negotiations first on the list of requirements, along with recognition of the principle of Algeria's independence.

In fact, nothing has ensued except a continuation of violence, on a mounting scale. The new French premier, Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, has promised widespread political reform in Algeria, but he also expressed support for the tough policy against the Algerian rebellion, as implemented by Robert Lacoste, the minister residing in Algeria.

If the prospect of negotiations remains as distant as it is now, and if violence continues to mount, it seems certain that Algeria is destined to become the number one problem before the United Nations—and one that not only plays up the conflict between east and west, but could strain the relationships between France and her allies. For Algeria has in it a trace of almost every problem that besets the world.

Picnic on a Train

LONDON—The price of meals on British railways has been increased from the equivalent of $1.25 to $1.40.

To a Canadian this might not sound like a lot of money for a train lunch, but to an English person the upping of the price from 8s 6d to 9s 6d is an added reason for not going near the restaurant car and taking a picnic lunch onto the train instead.

For than sort of money you can get a good meal in an ordinary restaurant in England and a good meal is definitely not what you get on an English train.

A dead give-away to the quality of the food served was contained in the statement of an official of British Railways who defended the increase also in the extra charge for coffee with meals by saying: "But now we'll be serving good coffee."

I wonder what the reaction would be in a free-enterprise country like Canada if a firm excused their increasing of prices by saying that from now on they were going to serve good instead of bad quality food.

The basic reason why taking a meal on a train in England has practically no enjoyment to it is that the railways are nationalized. Since the food and the way it is served is not in competition with any other domestic railway line, there's a take-it-or-leave-it attitude in the restaurant cars.

The last time I had a meal on a train—a thing I do only if it can't be avoided—I was given a ticket for the first (12 o'clock) sitting. At twenty to twelve, a waiter came along to tell me to take my seat in the restaurant car.

With plenty of time—I thought—before the meal, I decided to have a drink to sharpen my appetite. But at once a waiter came with a laden tray and asked me: "Will you have the tomato juice or the soup?"

"Not just yet," I said. "I'm eating at 12. I'll have a drink first."

He gave me a dirty look. "Are you trying to make things difficult?" he asked.

"No," I said, holding up the price list of drinks. "I'd just like a drink before my meal."

He gave a grunt of disgust, mumbled something about "trouble-maker" and went down the tables serving other people.

When I did get my drink it meant missing the first course, because by then everybody had been pushed onto the second course. This consisted of "the fish or the meat" and the third course was "the apple pie or the ice cream." These were plunked before you by waiters who served the tables like a production line.

Anyone who voiced the mildest complaint at this hash-house type of service got a tirade from the waiter about how busy they were and how they had to get through three sittings, etc.

The majority of English people, even the First Class travellers, find it far more agreeable to have sandwiches and a thermos flask at their seats.

HOME GARDEN

Plenty of Plants Like Gravelly Soil

Gravelly soils are usually hot and dry during our normally rainless summers, and present a problem to the gardener.

How can interesting plants be grown in such soils without having to change their texture with tons of compost or manure?

The answer seems to lie in choosing plant material which normally thrives in hot, dry, sandy soils, or gravelly slopes.

For spring color there are the hybrid brooms with shades

from creamy white to purple and bronze. Listed under the generic name of cytisus, there are upright and prostrate species, early and late flowering.

Closely allied to the cytisus, and easily confused with them, are the genistas to continue the season of bloom.

Hellebarium, the sun rose, with its neat evergreen foliage and masses of bright colors in May and June is ideal for sunny slopes.

Cistus, the rock rose, is less often seen, though it is ideally suited to hot, dry conditions. This is a more shrubby plant, and in its different species will provide pink, white or purple flowers during the hottest days.

For large areas, the yucca will be bold and showy, and for level dry spots lavender and santolina will add color contrast.

Looking back over these brief notes, I find that all the plants mentioned are evergreen, surely an added attraction.

One important point might well be to start with small plants out of container (except with lavender and yucca) to overcome their dislike of root disturbance, and in order that their roots may have the chance to work down to the cooler lower reaches of the soil while they are still young.

Planted by about late March in a mild season, little watering would be required while the plants became established.

U.S. Embassy Papers Lost In Formosa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some confidential documents apparently were taken by unknown persons from the United States Embassy in Taipei during last month's anti-American riots in Formosa.

Responsible officials said this is acknowledged in a special report the state department now is drafting about the incident. They did not make clear whether any important documents are missing, and there are indications that no inventory was kept of papers in the embassy's locked cabinets.

State Secretary Dulles already has denied emphatically that the rioters stole secret American diplomatic code books.

Officials said the special report will be given within the next few days to the Senate foreign relations and House of Representatives foreign affairs committees.

Diplomats now are assembling all the facts in the case to explain the sudden mob attack which destroyed both the American Embassy and the U.S. information agency office in Taipei.

The officials believe that the picking up of the documents was not deliberate, but an aftermath of the furious assault on the embassy.

The report is understood to absolve the Chinese Nationalist government of any direction or instigation of the affair, but is critical of police failure to intervene once the riots started. The Nationalist government promptly apologized for the incident and promised to pay damages.

No Communist plot or direction was detected by diplomats reporting on the investigation, despite rumors that Reds egged on the demonstrators.

The spark which touched off the attack is believed to be mainly the Chinese Nationalist's anger at the court-martial acquittal of an American army sergeant who shot a Chinese man.

Egyptian Navy Trained by Russia At Polish Base, Diplomats Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia is still will need further intensive training, reported to have secretly trained Egyptian naval crews before turning over three submarines last week to the Egyptian government.

Diplomatic informants who reported this today said the Soviet Navy trained Egyptian sailors in undersea work at the Polish naval base of Gdynia for six months.

This secret training would make it possible for Egyptian crews to operate the Soviet subs far sooner than most Western naval authorities anticipated, although they are alarmed at what they regard as Nasser's new campaign to exploit the plight of Arab refugees.

These authorities regard this Nasser move, which is accompanied by charges that the United States is manoeuvring to sell out these Palestine War victims, as a near-desperation effort to mobilize fanatic support among the refugees in Jordan and Gaza.

Officials here say this could ruin prospects of success for informal discussions on the refugee problem going on among Western countries at the United Nations.

The action comes at a time when American officials are becoming more and more outspoken in denouncing his activities.

Some officials here are known to have expressed their alarm at what they regard

Industrials, Uraniums Pace Good Recovery

Industrials and uranium today led the Toronto stock market to a strong recovery amid moderate trading.

Industrial gains ranged to slightly more than a point and they held a wide majority over losses. Uraniums were ahead in almost a solid line as they displayed their strongest form in months.

Aircraft rallied in an otherwise mixed market at New York today. Gains and losses among key stocks ranged generally to a point or so.

Senior issues sparked western oils, royalties and Calgary and Edmonton each gained 1/2, while Trans Empire gained 17 cents at $2.95 in lower-priced stocks.

Canadian gains on the exchange included Walker-Gooderham, 1/2, and McIntyre 1/2. International Nickel dropped 1/2 and Aluminum Ltd. and Distillers-Seargams each lost 1/2.

Canadian mines were mostly unchanged on the American Exchange but Preston East Dome was off 5-16. In the industrials, Shawinigan added 1/4 and Canadian Marconi was up 1/4. Richfield Petroleum gained 1/4 in the oils.

AT MONTREAL Industrials today held a narrowly firmer tone in moderate trading on the stock exchange.

AT LONDON the better tendency which developed on the stock market late Tuesday afternoon continued today. Selective buying gave the market a quiet appearance.

The overnight rally on Wall Street also helped the market here. Early gains in gilt-edged securities were lost in the absence of any follow through.

Dollar stocks adjusted higher, reflecting the overnight rally of trans-Atlantic issues. Business in the industrial market was selective but there were several good improvements in the leading issues.

AT VANCOUVER moderate trading saw little change in prices. Peace River Gas sold 20,300 down at $1.75. Giant Gas sold 4,000 at $2.36. Vantor traded 3,500 at $2.36.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) - Some export interest in barley futures, which have scored peaked today on the Winnipeg sharp advances for several seasons. Trade reports, however, turned downward today indicated that parcel lot sales and then steamed on the Board were made to the United Kingdom of Trade.

Corn steamed with wheat in late dealings, but oats mostly all grains and prices moved narrowly but showed some hesitation.

Oats had domestic support and flax had exporter and shipper interest. Hedges and American selling produced the hesitation in flax prices.

There was little feature to the local rye trade. Trade reports said Japan bought 700,000 bushels of Canadian wheat.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: West Germany, 1,110,000 bushels; Poland, 370,000; United Kingdom, 75,000 and Rhodesia, small quantities.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were all down one-eighth cent from Tuesday.

Deliveries: Wheat 2,307,000 bushels (1,297,000); coarse grains 780,000 (1,200,000); Barley 1,000,000 (1,200,000); coarse grains 199 (1,033).

CCF Won't 'Obstruct' Conservatives
WINNIPEG (CP) - CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell said today his party "shall not obstruct" the government in the Commons, and although it will not support Prime Minister Diefenbaker, it will back desirable legislation the Progressive Conservatives introduce.

CCF's Seat Assured
HAILEYBURY, Ont. (BUP) - CCFer Arnold Peters remained optimistic today after a recent showed he had a majority of 40 votes over Liberal Ann Shipley.

NEW YORK (CP) - The Canadian dollar was at a premium of 4 1/2¢ in terms of U.S. funds today. The point spread was unchanged at 22 1/2¢.

AT VANCOUVER moderate trading saw little change in prices. Peace River Gas sold 20,300 down at $1.75. Giant Gas sold 4,000 at $2.36. Vantor traded 3,500 at $2.36.

Business Must Inform Public

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor
JASPER, Alta. (CP)—A code of action for businessmen was laid down today by J. N. T. Bulman of Winnipeg, immediate past president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in an address to the Canadian Gas Association.

"The general public," Mr. Bulman stated, "must be convinced that private enterprises have right, turn out the best products at the best prices, pay and treat their employees right, and satisfy their employees' hope for dignity and human satisfaction."

"Businessmen, industrialists and management generally, must never fluff an opportunity to tell the positive story of the economic and social good that business does."

"If they do, the left-wingers will simply keep on making their insidious headway and one bright day we will wake up to the realization that we have gone completely socialist by default."

EUROPE TRADE
Dealing with world trade, Mr. Bulman said Canadian manufacturers "are cocking an anxious eye" at the aims and objects of European countries which are considering establishment of a common market or a free trade area.

Such a market of some 250,000,000 people should result in a much stronger, more virile European economy.

However, it should not be forgotten that one of the principal aims of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade is the lowering of tariff barriers between all countries and the gradual elimination of all other forms of restrictive import trade practices.

"We can only hope, therefore," Mr. Bulman said, "that the European common market members will not allow the establishment of a new restrictive trading practices within their boundaries and that they will take positive steps to ensure that all these practices which are permitted to continue will not only be temporary, but will be subject to continuous examination."

WAGES SPIRAL
Dealing with inflation, Mr. Bulman said acceptance of the theory that annual wage increases are vital to the expansion of purchasing power is "exactly the same as national acceptance of a permanent economy of creeping inflation."

"It is too bad that unionism subscribes to this evil, because history proves that wherever money rates have outraced productivity, the result has been a weakened currency."

"In our case, further inflation will not only rub out wage gains, but will threaten further than it already has our ability to compete in both world and domestic markets."

However, it would be wrong to lay the whole blame for the possibility of further inflation at labor's doorstep. There were occasions when both management and government by their policies had whipped up inflationary breezes. All three had a responsibility and their efforts should be united.

CNS Ties Up Ships As Strike Threatens

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian National Steamships, operating passenger and freight lines between Canada and the West Indies, is tying up its ships and paying off its crews because of the fear of a strike by the Seafarers' International Union (CLC).

Three freighters of the company's eight vessels so far have been affected. The Canadian Challenger has been tied up here, the Canadian Leader in Quebec and the Canadian Conductor at Saint John, N.B.

Unless a settlement is reached the remaining five CNS ships are expected to be idle by early next month.

Pipeline Pushes Imports By B.C. To Record High

Purchases of pipe abroad for the new B.C. natural gas pipeline last year pushed the value of imports through B.C. customs ports to a record $529,000,000.

This represented an increase of $140,000,000 over the previous year, made up largely of $23,000,000 spent for the wrought iron pipe.

Exports through B.C. ports during 1956 had a total value of $770,000,000, an increase of $63,000,000 over 1955.

Increases were recorded in almost all categories of exports except lumber, which was adversely affected by credit restrictions in the U.S. and United Kingdom.

WHEAT BIG EXPORT
These facts are contained in a special external trade report released Monday by the provincial bureau of economics and statistics. They were compiled from figures supplied by the dominion bureau of statistics.

Wheat was the most important single export, accounting for 22 per cent of the total.

The U.S., United Kingdom and Japan were again the principal countries trading through B.C. ports.

The U.S. ranked first with $351,000,000 in exports and $333,000,000 in imports.

Value of exports to Communist China totalled $2,427,000, while imports were $1,884,000.

Wheat Shipments Show Big Drop
OTTAWA (BUP)—Wheat shipments from Canada in the second week of June dropped to less than a third of the volume exported a year ago, the bureau of statistics said today.

The slump left Canada with a huge—and growing—stock of wheat in shipping positions, plus untold millions of bushels on the farm.

Exports during the week ending June 12 this year amounted to 3.1 million bushels, compared with 10.9 million in the same week last year.

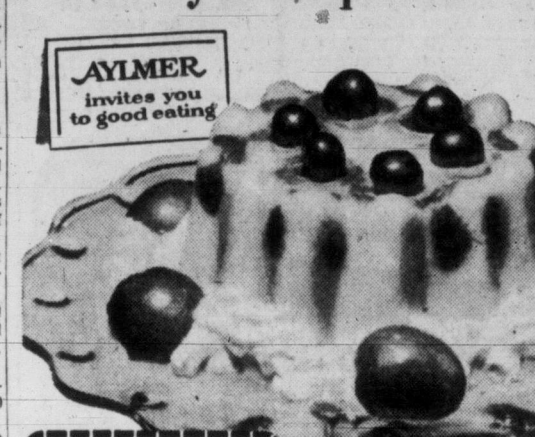

Shipments for the crop year which started last Aug. 1 ran to 187.5 million bushels this year, compared with 214.0 million in the same period of the 1955-56 crop year.

SMALLER THEN
The first provincial gasoline tax in Canada was two cents a gallon, imposed in Alberta in 1922.

NOT SO 'WONDERFUL' NOW

WINNIPEG (CP)—Television commercials have taken some of the most beautiful words of the English language and "ruined them for all of us," Pierre Berton, managing editor of Maclean's Magazine, told the annual convention of the Canadian Authors' Association. He said "wonderful" had been a lovely word which meant "to excite wonder." "We cannot use it anymore," he said. "It is gone because of the people who say how wonderful it is to have someone on their show, or how wonderful it is to be here, or how wonderful they think the sponsor's product is."

Court Inspection For School Bus

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane and eight jurors trooped out of Victoria courthouse Tuesday afternoon to inspect the school bus from which 10-year-old Robert Arnold Gunderson of Lake Cowichan School fell to the highway last year.

Robert and his father, Arnold Gunderson, are suing driver Horace Walker Budd and the school trustees of District 66, Lake Cowichan, for injuries received when the emergency door of the bus flew open and Robert was "ejected" into the highway.

CLOSE LOOK

Judge and jury made a close inspection of the emergency door and reconstructed details of the accident.

They then returned to Supreme Court where further witness were examined by Joseph McKenna, Q.C., for the plaintiffs, and Lloyd McKenzie for the defendants.

Edward Wayne Robertson, an 11-year-old grade 5 student at Lake Cowichan school, said he and Bobby Gunderson and another boy, Billy Janice, were among some 40 children traveling home in the bus on March 23, 1956.

DROPPED MARBLES

"Bobby was sitting in the back seat with two other boys," he said. "I was at the front of the bus when Bobby dropped some marbles. I went back and helped them pick up the marbles."

"You know you are not supposed to leave your seat when the school bus is moving," said Mr. McKenzie.

"Yes," the boy answered. Edward Robertson said he did not know the emergency door had flown open until a boy behind him cried "Oh look!"

"When I looked back the door was swinging open and Bobby and Billy had gone out. All that was left on the seat was Bobby's lunch box."

"We all yelled to the driver to stop and he pulled up—about quarter of a minute later."

COURT BANS FLUORIDES IN TORONTO

OTTAWA (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto may not add fluoride to the water it supplies its 13 constituent municipalities, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled today.

The court upheld a 2 to 1 years-long contention by the fashionable suburb of Forest Hill that the public water supply without general approval.

Fluoridation is the addition of one or two parts of sodium fluoride to 1,000,000 of water as a medicinal step to reduce the incidence of tooth decay.

MONTREAL (UPI) — Provincial police have arrested four Montreal men including a young lawyer and recovered $73,000 worth of stolen bonds after months of intensive searching.

Helicopter Drops Prober at Wreck

VANCOUVER—First technical inspection of the North Star wreckage near the summit of Mt. Slesse was made Tuesday by Desmond Murphy, chairman of the preliminary inquiry board.

He and two mountaineers were dropped by an RCAF helicopter at the 5,700-foot level and climbed roped together to the scene of the December TCA crash which took the lives of 62 persons aboard.

Some personal items of passengers had been uncovered by the thaw but no identifiable human remains were seen. Nor did Mr. Murphy indicate that anything worthwhile about the cause of the crash could be deduced at the point of impact.

A propeller which was touched lightly, slid two feet and almost fell to the snowfield more than 2,000 feet below.

Mr. Murphy, 56, who had never climbed a mountain before, said he did not think it would be necessary for him to make another trip up the sheer rock face.

STORE CLOSING PROBLEM

KAMLOOPS — Members of the Kamloops and district board of trade Tuesday voted 51 to 36 against Monday store closing and the issue now is back in the hands of city council.

Only 91 votes were cast from a membership of 300.

President W. O. Ellis said the vote was only a guide and that city council could use the results it wished in preparing a new by-law.

The present by-law requires stores to close Wednesdays.

LAWYER, SPORTSMAN DIES

VANCOUVER — D. G. (Pete) Marshall, 61, sportsman and lawyer, died in his sleep early Tuesday.

He was a member of the firm of Davis, Hossie, Marshall and McLog and had practised law here since returning from overseas service in the First World War.

Mr. Marshall, a native of this city, was on many Vancouver rep football teams as a scrum half. He was a golfer and a yachtsman.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME

ENDERBY — Fire Tuesday evening destroyed the house which Mr. and Mrs. Tom Yarama shared with the latter's parents here.

The two couples lost everything except a small radio and a washing machine, saved by neighbors.

Mrs. Yarama had been washing clothes in the kitchen and stepped outside to hang them on the line. When she returned a moment later the house was filled with smoke and flames.

The house was bought by Mrs. Yarama's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lashuk, when they came here from Alberta.

ULTIMATUM DELIVERED

VANCOUVER — Acting mayor Bill Orr gave Vancouver citizens an ultimatum Tuesday: Support the police in order to control hoodlums.

He told city council that incidents in which crowds jeered policemen trying to stop downtown disturbances were "a black mark against the city."

Aldermen urged acting mayor Orr to make an appeal for public help.

He replied: "I am not appealing to anybody for anything. If the people want it (law and order) it is up to them to support the police."

YOUNG THUGS JAILED

VANCOUVER — Two men were sentenced Tuesday to two years less a day for their part in a $12,000 hotel robbery here April 25.

COUNSEL BLAMES FATHER

VANCOUVER — A father was blamed in court Tuesday for leading his son into crime.

Defence counsel for Patrick Drexel, 22, pleaded leniency for his client, charged with burglary, "because Drexel's father encouraged him to lead a life of crime when he was young."

The request was refused by Magistrate Oscar Orr who sentenced Drexel to 2½ years in jail.

Sentenced to two years less a day was Peter McEwen, 24. Drexel and McEwen pleaded guilty to breaking into three city homes.

For your picnic plans, we've lined up a terrific array of...

Picnic Pointers

 A garden-fresh vegetable salad will stay cold and crisp if you take it to the picnic in a big thermos jug.

 Save your empty egg cartons for packing stuffed fresh plums and apricots so they won't bruise. To stuff plums and apricots, cut in half; remove pits; fill with cream cheese and nuts whipped with honey. Put halves together again before packing.

 For those who like their fried chicken hot, bring along a roll of aluminum foil. Each person can wrap his favorite pieces and guard them over the coals.

 Avoid confusion at picnic time by packing cooking utensils and supplies in waxed bags with tag lists. The same bags will come in handy for disposing of coffee grounds and even carrying wet swim suits home.

 Everyone's happy at a make-your-own picnic. Along with cold cuts, cheese and relishes, include two or three very special sandwich fillings and an assortment of breads and spreads.

 Take along a few pretty wicker paper baskets and line them with paper napkins for serving hot rolls, potatoes, corn on the cob.

Walt Booms Again

By The United Press

The White Sox have tried everyone at first base but the batboy, so maybe it's only poetic justice that they're back on top again because of a guy who feels he should have been given the job in the first place.

His name is Walt Dromo, and chances are you've heard of him because they were comparing him with Jimmie Foxx and Hank Greenberg when he first arrived in the majors way back in 1949.

Somewhat he never quite made it "big," however, and with the White Sox he was low man on the totem pole among three other first basemen this spring. But Tuesday night it was his two-run homer in the seventh inning that broke up a scoreless pitching duel between Bob Keegan and Dave Sisler and gave the White Sox a 2-1 victory over the Red Sox that enabled them to take over the American League lead again from the Yankees by half a game.

INDICATION

In a way, it was vindication for the six-foot-five Dromo, who has been forced to sit around this season while Jim Rivera, Dave Philley and Earl Torgeson were given a shot at the first base job. The home run was his ninth of the season, one more than he hit all last year.

Keegan held the Red Sox to six hits in snapping their six-game winning streak.

Cleveland registered its fourth victory in a row by crushing the Yankees, 11-2; Baltimore handed Kansas City its sixth straight defeat, 5-0, and Detroit rallied for three runs in the 10th inning to defeat Washington, 7-4.

Cincinnati climbed into a virtual tie for the National League lead with the Cardinals by beating the Giants, 3-2; Brooklyn blanked Milwaukee, 2-0, and Chicago climbed out of the cellar with a 5-3 triumph over Pittsburgh.

Southpaw Don Mossi checked the Yankees on eight hits while his teammates collected 12, including a two-run homer by Russ Nixon and a grand slam wallop by Rocky Colavito. Mossi held the Yankees at bay in every inning but the second when Andy Carey hit a two-run homer. Tom Sturdivant was the loser.

Ex-Dodger Billy Loes, given a $1,000 raise only 24 hours previously, came through with a brilliant three-hit effort for the Orioles. He retired the first 16 batters in order before Joe DeMaestri singled with one out in the sixth. It was Loes' eighth victory against three defeats. Bob Boyd raised his batting average to .350 with three hits for Baltimore.

BYRD TRIUMPHS

Reliever Harry Byrd, just brought up from the minors, was credited with the Tigers' victory when they hammered the Clevelanders for three runs in the 10th. Bill Tuttle drove in the tie-breaking run while teammate Charlie Maxwell hit two homers.

Ted Kluszewski's pinch single off Red Worthington with the bases full and two out in the ninth boosted the Redlegs to within five percentage points of the Cardinals. Brooks Lawrence gave up only four hits, including a homer to Danny O'Connell, in registering his eighth victory.

Duke Snider's 15th homer in the first inning was all the margin rookie Danny McDevitt of the Dodgers needed to beat Lew Burdette.

Jack Littrell's two-run homer in the second inning put the Cubs in front of the Pirates to stay and Dale Long and Walt Morin followed with circuit blows for Chicago.

CENTURY CLUB SOLARIUM DERBY

After serving five years as secretary of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association, George Douglas resigned his position last year to have more time for his family and fishing.

But last year George was working as hard as ever for the anglers as chairman of the Solarium Derby committee.

Poor weather and spotty fishing hampered his efforts to rack up a record derby total, but his committee still turned over $5,356.67 to the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

This year, in addition to managing a team in the Little League baseball program, George is again doing his best to boost the derby total toward the record goal of $7,000 and has sold well over 100 derby tickets to qualify as a member of this year's Solarium Derby Century Club.

Employed in the bridge engineer's office of the provincial government, George hopes to sell at least 400 tickets to the one-day Anglers-Times fishing competition at Saanich Inlet July 21. "You don't mind spending a lot of time on the Solarium Derby," he says, "when you know all proceeds go to help the crippled children."

TACKLE BIG JOB FRIDAY

There's a big job ahead for Dale Daziel (left) and Noel Wakeham of Uplands Golf Club. Along with Noel Daziel, they will carry Victoria's hopes in 36-hole B.C. junior championships at Vancouver's Shaughnessy course Friday. Wakeham won Victoria title this month by defeating Noel in 18-hole playoff. Long-hitting Dale had off day in city tourney, but should be one of top threats for B.C. crown. (Times photo by Halkett.)

Marg's Fine Comeback Avoids Upset in Closed

Four Victoria golfers, including two in the championship flight, moved into today's second round of play following Tuesday's results in the B.C. women's closed golf championship at Vancouver's Capilano course.

Mrs. Margaret Todd, former provincial ruler and reigning Victoria city champion, staged a thrilling comeback to edge Mrs. A. Gregory of the host club one up. Low qualifier in the tournament with an 82, the Victoria Golf Club member was three down with four holes left to play but she came through to win the last four holes.

Only other Victoria hope for the championship, Mrs. H. G. Means beat Mrs. J. S. Vicar of Vancouver, 2 and 1.

One Victorian bowed out Tuesday when Mrs. J. Munro lost her first-flight battle with Mrs. T. Fraser, 4 and 3.

TWO MORE WIN

Two other Oak Bay members, both in the third flight, reached today's second round. Mrs. V. Godfrey beat Mrs. E. C. Goodman, one up, while Mrs. Harold Husband trounced Mrs. G. Jordan-Knox, 5 and 4.

Upset of the day was provided by Mrs. Brice Evans of Capilano and Shaughnessy clubs.

Turning in a dazzling display of shotmaking, Mrs. Evans scored an easy 8 and 7 triumph over Mrs. Gilbert Garnett, who was runner-up to Mrs. Todd for medalist honors with an 83.

The 18-hole semi-finals are scheduled for Thursday and finals will be played Friday.

Following are the championship flight results:

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT

Mrs. J. R. Todd def. Mrs. A. Gregory 1 up; Mrs. J. Campbell def. Mrs. R. Patricia 2-1; Mrs. J. Duffin def. Mrs. H. C. Grant 4-3; Mrs. J. Duffin def. Mrs. D. McInnes 5-4; Mrs. Brice Evans def. Mrs. G. Garnett 5-7; Mrs. H. McCranne def. Mrs. G. McCracken 1 up; Mrs. R. G. Means def. Mrs. J. S. Vicar 2-1; Mrs. D. Heritage def. Mrs. E. Barber 3-1.

WEST SQUADS, SAYS ED, HAVE YET TO LOSE ONE

CALGARY (CP) — Ed Benson of Trail, president of the British Columbia Hockey Association, says he knows a way to get Canada back into a winning role in international hockey tournaments: keep eastern teams from representing the country.

"Have you ever noticed," he said Tuesday, "the only times Canada has been beaten in international competition was when represented by teams from Eastern Canada?"

Benson listed western teams that brought hockey honors to Canada. "There was Penticton, Edmonton Mercuries, Lethbridge, Trail, Kimberley and the Edmonton Superiors," he said.

"A western team has never lost. Toronto Lyndhursts and the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen are the only Canadian clubs to take beatings in recent years."

GORGE ROLLING ALONG

Halfways Learn Price Too Much

Gorge Hotel moved a full notch closer to the Senior "A" Men's Softball League title Tuesday when they handed Halfway House a 12-2 drubbing at Central Park.

The game was called at the end of six complete innings, but it wouldn't have mattered much if it had gone regulation time with Gorge holding the batting, fielding and pitching edge from the first cry of "Play ball."

Dave Price opened on the mound for the winners and gave up eight hits for his fifth victory in seven starting tries.

Marc Cunningham started for the losers, but was taken out, in favor of Stan Wargo, in the top of the sixth frame. He bore the brunt of a Gorge rally that saw them score five runs on three hits.

Looking for Warm Spot? Arena May Be the Place

Shamrocks Clip Pilseners; Host Westminster Tonight

Summer weather may be missing from Victoria, but it should be comfortably warm inside Memorial Arena tonight.

The two hottest clubs in the Inter-City Lacrosse League — New Westminster Salmonbellies and Victoria Shamrocks — are expected to raise the temperature several degrees when they each lay a winning streak on the line and start firing.

Coach Jake Proctor's Salmonbellies, hitting on all cylinders after a stuttering start, are riding the crest of a four-game victory skunk while the Rocks made it three straight and six wins in their last seven outings as they trimmed Pilseners, 15-11, at Kerrisdale Arena Tuesday night.

Shamrocks stretched their league lead to six points with Tuesday's victory and can move eight points out in front if they extend their streak tonight. Salmonbellies, deadlocked in the runner-up spot with Nanaimo, need a win to bolster their hopes of a first-place finish.

BIG GUNS ROOM

Jack Bionda and his mates on the top Shamrock scoring line continued their potent goal production at Kerrisdale, but it was the speedy second-string unit of Alan Gill, Ed Kowalyk and Don Sherry that brought the biggest smiles from coach Whitey Severson.

Sherry, second highest goal scorer in the league while with Nanaimo last season, turned in one of his best games for the Irish with a three-goal performance.

Kowalyk, who collected three points at Nanaimo last Saturday, hustled for three goals and an assist while Gill, although receiving credit for only one assist, made many of the plays for his linemates.

Bionda again paced the scoring parade with four goals and an assist to raise his league-leading point total, made up of 45 goals and 22 assists, to 67 points.

PEEWEE SECOND

Bradshaw, in second place, had a goal and an assist and is now 19 points behind his run-ning mate in the point chase. Dobbie also earned one goal and one assist.

Pilseners made it tough during the opening half. They were trailing by one goal, at 4-3, at the quarter, and 9-8 at the half-time intermission.

But the Rocks, backed by Gordie Johnston's sparkling netminding, started to move in the third quarter and were pulling away over the rest of the route.

Shamrocks used juniors Jackie Showers and Ross Ross-kamp in place of injured Bert Bertoia and asthma-troubled Al Davies. Severson donned a uniform when Tommy Druce was unable to reach the arena and took one turn on the floor for his first playing appearance of the season.

Severson may use juniors again tonight if either Davies or Bertoia is still not in top condition.

Ron Delaney Wins

Slow Irish Mile

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Ireland's Ron Delaney, the Olympic 1,500-metre champion, nosed out Brian Hewson in a slow race of four-minute mile Sunday night on a grass course.

Delaney beat Hewson, a London tailor, by two yards in the slow time of 4:09.7. Gordon Pirie, a Briton who holds many records for longer distances, was third by another five yards.

British Swim Ace

Moves to Canada

LONDON (CP) — Manchester swimmer Ken Williams is emigrating to Canada in hopes of furthering his aquatic career.

Williams, a member of Britain's 200-metre relay team that placed sixth in the Melbourne Olympics, will fly to Toronto via New York June 29.

"My reason for emigrating is purely and simply to obtain better facilities for furthering my ambition of becoming a world swimming champion," says Williams.

He hopes to return to Britain next year — as a member of the Canadian team at the British Empire Games at Cardiff.

RUSSIANS STUDY STYLE

AT WIMBLEDON

Ivan Keeps Pencil Handy

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (AP) — The Russians, who used to say tennis was too bourgeois for words, are snooping around Wimbledon trying to learn what makes the place tick.

Their object is to learn enough to send a contingent of Soviet tennis players here in a year or two. They want to compete in what is regarded as the world championship for amateurs.

The Russians said they are not just interested in playing styles. They say they want to see how officials run the tournament.

Russian state trainer Semen Belitz-German and his 17 followers make notes on everything — from the number of ball boys used on the centre court to the time allowed for refreshment as the players change sides.

The Russians say their players are not ready yet to enter Wimbledon or the Davis Cup competition. But chief coach Belitz-German left the impression that when they

ISLAND TRACK MEET

Roy, Chris Eye Sprint Records

They're still expecting records in the Times-YMCA Vancouver Island track and field championships to be held at Victoria High School Saturday.

YMCA track coach Bob Hutchison has been talking of a new B.C. mile relay record as almost a certainty. And now he says that the Canadian 100 and 220-yard sprint marks could also be shattered.

And who will probably do the breaking? Trinidad's cinder-stomper, Mike Agostini, the current holder of the 220 standard and the co-holder of the 100-yard mark, is a good bet.

An old favorite at this Times-YMCA meet, Agostini tied the present Canadian century sprint record of 9.6 seconds during last year's championships on the Vic High cinders.

Then, a week later at Vancouver, he dashed the 220 distance in 21.4 seconds for a new Canadian mark. The record he smashed had been established in 1908 by Bobby Kerr.

IT WON'T BE EASY

But Agostini will have no easy road to first-place finishes — not with the field of rumors that will be ranged against him.

The top threat to Agostini's supremacy should come from the flashing feet of Roy Duncan, a Seattle Pacific College entry.

With a personal best of 9.6 seconds for the 100, Duncan possesses a terrific 21.1 clocking in the 220. Agostini will have to be at his best to beat the Seattle flash.

Also a threat to upset the Canadian record is Chris Sievers of the University of Washington, who is expected to push Agostini and Duncan all the way.

Victoria's Rafael Duke, a close third behind Agostini and Sievers at Kelowna last Saturday, will bear watching at race time.

The half-mile event should also produce some excellent times, most probably by Jack Larson of the University of Washington, Don Ferguson of the Vancouver Olympic Club, and Doug Clement.

Larson, who has run a mile in four minutes-15 seconds, has been timed in 1:53 for the 880. He is rated by coach Stan Heiserman as potentially one of the all-time Washington greats, be Vancouver's Bob Reid, 14.

But Who Appreciates Breathing in Cellar?

By THE UNITED PRESS

The only clubs in the Pacific Coast League with any elbow room today were the Portland Beavers and Sacramento Solons, both making like sandhogs in the loop cellar.

The rest of the teams were all trying to occupy the same spot — first place — with only four and a half games separating sixth place Seattle from the top of the heap.

San Francisco took it on the chin from Los Angeles Tuesday 8-5 and watched its lead dwindle to a single game as Vancouver bombed Portland 7-2. Red-hot San Diego blanked Sacramento 6-0 and Hollywood edged Seattle 3-2.

The Angels, only a half game out of the first division and four from first place, got splendid relief pitching from Bill George and won a see-saw contest.

Bert Hamric homered for the winners in the fourth, but the Seals regained the lead in the fifth, only to lose both the lead and the game on a three-run Angel sixth.

PALICA ON BEAM

Vancouver outpowered Portland as Erv Palica kept eight hits scattered. Nevertheless, the Mounties did not get the lead until the sixth inning. Carl Powis, Owen Friend and Buddy Peterson hit home runs that accounted for five of the seven Vancouver runs.

Bob Alexander was the victim. Jim (Mudea) Grant held Sacramento to two hits and fanned 10 in chalking up his fourth win of the season. His Padre mates got 13 hits, off loser Mar's hall Bridges and reliever Mike Coen. The only hits off Grant were singles by Artie Wilson and Jim Westlake and they came five innings apart.

Ben Daniels won his 10th of the year against two losses as he held Seattle to four hits. One of the blows was a solo home run by Bob Balena in the eighth, but the Rainiers were never able to catch up after Hollywood scored one in the second and two in the third.

The Stars could manage only six off loser Larry Jansen and reliever Russ Meyer, but put them together in good fashion.

DOUG CLEMENT ... threat in 880

Ferguson, who has been Oregon State University's top miler all season, has been timed in 4:18 for the distance and will be at his best Saturday.

Clement, captain of the Canadian Olympic track team, is regarded as Canada's foremost half-miler. He defeated Larson in Kelowna last Saturday and will be seeking to make it two in a row.

The pole vault should also be something to see.

Favored is Cliff Labounty, another of Heiserman's entries, who consistently goes 14 feet into the air.

Providing the competition will foot vault. The event will probably produce the highest vaulting ever seen in Victoria.

In the women's sprint events, it will be Sue Burnett and Ann Reid against all-comers, but Freya Berman of Vancouver is a definite threat.

Only 15 years old, Miss Berman is being hailed as one of Canada's greatest future sprinters. She captured the Vancouver junior high school 100-yard dash in 11.4 seconds last month to tie the Canadian record.

Miss Reid and Miss Burnett will continue their rivalry in the sprints. Miss Reid, runner-up to Victoria's Miss Burnett in last year's 220, has shown great improvement over the year. The Vancouver sprinter won the women's northwest AAU championships recently with a clocking of 25.6 seconds.

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

The annual series of one-day fishing derbies at Saanich Inlet gets under way Monday when the champions of the Inlet angling club, the Chinooks, stage their exclusive Dominion Day fishing party.

Actually, the Chinook Club is a club within the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association and its ranks are open only to those who have won VSIAA buttons for landing salmon of 20 pounds or over.

Although the main function of the Chinooks is to promote the spirit of fraternity among the VSIAA members, they always welcome a chance to match their angling techniques—and luck.

Accordingly, twice each summer they stage club derbies, competing for prizes, club trophies and the mythical and always-disputed title of "King of the Chinooks," currently held by Sid Upton.

Monday they'll be competing for the Dr. Hugh Clarke Trophy, donated by the club's past president who was also the founder and first president of the Chinook Club back in 1935.

Among the fishing prizes are an electric food mixer, a silver tea service and an English China tea set. Hidden-weight prizes include an electric blanket and a "Lazy Susan."

They'll start fishing at daylight and finish up at 3 p.m. And don't be surprised if some beginner catches a bigger fish than the feuding champions at Saanich Inlet Monday.

Tiny Richards, who has taken considerable ribbing from the Oak Bay regulars over his supposed inability to land big salmon, stilled his tormentors for a while with the 33-pounder he boated just off Jimmy Chicken Island Saturday.

But Tiny is still moaning over the chance he missed Monday to hush them up for the season. A king-sized spring slipped off his hook just when he thought it was as good as in the boat. Even those in a near-by boat admitted the lunker would have topped 40 pounds.

However, Tiny's wife, Ruth, kept the family in fish with a 29-pound spring taken in The Gap and a five-pound coho.

Choppy seas kept most boats operating close to shore Monday evening but several good fish came in at Oak Bay Boathouse and a number of coho were taken between Gonzales Point and Ten Mile Point.

Phil Ellis was high man in the evening with a 20-pounder while Jim Clements came in with a 16½-pound spring and Herb Shaw landed a 15-pounder. Len Humber, with a 13½-pounder, and Eric Gilmer, with a 13-pound spring, also scored Monday evening.

Pav boats ventured out in Sunday's wind but Mrs. H. G. Southin boated a 23-pounder in Oak Bay, Earl Fenwick landed a 15-pounder and Joe Smith had one of 12 pounds.

Sunday morning Dick James took 22½ and 12-pound springs from The Gap. "Stonewall" Jackson brought in a 15-pounder. Ray Biggs took a spring of 15 pounds. Joe Edginton brought in a nine-pounder and several scrappy coho were taken around Ten Mile and over toward Chatham Island.

Big salmon have been scarce items in Saanich Inlet during the past week, but things showed signs of improvement Monday when Sid Upton warmed up for the Chinook Derby by hauling in a 23½-pound spring near the Goldstream end and Fred Michell made a 21½-pound ladder derby entry at Brentwood.

Some fair catches of four to six-pound salmon have been taken in the Inlet, but for the most part, fishing has been spotty.

Good action is still reported from most waters on the east side of Vancouver Island and Campbell River still appears one of the better spots with good numbers of bluebacks and several heavy springs coming in.

Waters off Qualicum Beach, French Creek and Northwest Bay are yielding excellent coho catches and Porlier Pass at the north end of Galiano Island was a hot spot Sunday. A party of four, which included Stan Williams and Denis Hagar, netted nine salmon and lost several others in an hour at Porlier after drawing a blank off Tent Island.

Fairfield in League Tie

A double play in the seventh inning turned the trick for Fairfield in the Greater Victoria Junior League Tuesday night as they edged View Royal 4-3 at Topaz Park, to move into a first-place tie.

With the tying run on third base, View Royal's Bill Chandler hit a drive to Fairfield's centerfielder, Brian Bestrup, who took the catch and then fired the throw into the plate to nip the run and end the game.

Bud Taylor hammered out a three-run triple in the second inning to put Fairfield into a 3-0 lead, but the Royals fought back with two runs in each of the third and fourth and a single in the seventh.

At Maynard Park, MacNutt's clobbered Cadboro Bay in a 2-12 win.

Five-Year Limit Feller's Opinion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bob Feller, the famous right-hander, aimed verbal fireballs at baseball club owners Tuesday, saying they have been "arrogant" at times and consider journeyman players as "pawns."

Feller, who blazed new strike-out records into the books before he retired last year, told the House anti-trust subcommittee baseball employers need to change their outlook or they will "surely hurt" the game.

Testifying with poise and speed to match his pitching style, Feller declared baseball should be placed under the anti-trust and Taft-Hartley laws, with exceptions to protect a "modified" reserve clause and franchise rights.

Feller pepped up the tempo of the subcommittee's investigation of the legal status of baseball and other professional team sports.

HARRIDGE SHOCKED

Some of the charges he hurled in connection with the major league pension plan drew an expression of "shock and surprise" from Will Harridge, president of the American League.

Feller said it's "a joke" to hear baseball officials talk credit for the pension program. He insisted it resulted from "a bitter struggle by the players against the owners and league officials."

In his turn as a witness, Harridge contended one of the owners first suggested a pension plan "and that started the negotiations."

The subcommittee also heard from Stan Musial, the St. Louis Cardinals' great infielder-outfielder, in its study of whether baseball should be covered by the anti-trust statutes.

The Supreme Court twice has held baseball exempt but last winter ruled that pro football must function under anti-trust jurisdiction.

NO ANIMOSITY

The reserve clause binds a player to the club that first signs him. Some Congress mem-

Youth, Age, Experience Blended Into John D.'s List of Advisers

OTTAWA (CP) — The men who are the closest advisers of John Diefenbaker are a blend of youth and age and of experience in many fields of politics and business.

Nobby dictates policy to Canada's new Progressive Conservative prime minister; he is as likely to ask for advice from an elevator operator as from an economic expert, and then make his own decision. But he has around him a group of key persons who undoubtedly swing an influence in his political thinking.

Apart from top cabinet members who have worked intimately with the new government chief for years, the major adviser appears to be Allister Grosart, a 50-year-old Toronto public relations man who did most of the down-to-earth thinking in stage-managing Mr. Diefenbaker's campaigns for both the Progressive Conservative leadership and for election as prime minister.

MOVING TO OTTAWA

The sandy-haired Mr. Grosart, a native of Dublin who has worked on several Canadian newspapers and in radio, did his job so adroitly that at the prime minister's request he is selling out his substantial interest in McKim's Advertising Agency to move to Ottawa as a permanent Diefenbaker lieutenant.

Associates say Mr. Grosart was mainly responsible for thinking up some of the policies which brought the Conservatives home with the largest group in the Commons.

Apart from the coining of snappy slogans, this included a "decentralization" program that gave the party's provincial organizations a larger share of planning and seemingly brought more local enthusiasm into the fight on the hustings.

It was believed to be Mr. Grosart, too, who brought about a reconciliation between Mr. Diefenbaker and Leon Balcer, MP for Trois-Rivieres, Que., and national president of the party who had led a Quebec revolt against Mr. Diefenbaker at the December leadership convention.

Among the parliamentarians who obtained cabinet posts last week, the closest to Mr. Diefenbaker is believed to be Defence Minister Pearkes, VC. Mr. Pearkes nominated Mr. Diefenbaker in his unsuccessful 1948 convention try against Mr. Drew and seconded his nomination in his successful run last December.

About as intimate, probably, are Gordon Churchill of Winnipeg and George Hees of Toronto. Both, the new trade and transport ministers, respectively. They were original "Diefenbaker-for-leader" enthusiasts and played a big part in putting Mr. Diefenbaker over at the convention and in the election.

Apart from working on overall strategy, Mr. Churchill was in charge of the provincial set-up for Manitoba.

In addition to Mr. Grosart, Mr. Diefenbaker has had some potent advisers and workers among other public relations men.

George Johnston of Toronto, senior member of a public relations consultant firm and an old friend of the new prime minister, has been close to him during and since the election campaign.

Dalton Camp, an executive in a Toronto advertising firm and former party director of public relations and, oddly enough, one-time secretary to former Liberal Premier J. B. McNair of New Brunswick, was another. He was given general charge of the Diefenbaker campaign in the Maritimes.

Some of the others close to Mr. Diefenbaker: Rod Finlayson, a veteran political strategist who has been in the party's Ottawa office as adviser to Conservative leaders since the time of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett in the 1930s. His specialty is parliamentary procedure.

Get that lonesome feeling when the light turns green?

Switch to Shell Premium with TCP* and restore lost power while you drive!

How can a gasoline bring back power your engine has lost? Only by overcoming the cause! You see, most engines lose power as a result of certain deposits which form on spark plugs and in combustion chambers. In fact, engineers agree that these deposits are the major cause of power loss in modern high compression engines. (Even a new engine can lose power within 3,000 miles). But TCP in Shell Premium Gasoline neutralizes these deposits while you drive—brings back the power your engine has lost.

IGY UNITES SCIENTISTS

Polar Frost, Equatorial Heat Face Fact-Finders of World

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—From North Pole to South Pole, scientists are answering challenges of adventure and danger.

Russians and Americans are floating around on ice islands in the Arctic Ocean, at the mercy of currents and storms.

Britons plan an audacious 1,500-mile march across the icy barrens of Antarctica; with no signposts to guide them.

They are vanguards of hundreds of scientists from dozens of nations taking up posts on land, sea, ice and in tropical heat for the International Geophysical Year (IGY).

SHARE RESULTS

IGY unites them. It is a global, co-operative study of all the physical forces, from sunshine to glaciers, cosmic rays to earthquakes, that affect our lives. Everything they learn will be shared equally and fully, for human benefit.

Men of many tongues—speaking the common tongue of science—are deploying to two especially important areas, the Far North and Far South.

For the Arctic and Antarctic are great weather factories of the world. Cold masses of air spill down from the poles affect climate and weather nearly to the Equator. Cold deep ocean currents from north and south influence weather and the wealth of sea life.

But we don't yet know enough about them, or other events in these far regions.

At north and south, dozens of scientific teams will form part of three global chains of weather stations, charting worldwide circulation of the atmosphere. Radio-equipped weather balloons will help tie together the story of winds, temperatures, humidity, pressures, as never before possible.

Living in warm, snow-buried huts at the now totally dark South Pole are 18 men led by Dr. Paul Siple, explorer-scientist who has made six trips to Antarctica. They can step outside for many-sided scientific studies into temperatures of 100 below zero, coldest experienced by man, and it will get colder soon.

Floating in the Arctic ocean are 14 U.S. scientists and 20 air force men. Some are in huts on an ice floe only four square miles in size, somewhere between Alaska and the North Pole. The others make their home on a much larger floating ice island—known as T3—now northwest of Ellesmere Island.

Russian parties are riding three similar ice floes and islands, also carried in vast, circular paths around or near the North Pole.

Fairly nearby, at Spitzbergen, Sweden, Finns and Swiss will be concentrating on finding still unknown causes of interference with radio waves from electrified particles high overhead.

Twenty-one nations in all, including Red China, Iran and Bolivia, are co-operating in studies of cosmic rays, the atomic bullets from space that continually bombard the earth and your own body. Just where do they come from?

At bases studded over Antarctica, specialists are studying the southern lights or Aurora Australis, seeking new clues to the origin and behavior of these dazzling displays of light. They're thought, like the northern lights, to be caused by streamers of charged particles from the sun hitting gases in our sparse upper air.

This year, a British expedition will leave its base at the Weddell Sea and trek by tractor and dog-sled to the South Pole, then on to the McMurdo Sound area, in the first crossing of the Antarctic continent by trail party.

Secrecy to Back Tory Gov't—If Good for Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit leader Solon Low said Tuesday his party will support the new Progressive Conservative government on measures it believes are worthwhile for Canada.

As for the possibility of another election, he said in an interview that he thinks "a year certainly will be shortest time and it will probably be more than that" before a new general vote is called.

"We have always taken the position that whatever is good for the country—no matter who proposes it—we're going to support it. We will continue with that."

Painting Classes

Commence July 2

Starting Tuesday, July 2, outdoor painting classes for children and teenagers aged six to 16 will be held in Beacon Hill Park over a period of six weeks, sponsored by the Federation of Canadian Artists.

At the end of classes there will be an exhibition of the work in the Art Gallery and in Eaton's store.

The best work of the group in Victoria and Sidney will be entered into competition with the best work of their counterparts on the Mainland, and prizes presented winners.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY
(MOTHER OF 3)

They say that new daddies have more "it-just-so-happens" baby photographs than anyone. Well, there's nothing like parenthood to bring out the amateur photographer. A few helps for would-be shutter-bugs:

• Best indoor pix are taken by photoflash. This way you can shoot any time—any place.

• Outdoor pix should be taken with the sun behind baby to eliminate squints.

• A low camera position will catch more baby, less background. Looking down on baby tends to minimize him.

Meal planning made easy for summertime eating. It's easy because Gerber offers over 26 good-tasting Junior Foods so you can vary toddler's menu to your heart's desire and baby's delight. All are famous for appealing colors, true flavors and a tender evenly mixed texture that's just right for lots who can chew. 8 Fruits, 4 Vegetables, 8 Soups & Dinners, 3 Meats, 3 Desserts.

Introductory ideas. If your baby is just starting on Junior Foods and seems a bit bewildered, mix small amounts with the Strained Food he's been having. As he gets used to the difference in texture, increase the amount of Junior Food.

Cheer-up division. Two easy cures for after-nap fussiness: (1) Once over baby's face lightly with a cool, moist cloth. (2) A tasty afternoon snack, all ready to be smacked over.

Cheer-up division, part two. A teething baby is apt to fuss more, but here's a whole-some relief measure that will help baby in a hurry. Gerber Teething Biscuits are smooth-surfaced to soothe tender gums... extra-hard to give baby the biting satisfaction he wants and needs. The special tapered shape makes them easy to grasp and easy to maneuver. Gerber Teething Biscuits are individually wrapped in cellophane for sanitary carrying purposes. Million-Ton Increase In Export Newsprint

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON (CP) — A 1,000,000-ton increase in the amount of Canadian newsprint available for export by 1959 is forecast in a new U.S. government survey of world newsprint production.

The survey, prepared by the U.S. department of commerce, based the prediction on its estimate that Canadian newsprint output, which totalled 6,469,000 tons last year, will rise to 7,600,000 tons in 1959.

At the same time, the survey estimated that production in the United States, which now depends on Canada for 87 per cent of its supply, also will rise, with a resultant decline in American import requirements.

NON-COMMITTAL

The report made no assessment of the possible effect of this development on the U.S. market for Canadian newsprint but it did say that demand within Canada, the fifth largest consumer in the free world, "is expected to parallel the Dominion's economic growth in recent years."

It estimated Canadian demand at 490,000 tons in 1957, compared with 470,000 last year, and said this should rise to 510,000 tons in 1958 and 530,000 in 1959.

Assessing Canadian export possibilities, the department forecast that Canadian newsprint available for foreign markets will increase to 6,460,000 tons this year, 6,840,000 tons in 1958 and 7,070,000 in 1959. Canadian exports last year totalled 5,999,000 tons, of which 5,230,000 came to the United States.

33 PER CENT GOAL

By 1959, the report estimated, U.S. production should rise to 2,360,000 tons, compared with 1,459,000 produced in 1955 and 1,615,000 produced last year, and account for about 33 per cent of U.S. domestic requirements. Prior to 1950, U.S. production accounted for 18 per cent of its total supply and in 1956 domestic mills provided 23 per cent.

Looking at the world picture, the department foresaw a "growing cushion" of supply in excess of world demand beginning this year. By 1959, it estimated, world demand will total 14,900,000 tons, compared with 13,000,000 tons in 1956.

Victoria Tenor M. Rogers Finds TUTS Spot Valuable

(Special to the Times) Three weeks' work with American operatic star, Robert Rounseville, is proving more beneficial than a full course in dramatics for Victoria tenor, Michael Rogers. Rounseville is singing the title role in "The Student Prince," Vancouver Theatre Under the Stars' first production this season, which opened Monday.

Playing "Detleff," leader of the students, and as Rounseville's understudy, Michael Rogers is making the most of his chance to work with the famous New York tenor, who is well known in opera, television, movies, concerts and Broadway musicals.

"He's not the eccentric sort of star who insists on monopolizing attention throughout the show," says Michael, "but a friendly chap who seems more concerned with letting the other principals have moments to shine.

"He told me that audiences should go away remembering all the characters, not just the star."

MORE SPOTLIGHT

At Rounseville's suggestion, the famous Drinking Song, led by Michael, was re-staged, placing Michael in a more prominent position.

"I was worried about my acting in 'The Student Prince,'" Rogers admits, "but under TUTS' excellent director, Jimmy Johnston, and with so many helpful tips from Mr. Rounseville, I'm confident, now."

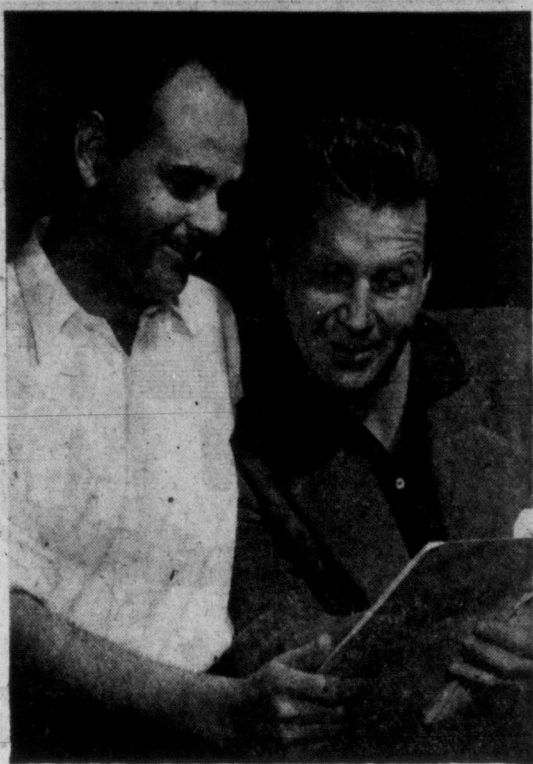

"Just watching Mr. Rounseville act is enough to inspire the whole cast. When he rehearses the love scenes with 'Kathy,' played by Vancouver soprano, Wendy Martin, the rest of us feel like intruders."

"I'm benefitting vocally, too. After hearing me sing part of the Serenade, Mr. Rounseville took me aside and suggested different phrasing, which has helped considerably."

SAVES HIS VOICE

In rehearsal Rounseville conserves his magnificent voice, barely singing at all. For he has a rugged two weeks ahead, singing the prince role nightly, except Sundays, in Stanley Park's Malkin Bowl. Other shows being presented this summer are "Where's Charley?", July 8 to July 20; "Kiss Me, Kate," July 22 to August 3, and "The Pyjama Game," August 5 to August 24.

Robert Rounseville appeared in Victoria 3 years ago, singing the role of "Don Jose" in Bizet's "Carmen," presented by the Northwest Grand Opera Company. He is now with the New York City Centre Opera, has appeared frequently on T.V.'s Voice of Firestone program; sang the leading role in the movie "Tales of Hoffman," and appeared in the recently-filmed "Carousel."

Michael Rogers, holding score, and internationally famous tenor Robert Rounseville, helping young Victoria singer in his professional experience.

When opening night curtain rose on The Student Prince, Monday, it marked Michael Rogers' first professional appearance in an operetta. He has appeared in many amateur productions, however, his most recent being "The Chocolate Soldier," presented by the Victoria Gilbert and Sullivan Society.

When TUTS season is over, what then? Michael can't decide between staying in Vancouver or moving to Toronto. There is no chance of his returning to Victoria. His reason...

"I've discovered unlimited opportunity for singers in the larger cities, so that's where you'll find me!"

Tory Worker Admits Destroying Records

TORONTO (CP)—A Progressive Conservative election worker admitted he destroyed all his records after a judicial inquiry was ordered into alleged padding of voters' lists in Toronto St. Paul's federal riding.

Stafford Roberts made the admission to Chief Justice J. C. McRuer, who is conducting the inquiry ordered after Conservative candidate Roland Michener, subsequently elected, said he found 400 fictitious names on voters' lists in the riding.

Roberts admitted signing 70 affidavits on behalf of persons seeking inclusion on voters' lists although he knew only 12 of them personally. He was asked who brought the forms to him.

"I'm not sure," he answered. "I destroyed my records after the election."

"After this inquiry was announced you destroyed your records?" asked the chief justice. "All of them?"

"Yes," said Roberts. Chief Justice McRuer described as "amazing carelessness" the manner in which affidavits were taken by two lawyers, Gregory Cameron, who had worked for Liberal candidate James Rooney, and Kenneth A. Lund, a Conservative worker.

4 Hurt in Blast At Research Lab

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A small explosion at a research laboratory in an E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co. plant in nearby Tonawanda injured four men Tuesday. All are reported in good condition. A company spokesman said the explosion was caused when a spark apparently ignited hydrocarbon gas leaking from some research apparatus.

TORONTO (CP) — Rheumatoid arthritis, a disease usually found in adults and the aged, occurs more often in children than is generally believed, a United States rheumatologist said today.

Dr. Bernard M. Norcross, of Buffalo, N.Y., said rheumatoid arthritis, the most common and crippling of the rheumatic diseases, is frequently wrongly diagnosed as rheumatic fever in children.

His observations were contained in a paper delivered before the ninth international congress on rheumatic diseases, meeting this week in Toronto.

Such symptoms as fever, anemia, loss of weight, growth interference, or even heart damage frequently cause the disease to be diagnosed as rheumatic fever, he said. In many other cases it is diagnosed as leukemia or osteomyelitis.

RECOVERY CHANCES GOOD

The chances of recovery from the disease by children were good. The average length of its effects was 5½ years, although it might last 20 years or more.

Dr. Norcross, whose conclusions were drawn from a 20-year study of persons with arthritis, recommended the same therapy for children as for adults—rest, physiotherapy and a careful use of hormone drugs and gold salts.

In another paper, Dr. David H. Neustadt, of Louisville, Ky., said a modern version of the 3,000-year-old drug colchicine is the most effective for treating gout.

The new drug, colcemide is derived from the ancient drug colchicine and produced the same therapeutic effects without any of its physical side-effects.

RUSSIAN APPROACH

A paper by Professor Anatoly Nesterov of Moscow gave a summary of the Russian approach to rheumatoid arthritis.

Prof. Nesterov based his observations on Pavlov's theories, that the central nervous system is not controlled by emotional or psychological factor but by physical influences and conditioned reflexes. He said he found that patients with a highly developed nervous system started the disease in an acute stage, but that they responded well to treatment. Patients with a weak nervous system start the disease slowly and gradually and respond less favorably to treatment.

RAW MATERIAL FOR ISLAND POWER

NEW LADORE FALLS STATION

Premier Presses Switch Releasing 70,000 HP

CAMPBELL RIVER—Seventy thousand horsepower of new electrical energy was officially added to British Columbia's hydro capacity when Premier Bennett today pressed a switch at the new Ladore Falls station of the B.C. Power Commission.

A gathering of nearly 300 representatives of government, business and industry inspected the modern semi-outdoor type power house before the brief ceremony which culminated in a simple gesture which opened a valve in the giant 16-foot penstocks to set the generators whirling.

Two years in construction, the Ladore Falls station is the second stage in the development of the full potential of the Campbell River system. Eight miles downstream, the John Hart station develops 168,000 horsepower. Upstream, the Upper Campbell dam is now completed and backing water into Butte Lake. Within a year it is planned to put two more generators into service at Upper Campbell, both of 42,000 horsepower.

SAFEGUARDS

The Ladore plant can be controlled from its own control room, or from the John Hart station by means of a power line carrier system. Complete protective equipment is installed in the power house to provide against both electrical and mechanical faults. Indications of any abnormal conditions are given at the John Hart plant, from which the Ladore station is normally remotely operated.

Port Alberni Man Heads Postmasters

NANAIMO — Officers of the B.C. Postmasters' Association, elected here Tuesday, are Les Hammer, Port Alberni, president; William Plumridge, Langley, vice-president; Fred Brownsey, Sooke, secretary-treasurer.

Robert Reid of Victoria who declined nomination for another term as an executive member, was replaced by Kenneth Patterson of Cloverdale.

LATEST P.O. 'BUZZ' REAL THING AT ALBERNI

ALBERNI (CP)—Gossip on the post office steps has been abandoned temporarily. A swarm of bees has set up camp in the popular spot.

RCMP, who doubt the matter is a police responsibility, are attempting to persuade some local apiarist to come forward to relieve the situation.

LONG LAKE, SHORT ODDS

Flying Salesman In Second Crash

NANAIMO—Flying salesman Jim Bonar is either exceedingly lucky or frightfully unlucky where aircraft are concerned—depending on how one views his ventures at Long Lake, five miles north of here.

Scouter Saved From Drowning By Fisherman

NANAIMO (CP)—An unidentified fisherman rescued a Nanaimo scout leader from drowning in Georgia Strait Tuesday afternoon after the scouter clung for 45 minutes to his overturned motorboat. Rescued was John Edward Jabour, 36, service manager for Pacific Propane Ltd. Mr. Jabour, a Rover scout leader, was on his way to attend a leadership course at Camp Byng, near Gibsons, when his 15-foot outboard cruiser struck a deadhead.

CAPSIZED

The boat, badly holed, filled with water in about four minutes, and capsized. Jabour said he managed to cling to the open cockpit section of the craft until help arrived. He said later:

"I'm a good swimmer, but I know I was lucky this time. And that water certainly was cold." The unidentified fisherman took Jabour aboard and towed the submerged craft back to Nanaimo. He disappeared without leaving his name.

N. Cowichan Stores To Pick Closing Day

DUNCAN — Ballots will be given by North Cowichan municipality to all merchants so they can vote for their choice of a day for all-day closing. Ballots will be counted at the meeting of the council July 3.

Five years ago he crashed his own aircraft on takeoff from the lake, broke his back, almost drowned, lost the plane, and was a hospital case for months.

Tuesday morning he almost did it again, but this time escaped with just a ducking.

His latest escapade started when he and Gordon Warren, a Vancouver pilot salesman, took off from Long Lake with Warren at the controls.

PLANE STALLED

Warren made a normal take-off, but found the plane did not climb properly. To avoid hitting treetops he turned back toward the lake, but the aircraft stalled. Three other planes were moored on the lake, directly in his way, and he had to turn even more.

Finally the plane plunged into the water and sank.

Bonar released his safety belt and was at the surface in a matter of seconds.

"I was just going back down for Warren when his head came out of the water," he said.

Both men were unharmed, but the plane was demolished.

ISLAND DIGEST

Victoria Daily Times 21

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 26, 1957

IN JUNE

Nearly Full Employment In Cowichan

DUNCAN — In spite of the closing of some small logging operations, a state of almost full employment existed in the Cowichan area during June, according to R. S. Robinson, manager of the Unemployment Insurance Commission here.

The manager's report mentioned temporary shutdowns because of weather conditions, shortages of some types of workers, and the "over-riding uncertainty and anxiety caused by a serious strike threat in the lumber industry." July 2 is regarded as the likely deadline.

The B.C. Forest Service has recruited its fire suppression crew and it will be stationed at a camp on the Chemainus River in the old Hillcrest logging area.

LOW TURNOVER

Labor turnover in the woods has been low for June, with most loggers wishing to remain gainfully employed until the strike deadline. The possibility of a strike in the forest industry has hampered efforts to recruit labor, as most workers have declined to take jobs that might involve them in a labor dispute.

Eleven Hungarian refugees were placed in employment by the Duncan office during June.

Three-Day Fete For Ladysmith

LADYSMITH—A three-day Dominion Day celebration will feature a parade, demonstration of archery, take part in three games to start at 1.30, 3.30, and 6.30 p.m.

The program will start Saturday night with the crowning of a queen to reign over the week-end fete. Nanaimo Pipe Band will take part in the ceremony, and give a display of marching.

Also on the program will be native folk dances by members of the Finnish community here and pupils of Mrs. Morag Renwick.

THREE BALL GAMES

Sunday's program will be given over to baseball, when all-star Pony League teams from Nanaimo, Parksville, Chemainus, and Ladysmith will baseball, field sports and a demonstration of archery. Feature of the Monday program will be a parade, demonstrations by Ladysmith Volunteer Fire Department and Civil Defence Corps, and a series of archery feats by Albert Williams, B.C. field archery champion.

Chairman of the celebration is Robert Stillin, and secretary of the committee in charge is William Hallinan.

Organizations co-operating on the preparation of the program are Kinsmen, Eagles' Lodge and Auxiliary, Canadian Legion and Auxiliary, Lions' Club, Native Daughters, and Little League Baseball Association.

6-Day Shopping Week Approved at Duncan

DUNCAN—City council this week passed a by-law providing for Thursday half-day closing, as at present, except during July and August, when stores may remain open until 6 p.m. Friday.

Friday store hours to 9 p.m. the year round also were authorized.

The action by the city council was taken under the Municipal Act, which comes into force July 1.

Exempted from the Duncan by-law are service stations, garages, bakeries, drug stores, confectionery stores, and stores handling perishable foodstuffs.

The council had two letters from big stores in Duncan—Super-Valu and Eaton's of Canada, saying they will open six days a week during July and August.

Eaton's said its staff would not work more than a five-day week. This company also wanted a full six-day shopping week throughout the year, saying the full week is the trend in retailing.

Last week the retail merchants' division of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce voted in favor of the full six-day shopping week during the summer months.

Gyro International Convention Welcomed to City

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 26, 1957 23

IT'S ALWAYS FAIR WEATHER WHEN . . .

Singing lusty Gyro songs around a piano in the Empress today were five of the 1,000 members and wives attending Gyro International convention. Left to right: George B. White, San Francisco; Burch Fitzgerald, Oakland; James Nagel, Long Beach; Sumner E. Orr, San Francisco; Len Wells, San Jose.

MONTE ROBERTS

You're really old if you can remember when "John D." meant Rockefeller.

It happened at the Humboldt Street whisky emporium. Two ladies, both obvious tourists, wandered in and started looking around. One of them spotted the sign which announced the current rate on U.S. funds. The sign read: AMERICAN DISCOUNT TODAY—SIX PER CENT. "Oh, look, Ma," said the lady. "Isn't it wonderful? We get six per cent off just because we're Americans."

And then there was the waiter in the beer parlor who expressed doubt about the age of a youthful-looking customer.

When the customer insisted on being served, the waiter said: "No, thanks. I never take a chance at black jack." "What do you mean, black-jack?" said the would-be customer. Explained the waiter "21 or bust. If you're not 21, I'm bust."

I see where our civil defence plans are out of date. I am not surprised. Hardly anyone is civil any more.

The current issue of the Saturday Evening Post achieves something of a record in the way of explanatory disclaimers. With an article called "Here's How I Gyp You," the Post runs this explanation:

"Lee Nugent is the pseudonym for a furniture salesman of many years' experience . . . only the names of the dealers, their stores and their products have been changed."

I am still waiting for the disclaimer to end all disclaimers: "Only the facts have been changed to protect the guilty."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A $1,000 grant to the Art Gallery here for purchase of a sound-film projector and other visual lecture aids, was announced today by the curator, Colin Graham.

The grant came from the Leon and Thea Koerner Foundation, which was established last year by the former Vancouver lumber baron and his wife.

Sam Keeble, 2937 Dean, was elected president of the Victoria Sales Executive Club at an annual meeting at Oak Bay Beach Hotel Tuesday. Ivor Fuller and Bob Neary, were elected first vice-president and secretary respectively.

Cyril Morgan, 429 Belleville, pleaded guilty in city police court today to theft under $50 in connection with an auto break-in at 4:30 a.m. on Belleville.

Two policemen, Consts. Cliff Harrison and William Heagle said they watched Morgan park his own car, walk along a line of other parked cars on Belleville near the Empress Hotel, peeking into each, then stop at a California car.

He smashed a no-draft window to open the car, climbed in and was carrying off three large boxes of biscuits, a tin of mixed candies, a pair of large scissors and a woman's black plastic purse when the constables stopped him.

He was remanded to Thursday for sentence.

Total value of the goods, property of Gladys Paul, was $20.

Peter Hartnell, 907 Royal Terrace, was fined $10 each on two charges of soliciting business in a street, on appearing in city police court today.

He was charged after police saw him handing pamphlets to occupants of cars stopped in lines of traffic near CPR wharves.

Results of the weekly Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club session Tuesday follow:

North-South—Ethel Cleworth and Elizabeth Warren; Mr. and Mrs. McConnell; Lil Tattersal and Larry McMillan.

East-West—Mr. and Mrs. Chisholm; Elsie Edmonds and Molly Able; Edith Bold and Irene Agels.

A 16-year oversight is being corrected by Mount St. Mary's Hospital—after years of operation it is applying for its first government licence as a private hospital.

The faux pas came to light when the B.C. inspector of hospitals, wrote Victoria City Hall today asking a report on facilities by city inspectors, pending issuance of the licence.

Identification of victims of Sunday's plane crash at Port Hardy will be aided by information from dentists and doctors of the 14 persons, Vancouver coroner's office said Tuesday. Next of kin or the doctors themselves may contact Sands in Victoria (3-7511) or the coroner's office in Vancouver (Tatlow 7111).

B.C. Air Lines today announced expanded services in the Port Hardy and Campbell River-Comox areas.

Announcement followed approval by the federal Air transport Board of Class III (irregular schedule) service to points including Holberg, Matta River, Allison Harbor, Port Alice, Jeune Landing, Quatsino, Stuart Island, Thursday, Hayden Bay, Port Reville, Rio, Tatlayoko Lake, Vernon Lake and Woss Lake.

VANCOUVER GYRO LOYAL TO VICTORIA HERITAGE

Loyal to his hometown of Victoria, Gyro delegate, George Barr, now of Vancouver, turned up at the Gyros' International convention in khaki shorts, open-necked shirt, tweed jacket, monocle, fake RAF-type moustache and sun helmet.

Many Gyros are exploiting Victoria's Olde English atmosphere with plus-fours and cricket blazers.

"THIS IS HOW IT USED TO BE," says Ed. Kagy, a founder member of Gyro International, talking old times with Cuy Shanks, vice-president of Victoria Gyro Club, and Jim King, president of the Hollyburn Club

FAMILY AFFAIR

Lively Gyros Launch Parley Festive-Style

The biggest international Gyro convention ever seen in Victoria got into its stride today with nearly 1,000 members and wives meeting in happy groups all over the Empress Hotel.

It is much bigger than the Gyro convention held here in 1941 and most members say it is livelier, too.

They say Gyro differs mainly from other service clubs in that it caters specially for family groups—that is wives are encouraged to take part in club activities and sons and sons-in-law are invited to become members at 21.

"We try to recapture the spirit of a college fraternity," said Edmund Kagy of Cleveland, Ohio, who started Gyro with two college chums at the Western Reserve University in 1912.

BASIC CONCEPT

"Each of our 130 clubs in Canada and the United States is conducted on individual lines, but they adhere to a concept of a civic social fraternity of friendship."

"If that's too much of a mouthful for you, let's call it a Friendship Club."

Mr. Kagy was secretary of the 5,600-member Gyro International at its headquarters at Cleveland from 1923 to 1954. He also carries the title of Old Grey Eagle as an honorary chief of the Chippewa tribe of Western Ontario.

"They pinned the feathers on me at Fort William in 1954," laughed jolly, white-haired Mr. Kagy who looks younger than his 68 years.

"It's the clean, healthy life we Gyros live," he joked.

Best part of the joke is that the Gyros and their wives held a hilarious "get acquainted" party in the curling rink Tuesday night and this was followed by numerous other parties in the hotel, which left a few headaches behind them.

Golf, fishing and sightseeing tours are also being squeezed into the five-day program between banquets, luncheon parties and business meetings.

The governor's banquet will take place in the Empress at 7 p.m. Thursday followed on Friday by the international president's banquet at which president Bob Brimacombe of Vancouver will turn over the reins of office to a newly-elected president.

THREE BRITISH COLUMBIANS have fun at the big Gyro get-together —R. Rowe Holland, Vancouver, a past international president; Bill Clark, Victoria, convention chairman; Dave Chapman, Kelowna, past president.

A few Gyros were seen passing the aspirins as they settled down to solid organizing and paper work at district committee meeting this morning. But a spirit of cheerfulness and ready cooperation was in evidence everywhere.

Biggest meeting was that of District 4 which takes in a large part of British Columbia and includes such well-known B.C. members as R. Rowe Holland of Vancouver, Bart Carson, president of Victoria Gyros and Cuy Shanks, vice-president.

LOVE RAIN

"We love this Victoria rain," said George B. White, San Francisco, who is governor of District 9 taking in most of California. "We don't have rain in California—only Scotch mist."

Regardless of the weather, all Gyros and wives planned to move out to Sooke this afternoon for a miniature "All Sooke Day" comprising logging sports, a salmon barbecue on the Sooke Flats and a dance in the community hall arranged by Vancouver Island clubs, who are hosts for the convention.

SIGHTSEEING

Golf, fishing and sightseeing tours are also being squeezed into the five-day program between banquets, luncheon parties and business meetings.

The governor's banquet will take place in the Empress at 7 p.m. Thursday followed on Friday by the international president's banquet at which president Bob Brimacombe of Vancouver will turn over the reins of office to a newly-elected president.

WOMAN DIES AFTER FUNERAL OF FATHER

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 3 p.m. at McCall's for Mrs. Helen Ann McGregor, 42, who died Monday shortly after the burial of her father, Robert Milne, at Colwood Burial Park.

Mrs. McGregor collapsed at the cemetery and died in hospital a few hours later.

Born in Sunnyslope, Alta., she had lived here since 1948, and was employed at the Empress Hotel.

Surviving are a son, James; her mother, Mrs. Nellie Milne, and a brother, Robert, at the family residence, 100 Cadillac Avenue; and a second brother, James, 108 Cadillac.

CITY MAN FOUND

'Horrible Dream' Ends in Calgary

Missing Salesman Will Be Home Soon

By AB KENT

Amnesia victim Arthur Yurkowski, 35, 2624 Quadra, woke from a "horrible dream" in Calgary General Hospital Tuesday morning after disappearing from Victoria June 17.

He called his wife about an hour after "coming to," unable to explain what happened or how he got to Calgary.

The last thing he remembered, he said, was crossing Douglas Street Monday afternoon as he worked his brush sales route for Fuller Brush Co. Ltd.

"He woke up looking into a doctor's face and the hospital room seemed very dark, he told me," said Mrs. Yurkowski. "Then suddenly the room got very bright and his mind became clear as a bell."

"He said he would be home as soon as he could. The last few days have just been a horrible dream for him, he said."

Mrs. Yurkowski expected her husband home today or Thursday.

"He wouldn't waste any time getting here," she added.

PAPERS PRAISED

Mrs. Yurkowski praised newspaper stories and pictures for discovery of her husband so far from home.

Members of the brush firm's Victoria office had mailed newspaper accounts of the disappearance to Calgary and Hamilton offices of the company.

Meanwhile, Calgary police were notified of an apparent amnesia victim in hospital and checking by them and the company disclosed Yurkowski's identity.

Coincidentally, as identification was being established through Victoria police, Mr. Yurkowski awoke.

"I'm just overwhelmed with joy to know my husband is safe," Mrs. Yurkowski said. She is mother of a 19-month-old son Roger.

Although distraught for eight days, she never gave up hope, she said.

The salesman had registered at a Calgary hotel under the name of "Mr. Arthur," and had turned over about $145 to the desk clerk for safekeeping.

When he disappeared he had carried about $200 of company money he was to send to the firm's Vancouver office.

"I suppose the hotel manager noticed something was queer and went up to the room to see if he was all right. They took him to hospital Thursday night," Mrs. Yurkowski said.

He had lost his identification papers and driver's licence.

Manager of the Victoria branch of the firm, Kaarle Norgaard, said Yurkowski's job is waiting for him as soon as he is able to return to it.

Mrs. Yurkowski said her husband may require medical treatment when he gets home.

Liquor Store Break-In Fails

A railroad tie was used to smash into a liquor store at 716 Johnson early this morning, but apparently nothing was stolen although the safe was tampered with.

Const. Louis Pletz discovered the front door broken at 4:45 a.m., having been smashed by the piece of heavy timber.

Cab driver Jerry Laycock, from his next-door office, said he saw a neat, slim young man, wearing a blue suit standing in front of the store at about 3 a.m.

A telephone answering service employee, also next door, said she heard two loud noises in the street at 3:10 a.m. and thought it was an auto accident, but when she looked out the window could see nothing.

Laycock was away answering a call at the time.

WEATHER?

Holiday Travel Heavy

What the weather will be for the long July 1 holiday weekend is anyone's guess.

But weather or no, there's no doubt about the plans of thousands of Vancouver Island residents:

They are planning to go places.

Steamship, coach lines, air lines all anticipate heavy travel starting Friday, reaching a peak Saturday, tapering off Sunday, and finishing with a surge Monday.

The weather outlook is not too encouraging. A new storm which seems to be developing in the Pacific may bring more clouds and rain Thursday.

In the 30 hours ending 10 a.m. today, the Gonzales observatory recorded .39-inch of precipitation.

But as for the weekend "it's too early to make an intelligent guess," said the weatherman.

TCA reports fairly solid bookings, and has added eight extra flights to the Friday Vancouver-Victoria schedule for a total of 27 round trips.

B.C. Coast Service of the CPR reports the midnight steamer to Vancouver Friday as sold out of stateroom and car space.

Nanaimo-Vancouver space Friday and Monday is also at a premium.

CHRISTIAN GEORGE HANNA

WANDERING WAIF

Stowaway Seeks Work In Victoria

Christian George Hanna is here and he wants a job.

George, as he prefers to be called, was one of the world's wandering waifs until Canada took him in.

It was he who sparked street-corner to UN discussion on his legal status starting last January when he landed in Canada without immigration or identification papers.

He stowed away 15 months earlier in Beirut, Lebanon, and attempts to set foot ashore in numerous countries only landed him in jail.

His status in Canada is still cloudy, but it seems to depend that if he is a good boy, he'll be allowed to stay. If not—out.

The 23-year-old small swarthy but widely-smiling man checked in to the YMCA Tuesday. He had been working on a tug out of Vancouver the last three months but "this strike (IWA) is coming off. My job on the log pulls. What I do? I like any job, not just sea, and if I get chance I want to study for school every day couple of hours."

MONEY OKAY

He added "I don't want to worry my life any more. Money is okay, but not very much. It is okay when I get job."

The little man is independent and said he wanted to find a job "by myself . . . not put want job in newspapers."

On his status in Canada he summed up: "I'm a good man. I'm here. If I'm a bad man I'm not here."

He had five marriage proposals when in the immigration bottleneck in Vancouver, but discounted them all. Why?

"First, I want to shape my life before I get married."

And why come to Victoria for a job?

"I like here as very quiet place. I do not like big city. I like quiet life."

He is affable, co-operative and seemingly intelligent, and his English is good despite the fact he knew not a word six months ago.

Mr. Hanna agrees. Said he, brightly, "I speak English very good eh?"

He intends to stay here at least a week looking for work "of any kind."

With luck, the "refugee from nowhere" may yet become "a man with a country."

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Will you please tell me the address of Robert W. Service, poet of the Yukon and novelist? Mrs. L.T.P.

A.—The Canadian Who's Who gives the address of that former citizen of Victoria as c/o Dodd Mead Publishing Co., 432 4th Ave., New York City.

It states he is now living in Monte Carlo. He visited this coast some years ago to attend the fiftieth anniversary of the Sourdoughs' organization.

SHOPPING GUIDE

No More Scuffed Shoes With Padded Gas Pedal

By PENNY SAVER

One of the nuisances that a woman driver has to contend with is the fact that working the pedals is hard on her shoes. Most of us find that the back of our right shoes get scuffed and dirty from tramping on the gas pedal, and some of us take along old shoes to drive in.

But there's an easier solution—you can buy a plastic foam cushion that sticks onto the gas pedal and down onto the car floor that'll both protect your shoe and provide a comfy rest for your foot.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

To Dress or Not to Dress:

A church wedding in the evening, I have been observing many women wearing suits, informal sports dresses and hats. Is this accepted now? Shouldn't women wear a dress? I have also noticed young girls and women without hats at daytime weddings. What about this?

Louise Davis

Louise Davis Answers:

I agree that suits and informal sports dresses shouldn't be worn at evening church weddings. If you are invited to the reception, you are dressing for that and not for the ceremony. If you are not invited to the reception, there is no special point in wearing an evening gown unless you are going to some other formal dress-up function afterwards. An afternoon dress would be the better choice if you are only attending the ceremony. As for the hat, one should always consider the church denomination. Some such as Catholic, Episcopal, and Lutheran, require that women's heads be covered at all times. Women should always wear hats at a daytime wedding.

Shaped rather like a boom-erang, it has adhesive backing so you can easily stick it on. It comes in pink, blue and green, and at 79c I think it's a good buy.

More pampering for a woman motorist—a vanity kit that clips onto the sun visor of your car. It's a leatherette case, pink or blue, fitted with mirror, holder for tissues and transparent purse for your make-up, cigarettes and money. The purse is removable and the whole thing will cost you $2.98.

EASY CHOPPING

Found a super-easy food chopper today. In this season of salads, it will save you many a skinned knuckle from grating cabbage and carrots and so on. It's a clear plastic device with plunger-operated stainless steel blades. You just plunk it over the vegetables you want to chop, tap the plunger and there you are—salad makings all ready.

You can use it for hard-boiled eggs, meat, nuts, and many other foods. Price is $3.98.

This is hardly the season to be standing over a stove frying doughnuts, but if you do decide to cook up a batch of them, there's a gadget that will cut your work time considerably.

You just fill up a plastic container with the dough (there's a recipe on the box), push the plunger, and a perfectly shaped doughnut, complete with hole, pops out right into the hot fat. No tiresome cutting out to do.

Price is $1.39. I was intrigued by the recipes included, especially by orange sour cream doughnuts and rum doughnuts.

I'll be pleased to tell you where to buy any of these items if you phone me at 2-3131.

Wedding Cake Icing of Sugar and Almonds Symbolizes Pleasure and Pain of Marriage

The wedding cake is as important to the modern marriage as it was in ancient days.

In almost every land today, we take the wedding cake for granted. We forget that it, as well as many other traditions had a beginning, away back in the ritual and ceremony of history.

Eating together, at the same table, from the same dish, is one of the earliest and most primitive marriage ceremonies. Today, the bride usually cuts the first piece. The groom's right hand is placed over her right hand. They cut together, they break the slice together and eat together.

In ancient Rome, marriage by "conferreatio" by eating together was a strict rite to celebrate a wedding.

Our modern wedding cake goes back to the cake which was needed for the legally binding conferreatio. The Roman wedding cake was a symbol of plenty. It was broken over the bride's head as a sign of abundance. Each of the guests took a piece of the cake home to ensure plentifulness for himself.

In England, the bridal cake was originally made of rich and aromatic ingredients. This was covered with a white icing made of sugar and almonds to symbolize the pleasure and the pain of marriage. The cake also served as a good luck charm for the bridesmaid. We are told that the cake was cut into small pieces which were passed through the ring nine times by the bridegroom. Each bridesmaid received a token piece, which she tucked into the foot of her left stocking. If she placed the token under her pillow, as she slept she was sure to dream of the man who was destined to become her partner for life.

In certain parts of Greece today the offering of cake constitutes one of the most important features of the wedding ceremony, particularly in Southern Macedonia. After dancing the "Song of the Wedding Cake" the young people break up the cake and throw the pieces over the happy pair, together with figs and fruit, all symbols of plenty and fruitfulness.

In China it is a custom that the bridegroom's family takes care of the cakes. They send little wedding cakes to the members of the bride's family, the so-called "cakes of ceremony." The bride's family, in their turn, send the cakes of ceremony to other relations and friends of

TRADITIONAL RITE

Performing the traditional ceremony of the cutting of their wedding cake following their recent marriage in St. Luke's Church are Mr. and Mrs. George Douglas, Peaker. The bride, formerly Miss Dorothy Bradshaw, is the daughter of Charles E. Bradshaw, Duncan, and Mrs. Phyllis A. Bradshaw, Finlayson Avenue, and her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Peaker, Cedar Hill Road. (Photo by Paul Joncas.)

Garden Party Will Celebrate St. Alban's Day

A pie baking contest is under the direction of Mrs. T. F. Pickering, and tea will be served by the Young Ladies Guild. Stalls will include home cooking, candy and white elephant. Evening features will be a children's fancy dress parade, a display of magic and games run by the Men's Club.

The average four-tier wedding cake weighs 33-35 pounds, a three-tier cake 17-20 pounds, a two-tier 12-15 pounds. This includes almond paste and decorated icing. Usually the top layer is kept by the bride and groom to be used at the christening of the first child. The cake to be served is cut into one-half-inch fingers. The bottom layer of a three-tier cake would cut into approximately 200 pieces.

Equipment necessary for cutting of the wedding cake should include a sharp knife (usually a small carving knife), a glass of hot water for dipping the knife and a damp towel for wiping excess frosting from the knife. Frequently a plain slab of iced wedding cake is provided for cutting up for the guests without disturbing the wedding cake itself.

Experts Suggest Lord Patrick Beresford Has Emotional Maturity Beyond His Years

NEW YORK (UP) — Go span is concerned. Dr. Langer, as one who is 30. And we all know 50-year-old persons who are still infants.

But she does think any girl, either a princess or plain Mary Jones, is asking for trouble from the Mrs. Grundy department if she marries a man her junior.

"Society isn't ready to accept this," said Mrs. Langer, "although actually the girl is wise."

"I do not presume to speak for the British culture," said Dr. Abraham Stone, a physician and past president of the American Association of Marriage Counsellors. "But I feel that age difference is no handicap to a happy marriage."

Dr. Stone and his wife are authors of "A Marriage Manual," now in its 37th printing. "Happiness depends on the individuals," said Dr. Stone. "I know of many cases in which the wife is as much as 10 years older than her husband... yet they are well-adjusted couples."

Dr. Lena Levine, a prominent New York psychiatrist, said "It's the emotional, not the chronological age which matters. A 23-year-old man can be as mature combe, Mrs. Anton Fabian, Miss Linda Rothery and Miss Janet Betty Phillips sang "A Wedding Prayer". The reception was held at the Peter Pan, where Alex Hendrickson proposed a toast to the bride.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here's How to Make Motor Trips With the Children Fun

A motor trip with young children or museum or historical marker can be exciting and restful or it can be a wearying and boring experience. It will be to get restful and to become bored even better for the small fry who with long hours in the car. One need their sleep and rest even mother I know wrapped little more. This lessens the chance that prides for each day, each with in a child will become ill or irritable structions to "Open when you see a horse" or a train or some such. The breaks which stopping to object. Car trips are a good time look at an interesting scene scene for family singing or guessing or spelling games. If the children are old enough such games as "Ghost," the spelling game, or "Animal, Mineral or Vegetable" are time consuming. We have made up several games on our trips. In one we had to spell a fairly short word, taking the letters from sign boards as we passed. Another one we liked was to guess how far it was from where we were to as far as we could see, and then clock it. Another favorite—see who will be the first to spell his name, taking letters from billboards.

Regular meals make a big difference in the health and disposition of children when traveling. You probably may not want to stop for lunch at a restaurant since this can be very time consuming, if the place is crowded. Why not have a lunch packed by the restaurant in which you have breakfast? You then can pick a lovely spot at which to stop for your noon-day meal.

Without enough sleep and exercise and entertainment your offspring are certain to become restless and hectic. This spoils your fun as well as theirs.

Many children are victims of car sickness. This makes them and their parents most unhappy. Some of the seasickness preventatives are most helpful. Ask your doctor about this.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Tricks in Camping" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 69 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DOME SKIRT

MONTREAL—Called the "different look," this full skirt is a new fall fashion in a silk-satin dress with the new "dome" shape achieved by soft draping. The dress was shown in Montreal at a fashion-centre preview for buyers from points across Canada.—(CP Photo.)

TODAY'S RECIPE

CARAMEL FIG-ICE CREAM

Custard: 1/4 cup milk, 1/4 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon plain gelatin, 1 tablespoon cold water; 2 eggs.

Caramel: 1/4 cup sugar, 1/4 cup water, 2 cups heavy cream, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 cup soft dried figs, 1/4 cup finely chopped walnuts.

Custard: Combine milk, sugar and salt, and scald. Soften gelatin in cold water, add to hot mixture and stir to dissolve. Pour over the beaten eggs, stirring constantly to keep eggs from curdling.

Caramel: Combine sugar and water in saucepan and cook without stirring, until golden brown in color. Watch to prevent scorching. Slowly add cream and cook and stir until sugar is dissolved. Stir in flavoring. Combine with custard.

Clip stems from figs and chop figs fine. Add with walnuts to custard mixture and stir to blend. Pour into refrigerator tray, place in freezing unit with control set at lowest temperature, and freeze until firm. Stir two or three times during freezing. Serves eight to 10. Makes about one quart.

If figs are not soft, pour boiling water over them; let stand five minutes; drain.

CITY TOO 'LUSTY'

Under-Garments Again 'Ruffle' Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—A pantie feud, recalling the furor when Gussie Moran first displayed her famous lacy under-garments on the centre court, ruffled Wimbledon in the opening day of the all-England tennis championships.

One of Britain's stars, 25-year-old Angela Mortimer, complained, "these fancy clothes detract from the game itself."

Angela intends to wear plain 25, and Brothers of Victoria Lodge shorts and a simple store-shirt. She has a figure that is good even in this plain costume.

External Possessions and Material Success Can Starve, Kill the Spirit

False stars of an empty and meaningless life, external possessions and material success, can starve the spirit, Rev. Laura Butler told members of the Victoria Board of Professional Women's Club on Monday evening at an installation dinner meeting in the clubroom.

"These false stars must not obscure the important things of life," Miss Butler continued. "Give yourself unstintingly for others," she advised. "Work and live for others and secret hidden powers often untapped will enrich life with untold blessings in work, play and business."

Miss Butler was introduced by Miss Elizabeth Clements and thanked by Mrs. C. Lord. President Mrs. Ruby Masters, members of the executive and directors were installed in a candle-lighting ceremony conducted by Vancouver Island regional director Mrs. B. Smith. Other officers are Miss Lily Henderson, vice-president; Miss Ella Brett, second vice-president; Miss Dorothy Burrows, recording secretary; Miss Virginia Ross, corresponding secretary, and Miss Jean Smith, treasurer; Mrs. M. Laughlin, immediate past president. The directors are Mrs. E. Maunsell, Mrs. C. Danby, Miss Minnie Beveridge, Miss L. Wright and Miss Jean Rodgers. A gold membership pin and a corsage were presented to the president.

Childs, and her grandmother, Mrs. A. Bean, were presented. Guests were Mrs. T. Diamond, Mrs. A. J. Muddle, Mrs. D. MacPhail, Mrs. A. L. Harden, Mrs. D. Shubrooke, Mrs. Doris Barnes, Mrs. R. Childs, Mrs. W. Clarke, Mrs. H. Clarke, Mrs. E. Wray, Mrs. E. Simpkins, Mrs. E. Bean, Mrs. G. Pratt, Mrs. D. Orrick, Mrs. F. McIntosh, Mrs. L. Neff, Mrs. S. Neff, Mrs. J. Kilburn, Mrs. M. S. Richards, Mrs. J. Logie, Mrs. D. Logie, Mrs. W. Fontaine, Mrs. D. Vermette, Mrs. G. Monkman, Mrs. V. Weigand, Misses Elizabeth McIntosh, Sharon Wilson, Louise Terhion and Sheila MacPhail.

A Bright Note!

Happy little birds add their bright "note" of color—embroidered on kitchen towels. Make them bluebirds, or canaries if a sunny yellow is your favorite! Pattern 7357. Transfer of six motifs about 5 1/2 x 7 1/2 inches. Ideal for quick shower gifts, bazaar!

Send 35 cents in coins for this pattern (stamps cannot be accepted) to Household Arts Dept., Victoria Daily Times, 60 Front Street W., Toronto 1A Ont. Print plainly name address, pattern number.

DUAL ROLE OF NURSES NOTED BY PSYCHIATRY PROFESSOR

OTTAWA (CP)—Nurses must carry a "lion's share" of responsibility in any community disaster, says Dr. J. S. Tyhurst, Montreal.

With an inevitable shortage of doctors in a disaster, nurses must be prepared for the dual role of caring for both physical injuries and psychological illness, says the associated professor of psychiatry at McGill University.

Dr. Tyhurst has done extensive research on the psychological and social aspects of community disasters. His article on the topic is published in the current issue of the Canadian Nurse, official journal of the CNA.

SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING
Victoria District Notes: A walkie-talkie will be used on Saturday when the Scouts hold their "Apple Day" in Victoria. Scouters E. R. Smith and E. A. Estlin of the executive committee will have a truck to deliver supplies to the various areas and the walkie-talkie will be in contact with them at all times.

The Sidney group will have boys posted at the airport and at the ferry landings during the day.

Chairmen of areas are asked to be sure to have their cans, boxes and apples in to Scout headquarters, 1034 Johnson Street, by 7 p.m. on Saturday. Scouters are asked to be sure that the boys from their units are at the allotted place on time, in full uniform.

Salvation Army Group: District cubmaster Harry Ward paid the pack a visit and presented Akela Mrs. M. G. George with her warrant of appointment.

House-orderly badges were presented to Steve Borradaile, Kenny Bradley, Robert Foster, Douglas Foster, Larry Vincent, John Hanney, Harry Page and Roy Scott; top-makers badge to Douglas Foster, and collectors to Harry Page and Larry Vincent.

An Indian neckerchief slide was presented to Roy Scott as the best all-round Cub of the year.

Brig. J. O'Donald said farewell to the pack as he is leaving to take up a new post at Calgary, Alta.

The evening was spent in games and finished up with a feed of strawberries and ice cream. This was the last meeting for the season.

Ladysmith Group: The Cubs, Scouts, members of the group committee and parents held a picnic at Ivey's Green on Sunday last.

Novelty races were run off for the boys of pre-school age. A candy and nut scramble for the visitors created a lot of fun and amusement.

During the afternoon Scouter Ray Knight presented Akela Mrs. M. G. George and Mrs. J. M. Petrak with a set of silver teaspoons in recognition of their long service to the Cubs in Ladysmith. Presentations were also made to Mrs. L. F. Earwalker and Mrs. J. Lewis, assistant cub leaders.

District commissioner E. R. Stevens addressed the meeting and introduced the district cubmaster.

'OUT OUR WAY' TO CARRY ON

Although Jim Williams, the creator of the famous cartoon "Out Our Way," died last week the cartoon itself will carry on in the Williams tradition which has made it almost an institution during the last 35 years.

To begin with will appear cartoons drawn by Williams before his fatal illness. They will be supplemented by selections from the best panels done over the years and by new ones drawn by Negley Cochran, who has been Williams' assistant for many years.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Michael Lew Wier, aged six, of Dallas, Texas, for his question:

Does a Burrowing Owl Live Underground?

The burrowing owl makes his home on the prairies and in the western plains. His cousins who live in other places make their homes in hollow trees and quiet barns. But there are not many trees on the prairies and barns are few and far between.

Almost all the owls sleep through the day and go about their business after dark. So we find the little burrowing owl at home during the daytime.

He is safely tucked in his burrow underground, fast asleep with his big owl eyes shut tight. He wakes up when the sun sets. Soon he is outside searching for dinner. Grasshoppers are his favorite food. There are plenty of them around and they are easy to catch. Once in a while he enjoys a larger meal. He goes searching for a nice fat lizard.

Since owls are rather lazy, except for their hunting, they do not take much trouble to build a nest. Mrs. Burrowing Owl lays her plain white eggs in her burrow — which some other animal made for her. The eggs hatch into downy chicks, covered with fuzz. And for a time she forgets her laziness. She keeps very busy finding grasshoppers for her babies. Later she teaches them to fly without making a sound, in proper owl fashion. Soon they are swooping low and quietly over the ground searching for their own grasshoppers and lizards. Next each little fellow finds a home for himself — naturally it is a burrow made by some busy digging animal. Mama's work is done and she can go back to her lazy owl ways again.

Owls are mysterious birds of the night. Only the snowy white owl ever comes out to hunt by day. As a chick, he was brought up in the Arctic tundra land, under the midnight sun. There he learned to see in the daylight. His family comes south for the winter and these big white owls hunt when their cousins are fast asleep in bed.

Most owls are mortal enemies of rats, mice and other rodents who spoil our food crops. This makes them our friends. The big horned owl, with pussycat ear tufts, steals chickens, but he also eats up plenty of pesky rats, mice and hungry caterpillars. The owl works for us while we sleep. He wakes up after dark, opens his big owl eyes and peers around for food. He spies a small shadow flitting over the ground — a greedy rat on his way to the barn.

The owl gets ready for the hunt. He spreads his soft downy wings without making a sound. Down he swoops silently. Pounce! That pesky rat is carried off in Mr. Owl's steely talons. There is one rat that will never spoil another ear of the farmer's corn!

Andy sends a Hammond's Ambassador World Atlas to Margaret Alexander, age 12, of Mattapan, Mass., for her question:

What are the Horse Latitudes?

The name Horse Latitudes was originally given to a region of calm weather over the Atlantic Ocean. It is a sailor's expression and no one knows for sure what it means or how it came about. Old sailing ships ran into this tricky belt of weather around Latitude 30 degrees north of the equator.

The Horse Latitudes is a region of high pressure. Light, rising air produces dead calms and baffling breezes. This is just about the worst kind of weather for sailing ships. Many a ship has been becalmed there and sailors avoided the region when they could.

The same type of weather conditions runs in a belt around the oceans both north and south of the equator. Whenever ships sail in the regions of 30 degrees north or south of the equator they are apt to run into the high pressure areas of the Horse Latitudes.

OUT OUR WAY

Former Star on Road To New Fame on Video

NEW YORK (UP)—Frances Farmer, the actress whose drinking and temperament landed her in a mental institution 14 years ago, has returned to the scene of her first success to start all over again.

Now 43 but still blonde and beautiful, she flew here from her job as a $57-a-week San Francisco hotel clerk to prepare for an appearance on the Ed Sullivan Show Sunday night.

Ava Flies Light With 'Only' 25 Luggage Pieces

NEW YORK (AP)—Ava Gardner left by plane for Madrid Tuesday, but five of her 30 suitcases did not reach Idlewild airport in time to make the flight with her.

Also aboard the plane was the actress' friend, Walter Chiari, Italian comedian, who said he was "going to make a movie in Barcelona."

When Miss Gardner realized part of her luggage was missing, she pounded on the ticket counter and was heard to remark that Chiari's luggage reached the airport and she wondered where her missing suitcases were. Chiari walked away.

A Trans World Air Line spokesman said later her luggage weighed 1,380 pounds.

Showman Deflated as Liz Vetoes London Balloon Trip

LONDON (AP)—American showman Mike Todd tried unsuccessfully Tuesday to charter a plane to fly him to the French Riviera for dinner and back here for breakfast.

"I'm sunk," said Todd, "they say they can't do it, and because they can't I find myself separated from Liz for the first time since we got married last January." "I guess I've got to spend the night here," sighed Todd, "because the balloon goes up tomorrow."

"Balloon?" asked reporters. "Yes, we are flying a balloon across London tomorrow."

"Will you be in it?" "That's why I wanted to fly down to the Riviera for dinner tonight," replied Todd. "You see, Liz won't let me go up in the balloon. I figured that over a champagne dinner I might persuade her to change her mind. Champagne does wonders for women's minds. It succeeds where male logic fails."

Todd said he had just received official permission to fly the balloon over London.

"There's only one hitch—we can't fly it if there's an east wind. The ministry of transport and civil aviation said an east wind, and the balloon's out."

An east wind might blow the balloon into London airport's traffic.

Todd's balloon flight is in connection with the London premiere next week of his film, "Around the World in 80 Days."

"Everything else is fixed," he said.

"I've hired a fleet of carriages to take 2,000 guests from the theatre to the Thames River. I've hired a flock of boats to take them up the river to Battersea Park."

Script Writer Key Figure In Radio Drama

WINNIPEG (CP)—The script writer is really the key figure in radio drama and the emphasis on the writer is steadily becoming greater, Gustaf Kristjanson, CBC radio drama producer at Winnipeg, Monday told the annual convention of the Canadian Authors' Association.

Radio drama is a distinct type of writing with its own special techniques, he said. It must be written to be performed and, because it is to be used on radio, must be written for the ear alone. This means it must be simple and direct and easily comprehended.

Mr. Kristjanson said the play is a story told by a succession of dramatic scenes. If a story will not emerge when it is told in that way, he said, it is improbable that it will make a radio drama.

MORNING COFFEE BREAK SAID RUINING HEALTH

PARKERSBURG, W.Va. (AP)—A nutrition specialist asserted today that "the morning coffee break is weakening the health of our nation."

Dorothea Van Gundy of Arlington, Calif., member of the staff of the International Nutrition Laboratory, addressed the annual staff state conference of the Seventh Day Adventists. Miss Van Gundy said:

"Some 50 per cent of Americans suffer from low blood sugar. And that is caused largely by our national acceptance of the coffee break."

"No other race of people have as many ulcers and headaches as Americans. This is caused largely by the consumption of 3,000 cups of coffee every second in the U.S.A., with each cup containing from 1½ to three grains of caffeine."

Court Orders Twins Returned to Parents

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today restored to a youthful Dutch immigrant couple, now living in Toronto, twin sons placed out for adoption at birth three years ago.

The panel headed by Mr. Justice L. C. Rand, voted 4 to 1. The panel also included Mr. Justice Douglas Abbott, J. R. Cartwright, H. G. Nolan and C. H. Locke. Mr. Justice Locke dissented from the majority opinion.

Herman and Trudy Maat are entitled by the court's order to the immediate custody of their sons Richard and Roland, who ever since leaving Toronto General Hospital's maternity ward have been cared for by Austin and Ethel Hepton of Cooksville, Ont.

Woman Given 2,000 Pints Of Blood

HULL, England (CP)—A woman in this Yorkshire city has had more than 660 blood transfusions, and she expects to have one every two weeks for the foreseeable future.

Mrs. Barbara Longbone, 42, suffers from a form of anemia which inhibits production of red corpuscles. Doctors have been unable to hold out hope of an early cure.

The illness is believed to have resulted from war work in a London munitions factory.

She had her 66th transfusion in mid-June. In some 10 years she has received at least 2,000 pints of other people's blood.

VANCOUVER—North Vancouver fire department says it has caught the municipality's fire bug, believed responsible for two fires since the weekend.

900 Californians Hit by 'Flu Bug'

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—California's department of health is trying to identify influenza outbreaks that have affected some 900 persons at Davis and San Diego. Some of the cases were serious.

Dr. Malcolm H. Merrill said it could not be stated with certainty yet whether the "three-day flu" suffered by nearly 100 teen-age girls at Davis is related to the virus epidemic in the Orient.

WOMAN GIVEN 2,000 PINTS OF BLOOD

Hospital Union Threats Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Hospital Employees Union has warned the provincial government it will strike in defiance of the ban on hospital wage increases in future pay disputes.

Bill Black, business manager of the union, said, "from now on we are ready to take strike votes in every dispute."

Government policy, he said, is to refuse wage increases even when recommended by conciliation boards.

"It is always claimed that the budget freeze won't permit additional costs," he said.

He made the comments in an interview Tuesday as he received conciliation reports awarding wage boosts to 125 workers in Kimberley and Cranbrook hospitals.

The hospitals have rejected the reports and the union will apply for a strike vote, Mr. Black added.

Prairie Author's Book Praised By London Press

LONDON (CP)—The Sunday Times puts in a good word for a book just published in Canada about the activities of Canadians in Europe.

A columnist, Atticus, writes that he was "much struck" by the facts—amassed in I Found Canada Abroad, Ryerson Press, by Robert Moon of the Regina Leader-Post, who spent a year in Britain under an exchange plan sponsored by British publisher Viscount Kemsley.

Atticus says Moon spent part of his time in Britain tracking down the origins of great Canadians and the activities of Canadians now in Europe. The book shows this was a "rewarding quest," the paper says.

Laing Threatened 'To Put Heat' On Kiernan, Farris Tells Court

VANCOUVER (CP)—Senator J. W. Farris told the B.C. Court of Appeal Tuesday that Liberal leader Arthur Laing wrote a letter to the provincial mines minister "to put the heat on the minister."

He is acting as defence counsel in Wade and Wells' Co.'s appeal against dismissal last November of its libel and slander action against Mr. Laing.

Senator Farris said Mr. Laing wrote the letter complaining of waste in the Cassiar-Stewart road contract after learning Wade and Wells still was working on the road under a no-tender contract although the government had promised the opposition that work would be suspended until tenders had been called.

When Mr. Laing learned Wade and Wells still had the contract, "he wrote the letter to put the heat on the then Minister of Mines Kenneth Kiernan that he must carry out his pledge," said Senator Farris.

The Wade and Wells suit alleges that libel was written in the letter and slander contained in a speech made later by Laing to a political meeting.

Senator Farris said the argument of the company's counsel, Cecil Merritt, VC, that the letter was not "privileged" because Mr. Kiernan knew its contents before he received it, was wrong.

Small Car Market Eyed by Japanese

TOKYO (Reuters)—Japanese automobile manufacturers are trying to design a low-price, high-speed midget car which will break into the North American market for small cars.

The Toyota Motor Company is hoping to put a model of this description on the market in a year or two. It will be chosen from among four or five cars now being designed and tested.

Shotaro Kimiya, president of the Toyota Motor Sales Company, a subsidiary of the Toyota Motor Company, who has just returned from an inspection tour of the North and South American markets, believes that North Americans soon will be buying 400,000 small cars a year.

According to Kimiya, an increasing number of North American families would like to own two cars.

His idea of an ideal car for the North American market is a small car costing less than $1,000 delivered, with low gasoline consumption, a high gear ratio, and a top speed of more than 60 miles an hour.

August Start Set On Home for Aged

Construction of the first prototype senior citizens' housing unit at Styles Street opposite Banfield Park in Victoria West is expected to start in August, the Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society was told Tuesday.

It would be the first of several apartment-type buildings, each to house 23 single persons, to be scattered around the city when funds become available.

Cost of the first unit will be about $75,000.

Campaign to raise funds for the project started early this month, and to date only about $1,500 has been pledged or given in cash.

START WITH $10,000

But campaign officials say a start can be made with $10,000, plus a special loan, available from the provincial government for such undertakings.

Plans for the prototype unit are expected to be completed in July by architect Roderick Clack.

BIGGEST INCREASE AMONG WORKING WIVES

Every 4th Woman in Canada Among Canada's Labor Force

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—When a house doorbell goes unanswered this may be the reason: Every fourth woman in Canada is working.

And one of every 10 women is a working wife who might also be a mother—or even a grandmother.

Canada's population growth and more job opportunities for women have produced a "dramatic increase" in the number of working women in the last 50 years, says a new handbook on gainfully-employed women.

Women at Work in Canada, a 60-page booklet published by the labor department, was prepared by the department's women's bureau under director Marion Royce.

RECORD TOTAL

Canada's female labor force was 1,164,000 in 1951—five times as many working women as there were in 1901.

The present total is estimated at about 1,341,000. Canada's total population now is about 16,300,000.

The handbook's statistics based on the 1951 census figures show that more than half the working women were single.

However, more married women were working than previously, and more women between the ages of 45 and 64, with grown-up families and lessened

Handicapped Man Builds Auto Scooter

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Joseph Weston, crippled by arthritis since 1950, has shown his heels to "do-it-yourself" fans by building his own motor scooter.

A former Ford of Canada power-house worker, Mr. Weston built his one-seater from parts of two wrecked motorcycles, the sides of a small furnace, an easy chair, a few standard car accessories and household electrical fixtures.

When he suffered the arthritis attack, Mr. Weston refused to be confined to bed so he set out to build his own motor scooter.

The result is a vehicle that cruises up to 15 miles an hour on city streets.

Sitting in a comfortably padded chair, Mr. Weston operated the little car with a single lever control and a couple of wall-type switches. It is powered by a motorcycle engine.

The four wheels are from motor cycles and the brightly painted sides were once part of a furnace.

The car has been licensed by provincial authorities.

Arab Split Widens Over Saudi Threat

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The Egypt-Syria axis swung still further from the rest of the Arab world Tuesday following Saudi Arabia's threat to break relations with Damascus.

But observers here believe some face-saving solution will be found to avert an open break with the Saudis, enraged over Syrian press attacks on King Saud.

Saudi Arabia's ambassador to Damascus warned Syrian President Shukri Kuwaty Sunday that the break would come unless Syrian papers stopped the smear campaign begun when Saud backed Jordan's King Hussein.

PLOTTED NASSER'S DEATH

The attacks reached their climax last week when the Damascus paper Alrai Alaam said a former Egyptian foreign minister and 10 Egyptian army officers were being held in Cairo charged with plotting President Nasser's death. The paper quoted the accused as saying Saud was behind the conspiracy.

Kuwaty called an emergency cabinet session after the envoy delivered his ultimatum. Later Foreign Minister Salah Bitar appealed to Syria's press to refrain from further attacks on King Saud.

Premier Sabri Assali said contacts were under way with Saudi officials "to clear clouds looming over our countries' relations," and that "we hope these contacts will lead to restoration of unity with Arab lands in the face of dangers surrounding us."

The Syria-Egypt alliance drew fire from another quarter. Iraq and Jordan announced their determination to resist subversion, and warned the two leftist partners not to meddle.

A communique issued Monday night at the end of King Hussein of Jordan's visit to his royal cousin, Faisal of Iraq, declared that both countries must "maintain the independence of their states and safeguard the independence of all Arab states."

Child Hit By Truck

Maureen Graham, 3, 1672 Derby, was admitted for observation and treatment for face cuts at Jubilee Hospital Tuesday at about 3:30 p.m., after she was in collision with a light truck on Shelbourne near Cedar.

Hospital reported Maureen's condition today to be satisfactory.

REPORTERS' FACES RED—POLICE GET LAST LAUGH

VANCOUVER (CP)—Reporters in Vancouver are trained to work fast when they hear a holdup alarm on the police radio.

Today a few of them worked too fast. At 10 a.m. the radio carried a report that two men held up a bank near east-end Exhibition Park and escaped in a car with an unknown amount of money.

Two broadcasting stations issued a brief bulletin on their newscasts at 10 a.m. and the Canadian Press put out a 75-word item.

A few minutes later, red-faced reporters learned it was an exercise for new police recruits.

A police official said each training class is given an exercise in a simulated bank holdup.

$50, $55 Pension Studied by Tories

OTTAWA — Increases in the personal income tax exemption by $50, easing the tax load on individual Canadians by an estimated $225,000,000 to $250,000,000 are among proposals now under consideration by Hon. Donald Fleming, minister of finance.

Parliament will be in session this fall, with a new budget to be brought down which will increase old age pensions, reduce taxes, introduce cuts in other government spending and relax the tight money policy, the minister declared in a press interview. He gave no details of the proposed tax cuts or pension boost.

The boost in old age pensions raising the pension from its present level of $46 to $50 or even as high as $55 is another proposal being studied by the minister. He has obtained a memorandum from the finance department officials outlining the cost to the treasury of carrying out pledges made to the electorate by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker during the campaign. The increase in the personal income tax exemption would raise the exemption of married persons to $2,500 and it would lift the exemption for single persons to $1,500. This, it is estimated, would cost the treasury between $225,000,000 and $250,000,000.

Raising the old age pension to $50 from the $46 level the Liberals placed it at in the last budget, would add another $40,000,000 in expenditures to the federal treasury.

There is some suggestion among the Conservatives that since they accused the Liberals of being "rigidly" in raising the pension by only $6 they can hardly now make a raise of just $4. There are some in the party who are advocating a raise to $55 a month. The cost to the treasury involved in a raise to $55 would be more than $80,000,000.

'Honk-Honk' Replaces 'Toot-Toot' In Parliament's Railway Room

OTTAWA (CP)—The call of the wild goose echoes through Parliament's railway committee room today as a U.S. game official demonstrated a controversial electronic hunting device.

Robert H. Johnson of Washington shocked delegates to the annual federal-provincial wildlife conference with the realism of geese and duck calls coming from a compact battery-operated record player. He said it was being used by U.S. hunters to bring waterfowl within range of their guns.

Use of the waterfowl-calling devices is "reported to be devastatingly effective," he said.

They are "being studied by the fish and wildlife bureau with a view toward recommending possible bans or control measures."

P. F. Oasler of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations, immediately said any ban which authorities in Canada might impose would be supported by the associations. Mr. Oasler said the machine

LONDON (UP)—The Soviet Union gave immediate agreement in principle today to a new American proposal for mothballing ships, planes, tanks and guns in a "first step" move toward East-West disarmament.

LONDON (CP)—Western members of the United Nations disarmament subcommittee were reported today to have reached basic agreement on a suspension of nuclear tests.

A reliable source was quoted by Reuters news agency as saying they have adopted the position indicated Tuesday by U.S. State Secretary Dulles of nuclear test suspension for a limited period, provided there is also agreement to halt nuclear production for military purposes at a later date.

Last to come around to this position was believed to be France, which together with Britain, the U.S. and Canada comprise the four Western members of the subcommittee. Russia is the fifth member.

The French, who plan to become the world's fourth producer of nuclear weapons, were adamant that any ban on tests must be accompanied by a simultaneous ban on nuclear production for military purposes. Otherwise, they felt they would have been prevented from developing their own nuclear weapons while the U.S., Russia and Britain went ahead in piling up stocks of already-tested weapons.

Now, it is reported, the French are reconciled to suspension for a year or two. They argued that it would take a year or two for them to stage their own tests. So, if the ban failed they could still go ahead.

Sources said this agreed Western position is a notable achievement for U.S. delegate Harold Stassen.

JOHN D. GETS BIG PLAY BY BRITISH CARTOONISTS

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker makes his bow today as a central figure in British cartoons. David Low in the Manchester Guardian pictures the Canadian leader standing beside Premier Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana outside the Downing Street residence of

Prime Minister Macmillan. In the cartoon the house is being remodelled by a "united Europe" reconstruction company.

Friedl in The Evening Standard portrays Diefenbaker poring over European plans with Premier Robert Menzies of Australia, while a

New Zealand representative passes the scissors so Diefenbaker can do a scalping job on the document.

Canada has given a general blessing to the conception of the common market and free trade plan, but has indicated she may have some reservations on points of detail.

IWA to Meet Bennett Strike Poll Underway

About 1,500 members of Local 1-118, International Woodworkers of America, in 15 plants in Victoria, Jordan River, the Malahat and Saanich Peninsula areas are voting along with 32,000 other IWA members today whether they will strike for higher pay.

An affirmative vote could cripple the $500,000,000 industry within 48 hours—the mandatory waiting period before a walkout can take place.

However, a ray of light shone through Tuesday when Premier W. A. C. Bennett invited both sides in the dispute to meet with him Friday in an effort to reach a settlement.

"It was understood Mr. Bennett had no firm formula for agreement, but wished to get the two sides together."

The IWA is seeking a 20 per cent increase from the '57 mainland and Vancouver Island operators. The increase would boost basic pay to $2.22 an hour for sawmill workers and $1.90 an hour for others. Employers say "market conditions" make this impossible.

A conciliation board recommended a four-month "truce" in negotiations but this was not agreeable to the IWA. In preparation for a possible strike, local contractors have been increasing purchases from 30 to 50 per cent within recent weeks.

Unless the strike lasted into the fall, there would be no major curtailment of construction here.

Available lumber in yards would all be considered "hot." Some of the polls have opened at 7:30 a.m., others later in the morning. Voting is during coffee breaks, at noon and after

CCF PROMOTES KNOWLES DEPUTY LEADER

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre) today was promoted to deputy leader of the CCF party relinquishing his former post as CCF whip to Hazen Argue (Assiniboia) as the party's caucus meeting in Winnipeg appointed its officers for the coming session of Parliament.

Mr. J. Coldwell was reappointed as party leader. Knowles takes over from Angus MacInnis, who had been the former deputy party leader.

Results of the poll are expected to be known within 24 hours, and an announcement will likely come from Vancouver.

President of the local here, Jack MacKenzie, said of the proposed meeting with the premier:

"I feel sure it will be quite satisfactory to the union, and we are quite willing to negotiate at any time."

If the strike comes off, it would be the fourth major stoppage in the industry since the Second World War.

Leaders Optimistic On Partial Treaty

LONDON (CP)—Commonwealth prime ministers unexpectedly launched into world disarmament discussions at the opening today of their one-week conference here.

The inaugural morning session was intended to limit itself to opening speeches and approval of the agenda, but the leaders of the 10 countries—representing one-quarter of the world's population—apparently felt the current five-power disarmament talks important enough to warrant immediate discussion.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd who has been attending the five-power talks, outlined the present stage of negotiations.

Reuters news agency said it was understood that the general view of the prime ministers was one of guarded optimism for the conclusion of a partial disarmament agreement.

The morning session, first of two today, lasted two hours. World problems will be thoroughly discussed during the week by the prime ministers.

They met at 10 Downing Street, headquarters of Prime Minister Macmillan, for week-long private talks on such issues as relations with Russia, hydrogen bomb tests, disarmament and the Middle East situation.

Flags of Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Ghana and the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland fluttered from specially erected flagpoles.

The visiting statesmen represent about 600,000,000 of the world's 2,000,000,000 people and territory extending to about a quarter of the earth's land surface.

First to arrive was Jawaharlal Nehru, the Indian prime minister. The crowd surged forward to cheer him.

Twenty minutes later H. S. Suhrawardy, the Pakistan prime minister, arrived. Next came Senator M. W. H. de Silva, Ceylon's minister of justice; Thomas MacDonald, New Zealand minister for external affairs, and Eric Louw, South African minister of external affairs.

These three are representing their countries in the absence of their prime ministers, who were unable to attend.

Prime Minister Dr. Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana was next to arrive.

Australia's Prime Minister Robert Menzies was the only one to walk up Downing Street. His arrival coincided with that of Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

Last to arrive was John Diefenbaker, the new prime minister of Canada.

This is the broad pattern of the Commonwealth statesmen's world-ranging talks.

Today—the opening session discussed the agenda and then switched unexpectedly to disarmament, to be followed by a discussion of East-West relations and recent shifts of policy in the Communist bloc.

Thursday—All-day discussions of the Middle East situation and the Suez crisis.

Friday—An analysis of the situation in Southeast Asia and the Far East.

Weekend—Informal outside-conference talks by groups of prime ministers with Macmillan at his official country residence, or with the Earl of Home, Commonwealth relations secretary.

Monday—The problem of world disarmament, including an exchange of ideas on the controversial issue of H-bomb tests.

Tuesday—Problems related to a revision of the charter of the United Nations.

Wednesday—The economic and trading problems of the sterling area.

Thursday—Progress of various British colonial territories toward self-government within the Commonwealth.

Outside the conference there will be group discussions on defence by prime ministers whose countries are linked with Britain in regional alliances. India and Ceylon, as in past conferences, will not take part in these discussions.

First to arrive was Jawaharlal Nehru, the Indian prime minister. The crowd surged forward to cheer him.

Mystery Woman to Lure Wednesday Shoppers

PLANE PROP PICKS PURSE OF WOMAN OFF IN A WHIRL

CHICAGO (UP) — An airplane propeller picked a woman's pocketbook of $125 Tuesday. She was seeing her daughter off on a honeymoon flight and had brought along a $200 "nest egg" as a present.

The plane started up, the woman dashed excitedly after it, and the propeller's backwash flipped open her purse.

Airport workmen managed to find $75. The woman fainted and left the airport without even giving her name.

CCF Maps Out Role At Winnipeg Caucus

WINNIPEG (CP) — A party caucus of CCF members elected to Parliament in the June 10 federal election got underway here today to plot future plans for its role in the new House of Commons.

CCF leader M. J. Coldwell, has said that, in view of the fact his party holds the balance of power in the Commons, the Winnipeg meeting will be the most important party caucus in some time.

Interview statements by some of the CCF members who arrived in Winnipeg Tuesday showed no indication of compromise with the Progressive Conservative government.

Two of the MPs, who declined to be identified, said that, in their opinion, the Progressive Conservative government will call no election this year.

They predicted a June, 1958 date for the next federal election and also predicted that the Progressive Conservative party will sweep Quebec in the next election with up to 60 seats because "Quebec will get on the bandwagon."

Mr. Coldwell said in Ottawa Monday the party caucus will "talk over the results of the election" and generally get organized for the next Parliament.

He said the caucus will discuss attitudes the CCF will take toward certain campaign proposals by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

There's $500 waiting for Wednesday afternoon shoppers in downtown Victoria.

Victoria Six-Day Shopping Week Committee will pay $100 each Wednesday throughout July to the adult who locates a "mystery woman" who will mingle with the crowds on streets and in stores.

The scheme is meant to attract shoppers to the downtown area on Wednesdays and publicize the fact stores now may remain open on the usual half-holiday between July 3 and August 28.

PRIZE DOUBLED

If the mystery shopper is not located the first Wednesday, the prize will be doubled on the second. She will answer truthfully if confronted with a question but will be otherwise indistinguishable from other afternoon strollers.

The winner of the money each week, if there is a winner each week, might be advised to take some of the payoff in pennies. City hall authorities state meters will be in operation during Wednesday afternoon hours in the two summer months.

A by-law which made meters ineffectual on half holidays has been amended for the two months and arrangements are complete for Wednesday afternoon meter patrols.

Some shoe stores and men's clothing stores have decided to remain closed on Wednesday's despite the new freedoms offered in the Municipal Act.

Spokesmen for men's wear dealers on Yates and Douglas, Keith Borman, said there will be no change in their store hours. They will neither open Wednesday afternoon nor Friday evening. He said extra staff wages for longer hours would force an increase in prices.

Twenty-one retail shoe outlets will go on a five-day week in July and will close their doors all day Wednesday.

Spokesman Donald King said, "Further opening would mean increased costs for us because we do not attract tourist business."

Death Takes Flower Expert Wm. Hamilton

Funeral for one of Victoria's better-known gardeners, William Cairns Hamilton, who died Sunday, was held today at 3 p.m. from McCall Bros. funeral chapel.

He was 75.

The late Mr. Hamilton, who lived at 1800 Ferndale, was head gardener at the Normal School for years, also worked with the provincial government as gardener, and for the past few years was gardener at the Strangwood estate, Gordon Head.

Until recently, he had been a consistent exhibitor in local flower shows, taking many prizes.

He was a member of Mt. Newton Lodge, AF & AM.

Survivors include the widow, Jessie Isabel, at home; and three daughters, Mrs. J. M. Knight, Mrs. H. D. Stewart and Mrs. P. D. Noble, all of Victoria. Rev. A. I. Avery will officiate at the funeral and interment will be at Royal Oak Park.

Egyptian Navy Trained by Russia At Polish Base, Diplomats Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia is still will heed further intensive as Nasser's new campaign to exploit the plight of Arab refugees. Egyptian naval crews before turning over three submarines last week to the Egyptian government. Diplomatic informants who reported this today said the Soviet Navy trained Egyptian sailors in undersea work at the Polish naval base of Gdynia for six months. This secret training would make it possible for Egyptian crews to operate the Soviet subs far sooner than most Western naval authorities anticipated, although they

Algeria Situation Critical

NEW YORK—The compromise resolution on Algeria which was passed unanimously by the General Assembly last February was hailed by some as a solid achievement, but there were many who had misgivings about its usefulness.

It seems clear today that those with misgivings were the better prophets, for the UN debate on Algeria, and the resolution passed at its conclusion, seems to have contributed nothing toward a solution.

If anything, a solution is harder to visualize today than it was in February. Violence in Algeria increases, the attitudes of the French and of the nationalists seem to be hardening against any form of compromise. Eyewitness reports of massacres and murders are horrifying to Frenchmen, as well as to their friends and to their foes.

Lynch

The Algerian nationalists and their Arab and Asian supporters call what is happening in Algeria "the only shooting war now going on in the world," and that seems a valid enough description by any standard. What is happening in that troubled area of North Africa bespeaks the failure of the United Nations to help the situation, and makes it virtually certain that the subject of Algeria will be the prime candidate for the agenda of the 12th General Assembly session, which opens here in September.

Pushing for fresh UN action on Algeria will be the African-Asian group of 28 member nations—the ones chiefly responsible for placing the Algerian item on the agenda of the last assembly. The Afro-Asian group, in meetings here this month, endorsed an appeal to the secretary-general, Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, for an investigation by the International Red Cross of the actions of both sides in the Algerian strife. The group will ask Mr. Hammarskjöld to seek French co-operation in such a neutral investigation.

Sitting in with the Afro-Asian group as an observer at its sessions here was Mohammed Yazid, a member of the National Council of the Algerian Revolution and a spokesman for the Algerian Front of National Liberation, which has its "external" headquarters in Cairo. Mr. Yazid, who left Algeria in November of 1954 and has been touring the world since on behalf of the nationalists, said violence in Algeria would continue until France agrees to open negotiations for a settlement—and when Mr. Yazid says a settlement, he means independence for Algeria.

ANTI-COLONIAL

"Do you hate the French?" we asked him. His reply: "No—our movement is not anti-French, it is anti-Colonial."

Until the last General Assembly, France had resisted UN discussion of the Algerian question, on the ground that it was a matter of internal French politics. In 1955, France had pulled her delegation out of the assembly when the Algerian item was placed upon the agenda—the delegation returned when the item was subsequently removed from the agenda.

At the last assembly, France, feeling that the best defence was the offence, and confident of the support of her major allies, agreed to an Algerian debate, while still insisting that the problem was an internal one. Her foreign minister, M. Christian Pineau, made a forceful defence of French policy in Algeria, and after a stormy debate, and consideration of several draft resolutions, the assembly did no more than express "the hope that, in a spirit of co-operation, a peaceful, democratic and just solution will be found" in conformity with the principles of the United Nations Charter.

Frenchman and Arab alike hailed the unanimous vote on the resolution as a victory. France said she would stick to her program of a cease-fire first, then elections, and finally negotiations. An Arab spokesman put negotiations first on the list of requirements, along with recognition of the principle of Algeria's independence.

In fact, nothing has ensued except a continuation of violence, on a mounting scale. The new French premier, Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, has promised widespread political reform in Algeria, but he also expressed support for the tough policy against the Algerian rebellion, as implemented by Robert Lacoste, the minister residing in Algeria.

If the prospect of negotiations remains as distant as it is now, and if violence continues to mount, it seems certain that Algeria is destined to become the number one problem before the United Nations—and one that not only plays up the conflict between east and west, but could strain the relationships between France and her allies. For Algeria has in it a trace of almost every problem that besets the world.

HOME GARDEN

Plenty of Plants Like Gravelly Soil

Gravelly soils are usually hot and dry during our normally rainless summers, and present a problem to the gardener.

How can interesting plants be grown in such soils without having to change their texture with tons of compost or manure?

The answer seems to lie in choosing plant material which normally thrives in hot, dry, sandy soils, or gravelly slopes.

For spring color there are the hybrid brooms with shades

from creamy white to purple and bronze. Listed under the generic name of Cytisus, there are upright and prostrate species, early and late flowering.

Closely allied to the Cytisus, and easily confused with them, are the genistas to continue the season of bloom.

Helianthemum, the sun rose, with its neat evergreen foliage and masses of bright colors in May and June is ideal for sunny slopes.

Cistus, the rock rose, is less often seen, though it is ideally suited to hot, dry conditions. This is a more shrubby plant, and in its different species will provide pink, white, or purple flowers during the hottest days.

For large areas, the yucca will be bold and showy, and for level dry spots lavender and santolina will add color contrast.

Looking back over these brief notes, I find that all the plants mentioned are evergreen, surely an added attraction.

One important point might well be to start with small plants out of container (except with lavender and yucca) to overcome their dislike of root disturbance, and in order that their roots may have the chance to work down to the cooler lower reaches of the soil while they are still young.

Planted by about late March in a mild season, little watering would be required while the plants became established.

U.S. Embassy Papers Lost In Formosa

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some confidential documents apparently were taken by unknown persons from the United States Embassy in Taipei during last month's anti-American riots in Formosa.

Responsible officials said this is acknowledged in a special report the state department now is drafting about the incident. They did not make clear whether any important documents are missing, and there are indications that no inventory was kept of papers in the embassy's locked cabinets.

State Secretary Dulles already has denied emphatically that the rioters stole secret American diplomatic code books.

Officials said the special report will be given within the next few days to the Senate foreign relations and House of Representatives foreign affairs committees. Diplomats now are assembling all the facts in the case to explain the sudden mob attack which destroyed both the American Embassy and the U.S. information agency office in Taipei.

The officials believe that the picking up of the documents was not deliberate, but an aftermath of the furious assault on the embassy.

The report is understood to absolve the Chinese Nationalist government of any direction or instigation of the affair, but is critical of police failure to intervene once the riots started. The Nationalist government promptly apologized for the incident and promised to pay damages.

No Communist plot or direction was detected by diplomats reporting on the investigation, despite rumors that Reds egged on the demonstrators.

The spark which touched off the attack is believed to be mainly the Chinese Nationalists' anger at the court-martial acquittal of an American army sergeant who shot a Chinese man.

Million-Ton Increase In Export Newsprint

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON (CP) — A 1,000,000-ton increase in the amount of Canadian newsprint available for export by 1959 is forecast in a new U.S. government survey of world newsprint production.

The survey, prepared by the U.S. department of commerce, based the prediction on its estimate that Canadian newsprint output, which totalled 6,469,000 tons last year, will rise to 7,600,000 tons in 1959.

At the same time, the survey estimated that production in the United States, which now depends on Canada for 87 per cent of its supply, also will rise, with a resultant decline in American import requirements.

NON-COMMITTAL

The report made no assessment of the possible effect of this development on the U.S. market for Canadian newsprint but it did say that demand within Canada, the fifth largest consumer in the free world, "is expected to parallel the Dominion's economic growth in recent years."

mand at 490,000 tons in 1957, compared with 470,000 last year, and said this should rise to 510,000 tons in 1958 and 530,000 in 1959.

Assessing Canadian export possibilities, the department forecast that Canadian newsprint available for foreign markets will increase to 6,460,000 tons this year, 6,840,000 tons in 1958 and 7,070,000 in 1959. Canadian exports last year totalled 5,999,000 tons, of which 5,230,000 came to the United States.

33 PER CENT GOAL
By 1959, the report estimated, U.S. production should rise to 2,360,000 tons, compared with 1,450,000 produced in 1955 and 1,615,000 produced last year, and account for about 33 per cent of U.S. domestic requirements. Prior to 1950, U.S. production accounted for 18 per cent of its total supply and in 1956 domestic mills provided 23 per cent.

Looking at the world picture, the department foresaw a "growing cushion" of supply in excess of world demand beginning this year. By 1959, it estimated, world demand will total 14,900,000 tons, compared with a production potential of 16,300,000 tons.

Victoria Tenor M. Rogers Finds TUTS Spot Valuable

(Special to the Times)
Three weeks' work with American operatic star, Robert Rounseville, is proving more beneficial than a full course in dramatics for Victoria tenor, Michael Rogers. Rounseville is singing the title role in "The Student Prince," Vancouver Theatre Under the Stars' first production this season, which opened Monday.

Playing "Dmitri," leader of the students, and as Rounseville's understudy, Michael Rogers is making the most of his chance to work with the famous New York tenor, who is well known in opera, television, movies, concerts and Broadway musicals.

"He's not the eccentric sort of star who insists on monopolizing attention throughout the show," says Michael, "but a friendly chap who seems more concerned with letting the other principals have moments to shine."

MORE SPOTLIGHT

At Rounseville's suggestion, the famous Drinking Song, led by Michael, was re-staged, placing Michael in a more prominent position.

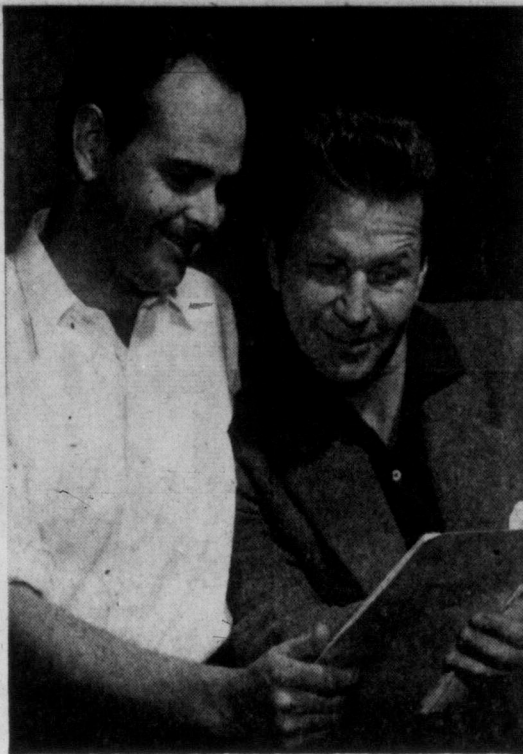

"I was worried about my acting in 'The Student Prince,'" Rogers admits, "but, under TUTS' excellent director, Jimmy Johnston, and with so many helpful tips from Mr. Rounseville, I'm confident, now."

"Just watching Mr. Rounseville act is enough to inspire the whole cast. When he rehearses the love scenes with 'Kathy,' played by Vancouver soprano, Wendy Martin, the rest of us feel like intruders. 'I'm benefitting vocally, too. After hearing me sing part of the Serenade, Mr. Rounseville took me aside and suggested different phrasing, which has helped considerably."

SAVES HIS VOICE

In rehearsal Rounseville conserves his magnificent voice, barely singing at all, for he has a rugged two weeks ahead, singing the prince role nightly, except Sundays, in Stanley Park's Malkin Bowl. Other shows being presented this summer are "Where's Charley?", July 8 to July 20; "Kiss Me, Kate," July 22 to August 3, and "The Pyjama Game," August 5 to August 24.

Robert Rounseville appeared in Victoria 3 years ago, singing the role of "Don Jose" in Bizet's "Carmen," presented by the Northwest Grand Opera Company. He is now with the New York City Centre Opera; has appeared frequently on T.V.'s Voice of Firestone program; sang the leading role in the movie "Tales of Hoffman," and appeared in the recently-filmed "Carousel."

Michael Rogers, holding score, and internationally famous tenor Robert Rounseville, helping young Victoria singer in his professional experience.

When opening night curtain rose on The Student Prince, Monday, it marked Michael Rogers' first professional appearance in an operetta. He has appeared in many amateur productions, however, his most recent being "The Chocolate Soldier," presented by the Victoria Gilbert and Sullivan Society. When TUTS season is over, what then? Michael can't decide between staying in Vancouver or moving to Toronto. There is no chance of his returning to Victoria. His reason . . . "I've discovered unlimited opportunity for singers in the larger cities, so that's where you'll find me!"

Tory Worker Admits Destroying Records

TORONTO (CP)—A Progressive Conservative election worker admitted he destroyed all his records after a judicial inquiry was ordered into alleged padding of voters' lists in Toronto St. Paul's federal riding.

Stafford Roberts made the admission to Chief Justice J. C. McRuer, who is conducting the inquiry ordered after Conservative candidate Roland Michener, subsequently elected, said he found 400 fictitious names on voters' lists in the riding.

Roberts admitted signing 70 affidavits on behalf of persons seeking inclusion on voters' lists although he knew only 12 of them personally. He was asked who brought the forms to him. "I'm not sure," he answered. "I destroyed my records after the election."

"After this inquiry was announced you destroyed your records?" asked the chief justice. "All of them?"

"Yes," said Roberts. Chief Justice McRuer described as "amazing carelessness" the manner in which affidavits were taken by two lawyers, Gregory Cameron, who had worked for Liberal candidate James Rooney, and Kenneth A. Lund, a Conservative worker.

CITY MAN FOUND

'Horrible Dream' Ends in Calgary

Missing Salesman Will Be Home Soon

By AB KENT

Amnesia victim Arthur Yurkowski, 35, 2624 Quadra, woke from a "horrible dream" in Calgary General Hospital Tuesday morning after disappearing from Victoria June 17.

He called his wife about an hour after "coming to," unable to explain what happened or how he got to Calgary.

The last thing he remembered, he said, was crossing Douglas Street Monday afternoon as he worked his brush sales route for Fuller Brush Co. Ltd.

"He woke up looking into a doctor's face and the hospital room seemed very dark, he told me," said Mrs. Yurkowski.

"Then suddenly the room got very bright and his mind became clear as a bell.

"He said he would be home as soon as he could. The last few days have just been a horrible dream for him, he said."

Mrs. Yurkowski expected her husband home today or Thursday.

"He wouldn't waste any time getting here," she added.

PAPERS PRAISED
Mrs. Yurkowski praised news paper stories and pictures for discovery of her husband so far from home.

Members of the brush firm's Victoria office had mailed newspaper accounts of the disappearance to Calgary and Hamilton offices of the company.

Meanwhile, Calgary police were notified of an apparent amnesia victim in hospital and checking by them and the company disclosed Yurkowski's identity.

Coincidentally, as identification was being established through Victoria police, Mr. Yurkowski awoke.

"I'm just overwhelmed with joy to know my husband is safe," Mrs. Yurkowski said. She is mother of a 19-month-old son Roger.

Although distraught for eight days, she never gave up hope, she said.

The salesman had registered at a Calgary hotel under the name of "Mr. Arthur," and had turned over about $145 to the desk clerk for safekeeping.

When he disappeared he had carried about $200 of company money he was to send to the firm's Vancouver office.

"I suppose the hotel manager noticed something was queer and went up to the room to see if he was all right. They took him to hospital Thursday night," Mrs. Yurkowski said.

He had lost his identification papers and driver's licence.

Manager of the Victoria branch of the firm, Kaarie Norgaard, said Yurkowski's job is waiting for him as soon as he is able to return to it.

Mrs. Yurkowski said her husband may require medical treatment when he gets home.

CHRISTIAN GEORGE HANNA

WANDERING WAIF

Stowaway Seeks Work In Victoria

Christian George Hanna is here and he wants a job.

George, as he prefers to be called, was one of the world's wandering waifs until Canada took him in.

It was he who sparked street-corner to UN discussion on his legal status starting last January when he landed in Canada without immigration or identification papers.

He stowed away 15 months earlier in Beirut, Lebanon, and attempts to set foot ashore in numerous countries only landed him in jail.

His status in Canada is still cloudy, but it seems to depend that if he is a good boy, he'll be allowed to stay. If not—out.

The 23-year-old small swarthy but widely-smiling man checked in to the YMCA Tuesday. He had been working on a tug out of Vancouver the last three months but "this strike (IWA) is coming off. My job on the log pulls. What I do? I like any job, not just sea, and if I get chance I want to study for school every day couple of hours."

He added "I don't want to worry my life any more. Money is okay, but not very much. It is okay when I get job."

The little man is independent and said he wanted to find a job "by myself . . . not put want job in newspapers."

On his status in Canada he summed up, "I'm a good man. I'm here. If I'm a bad man I not be here."

He had five marriage proposals when in the immigration bottleneck in Vancouver, but discounted them all. Why? "First, I want to shape my life before I get married."

And why come to Victoria for a job?

"I like here as very quiet place. I do not like big city. I like quiet life."

He is affable, co-operative and seemingly intelligent, and his English is good despite the fact he knew not a word six months ago.

Mr. Hanna agrees. Said he, brightly, "I speak English very good eh?"

He intends to stay here at least a week looking for work "of any kind."

With luck, the "refugee from nowhere" may yet become "a man with a country."

ASK THE TIMES
Q.—Will you please tell me the address of Robert W. Service, poet of the Yukon and novelist? Mrs. L.T.P.

A.—The Canadian Who's Who gives the address of that former citizen of Victoria as c/o Dodd Mead Publishing Co., 432 4th Ave., New York City. It states he is now living in Monte Carlo. He visited this coast some years ago to attend the fiftieth anniversary of the Sourdoughs' organization.

MONTE ROBERTS

You're really old if you can remember when "John D." meant Rockefeller.

It happened at the Humboldt Street whisky emporium. Two ladies, both obvious tourists, wandered in and started looking around.

One of them spotted the sign which announced the current rate on U.S. funds.

The sign read: AMERICAN DISCOUNT TODAY—SIX PER CENT. "Oh, look, Mable," said the lady. "Isn't it wonderful? We get six per cent off just because we're Americans."

And then there was the waiter in the beer parlor who expressed doubt about the age of a youthful-looking customer.

When the customer insisted on being served, the waiter said: "No, thanks. I never take a chance at black jack."

"What do you mean, black-jack?" said the would-be customer. Explained the waiter "21 or bust. If you're not 21, I'm bust."

I see where our civil defence plans are out of date. I am not surprised. Hardly anyone is civil any more.

The current issue of the Saturday Evening Post achieves something of a record in the way of explanatory disclaimers. With an article called "Here's How I Gyp You," the Post runs this explanation:

"Lee Nugent is the pseudonym for a furniture salesman of many years' experience . . . only the names of the dealers, their stores and their products have been changed."

I am still waiting for the disclaimer to end all disclaimers: "Only the facts have been changed to protect the guilty."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A $1,000 grant to the Art Gallery here for purchase of a sound-film projector and other visual lecture aids, was announced today by the curator, Colin Graham.

The grant came from the Leon and Thea Koerner Foundation, which was established last year by the former Vancouver lumber baron and his wife.

Sam Keeble, 2937 Dean, was elected president of the Victoria Sales Executive Club at an annual meeting at Oak Bay Beach Hotel Tuesday. Ivor Fuller and Bob Neary, were elected first vice-president, and secretary respectively.

Cyril Morgan, 429 Belleville, pleaded guilty in city police court today to theft under $50 in connection with an auto break-in at 4:50 a.m. on Belleville.

Two policemen, Consts. Cliff Harrison and William Heagle, said they watched Morgan park his own car, walk along a line of other parked cars on Belleville near the Empress Hotel, peering into each, then stop at a California car.

He smashed a no-draft window to open the car, climbed in and was carrying off three large boxes of biscuits, a tin of mixed candies, a pair of large scissors and a woman's black plastic purse when the constables stopped him.

He was remanded to Thursday for sentence. Total value of the goods, property of Gladys Paul, was $20.

Peter Hartnell, 907 Royal Terrace, was fined $10 each on two charges of soliciting business in a street, on appearing in city police court today.

He was charged after police saw him handing pamphlets to occupants of cars stopped in lines of traffic near CPR wharves.

Results of the weekly Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club session Tuesday follow:

North-South—Ethel Cleworth and Elizabeth Warren; Mr. and Mrs. McConnell; Lil Tattersall and Larry McMillan.

East-West—Mr. and Mrs. Chisholm; Elsie Edmonds and Molly Able; Edith Bold and Irene Agles.

A 16-year oversight is being corrected by Mount St. Mary's Hospital—after years of operation it is applying for its first government licence as a private hospital.

The faux pas came to light when the B.C. inspector of hospitals wrote Victoria City Hall today asking a report on facilities by city inspectors, pending issuance of the licence.

Identification of victims of Sunday's plane crash at Port Hardy will be aided by information from dentists and doctors of the 14 persons, Vancouver coroner's office said Tuesday. Next of kin or the doctors themselves may contact Sands in Victoria (3-7511) or the coroner's office in Vancouver (TATlow 7111).

B.C. Air Lines today announced expanded services in the Port Hardy and Campbell River-Cornox areas.

Announcement followed approval by the federal Air transport Board of Class III (irregular schedule) service to points including Holberg, Mahatta River, Allison Harbor, Port Alice, Jeune Landing, Quatsino, Stuart Island, Thurlow, Hayden Bay, Port Reville, Rio, Tatlayoko Lake, Vernon Lake and Woss Lake.

VANCOUVER GYRO LOYAL TO VICTORIA HERITAGE

Loyal to his hometown of Victoria, Gyro delegate George Barr, now of Vancouver, turned up at the Gyros' international convention in khaki shorts, open-necked shirt, tweed jacket, monocle, fake RAF-type moustache and sun helmet.

Many Gyros are exploiting Victoria's Olde English atmosphere with plus-fours and cricket blazers.

"THIS IS HOW IT USED TO BE," says Ed. Kagy, a founder member of Gyro International talking old times with Cuy Shanks, vice-president of Victoria Gyro Club, and Jim King, president of the Hollyburn Club

FAMILY AFFAIR

Lively Gyros Launch Parley Festive-Style

The biggest international Gyro convention ever seen in Victoria got into its stride today with nearly 1,000 members and wives meeting in happy groups all over the Empress Hotel.

It is much bigger than the Gyro convention held here in 1941 and most members say it is livelier, too!

They say Gyro differs mainly from other service clubs in that it caters specially for family groups—that is wives are encouraged to take part in club activities and sons and sons-in-law are invited to become members at 21.

"We try to recapture the spirit of a college fraternity," said Edmund Kagy of Cleveland, Ohio, who started Gyro with two college chums at the Western Reserve University in 1912.

BASIC CONCEPT
"Each of our 130 clubs in Canada and the United States is conducted on individual lines, but they adhere to the concept of a civic social fraternity of friendship."

"If that's too much of a mouthful for you, let's call it a Friendship Club," said Mr. Kagy who is secretary of the 5,600-member Gyro International at its headquarters at Cleveland from 1923 to 1954. He also carries the title of Old Grey Eagle as an honorary chief of the Chippewa tribe of Western Ontario.

"They pinned the feathers on me at Fort William in 1954," laughed Jolly, white-haired Mr. Kagy who looks younger than his 68 years.

"It's the clean, healthy life we Gyros live," he joked.

Best part of the joke is that the Gyros and their wives held a hilarious "get acquainted" party in the curling rink Tuesday night and this was followed by numerous other parties in the hotel, which left a few headaches behind them.

Golf, fishing and sightseeing tours are also being squeezed into the five-day program between banquets, luncheon parties and business meetings.

The governor's banquet will take place in the Empress at 7 p.m. Thursday followed on Friday by the international president's banquet at which president Bob Brimacombe of Vancouver will turn over the reins of office to a newly-elected president.

THREE BRITISH COLUMBIANS have fun at the big Gyro get-together—R. Rowe Holland, Vancouver, a past international president; Bill Clark, Victoria, convention chairman; Dave Chapman, Kelowna, past president.

A few Gyros were seen passing the aspirins as they settled down to solid organizing and paper work at district committee meeting this morning. But a spirit of cheerfulness and ready cooperation was in evidence everywhere.

Biggest meeting was that of District 4 which takes in a large part of British Columbia and includes such well-known B.C. members as R. Rowe Holland of Vancouver, Bart Carson, president of Victoria Gyros and Guy Shanks, vice-president.

LOVE RAIN
"We love this Victoria rain," said George B. White, San Francisco, who is governor of District 9 taking in most of California. "We don't have rain in California—only Scotch mist."

Regardless of the weather, all Gyros and wives planned to move out to Sooke this afternoon for a miniature "All Sooke Day" comprising logging sports, a salmon barbecue on the Sooke Flats and a dance in the community hall arranged by Vancouver Island clubs, who are hosts for the convention.

SIGHTSEEING
Golf, fishing and sightseeing tours are also being squeezed into the five-day program between banquets, luncheon parties and business meetings.

The governor's banquet will take place in the Empress at 7 p.m. Thursday followed on Friday by the international president's banquet at which president Bob Brimacombe of Vancouver will turn over the reins of office to a newly-elected president.

Gas Stations Operate On Same Hourly Basis

Hours-of-operation of Victoria service stations will continue as at present when the new Municipal Act becomes effective July 1.

An unofficial report today says the B.C. Cabinet has confirmed legality of a by-law passed by city council Monday permitting 10 service stations to remain open on a 24-hour basis.

City solicitor T. P. O'Grady Monday said the by-law was illegal and discriminatory. He felt under the new act all garages would have to be exempted from 6 p.m. closing, or none.

He was backed in his opinion by Municipal Affairs Minister W. N. Black who wrote council in April: " . . . in drawing up the Municipal Act it was felt neither the provincial nor the municipal government should be placed in a position to discriminate." He said if council exempted all garages, they could decide among themselves which would remain open. An official announcement by the cabinet was expected later today.

THURSDAY MEETINGS
Van-Isle Kinsmen: Genshiel Hotel, 6:45 p.m. Past presidents' night.

Alexandra Lodge, Sons of England: Williams hall, 7:49 Broughton, 8 p.m.

Rotary Club: Empress Hotel, 6 p.m. Annual installation meeting.

Oak Bay Kiwanis: Oak Bay Beach Hotel, 6:15 p.m. Lieut. G. H. Lawther, RCN, speaks on operational diving.

Multiple Sclerosis Society: Red Cross headquarters, Fort. Victoria, 8 p.m.

Victoria Branch, Canadian Mental Health Association: Health and Welfare Centre, 1947 Cook, 8 p.m.

WEATHER?

Holiday Travel Heavy

What the weather will be for the long July 1 holiday weekend is anyone's guess.

But weather or no, there's no doubt about the plans of thousands of Vancouver Island residents.

They are planning to go places. Steamship, coach lines, air lines all anticipate heavy travel starting Friday, reaching a peak Saturday, tapering off Sunday, and finishing with a surge Monday.

The weather outlook is not too encouraging. A new storm which seems to be developing in the Pacific may bring more clouds and rain Thursday.

In the 30 hours ending 10 a.m. today, the Gonzales observatory recorded .39-inch of precipitation.

But as for the weekend "it's too early to make an intelligent guess," said the weatherman.

TCA reports fairly solid bookings, and has added eight extra flights to the Friday Vancouver-Victoria schedule for a total of 27 round trips.

B.C. Coast Service of the CPR reports the midnight steamer to Vancouver Friday as sold out of stateroom and car space. Nanaimo-Vancouver space Friday and Monday is also at a premium.

SHOPPING GUIDE

No More Scuffed Shoes
With Padded Gas Pedal

By PENNY SAVER

One of the nuisances that a woman driver has to contend with is the fact that working the pedals is hard on her shoes. Most of us find that the back of our right shoes get scuffed and dirty from tramping on the gas pedal, and some of us take along old shoes to drive in.

But there's an easier solution—you can buy a plastic foam cushion that sticks onto the gas pedal and down onto the car floor that'll both protect your shoe and provide a comfy rest for your foot.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

To Dress or Not to Dress:

A church wedding in the evening, I have been observing many women wearing suits, informal sports dresses and hats. Is this accepted now? Shouldn't women wedding guests complement the bride and her family by wearing frilly evening gowns or waltz length dresses? I have also noticed young Louise Davis girls and women without hats at daytime weddings. What about this—

Louise Davis Answers:

I agree that suits and informal sports dresses shouldn't be worn at evening church weddings. If you are invited to the reception, you are dressing for that and not for the ceremony. If you are not invited to the reception, there is no special point in wearing an evening gown unless you are going to some other formal dress-up function afterwards. An afternoon dress would be the better choice if you are only attending the ceremony. As for the hat, one should always consider the church denomination. Some such as Catholic, Episcopal and Lutheran, require that women's heads be covered at all times. Women should always wear hats at a daytime wedding.

Shaped rather like a boom-rang, it has adhesive backing so you can easily stick it on. It comes in pink, blue, and green, and at 79c I think it's a good buy.

More pampering for a woman motorist—a vanity kit that clips onto the sun visor of your car. It's a leatherette case, pink or blue, fitted with mirror, holder for tissues and transparent purse for your make-up, cigarettes and money. The purse is removable and the whole thing will cost you $2.98.

EASY CHOPPING

Found a super-easy food chopper today. In this season of salads, it will save you many a skinned knuckle from grating cabbage and carrots and so on. It's a clear plastic device with plunger-operated stainless steel blades. You just plunk it over the vegetables you want to chop, tap the plunger and there you are—salad makings all ready.

You can use it for hard-boiled eggs, meat, nuts, and many other foods. Price is $3.98.

This is hardly the season to be standing over a stove frying doughnuts, but if you do decide to cook up a batch of them, there's a gadget that will cut your work time considerably.

You just fill up a plastic container with the dough (there's a recipe on the box), push the plunger, and a perfectly shaped doughnut, complete with hole, pops out right into the hot fat. No tiresome cutting out to do.

Price is $1.39. I was intrigued by the recipes included, especially by orange sour cream doughnuts and rum doughnuts. I'll be pleased to tell you where to buy any of these items if you phone me at 2-3131.

"Need any L-shaped nails?"

Wedding Cake Icing of Sugar and Almonds
Symbolizes Pleasure and Pain of Marriage

The wedding cake is as important to the modern marriage as it was in ancient days.

In almost every land today, we take the wedding cake for granted. We forget that it, as well as many other traditions had a beginning, away back in the ritual and ceremony of history.

Performing the traditional ceremony of the cutting of their wedding cake following their recent marriage in St. Luke's Church are Mr. and Mrs. George Douglas Peaker. The bride, formerly Miss Dorothy Bradshaw, is the daughter of Charles E. Bradshaw, Duncan, and Mrs. Phyllis A. Bradshaw, Finlayson Avenue, and her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Peaker, Cedar Hill Road. (Photo by Paul Joncas.)

In ancient Rome, marriage by "confarreatio" by eating together was a strict rite to celebrate a wedding. Our modern wedding cake goes back to the cake which was needed for the legally binding confarreatio. The Roman wedding cake was a symbol of plenty. It was broken over the bride's head as a sign of abundance. Each of the guests took a piece of the cake home to ensure plentifulness for himself.

In England, the bridal cake was originally made of rich and aromatic ingredients. This was covered with a white icing made of sugar and almonds to symbolize the pleasure and the pain of marriage. The cake also served as a good luck charm for the bride and groom. We are told that the cake was cut into small pieces which were passed through the ring nine times by the bridegroom. Each bridesmaid received a token piece, which she tucked into the foot of her left stocking. If she placed the token under her pillow, as she slept she was sure to dream of the man who was destined to become her partner for life.

In certain parts of Greece today the offering of cake constitutes one of the most important features of the wedding ceremony, particularly in Southern Macedonia. After dancing the "Song of the Wedding Cake" the young people break up the cake and throw the pieces over the happy pair, together with figs and fruit, all symbols of plenty and fruitfulness.

In China it is a custom that the bridegroom's family takes care of the cakes. They send little wedding cakes to the members of the bride's family, the so-called "cakes of ceremony." The bride's family, in their turn, send the cakes of ceremony to other relations and friends of the family as wedding invitations.

Many wedding customs have changed noticeably in the course of time—and so has the wedding cake which became more and more ornamental and today sometimes is a real piece of architecture. As a rule today in all civilized countries the wedding cake is an elaborate affair—destined to be enjoyed by all the wedding guests, and still a symbol of happiness, prosperity and togetherness for the newlywed couple.

The average four-tier wedding cake weighs 33-35 pounds, a three-tier cake 17-20 pounds, a two-tier 12-15 pounds. This includes almond paste and decorated icing. Usually the top layer is kept by the bride and groom to be used at the christening of the first child. The cake to be served is cut into one-half-inch fingers. The bottom layer of a three-tier cake would cut into approximately 200 pieces.

Equipment necessary for cutting of the wedding cake should include a sharp knife (usually a small carving knife), a glass of hot water for dipping the knife and a damp towel for wiping excess frosting from the knife. Frequently a plain slab of iced wedding cake is provided for cutting up for the guests without disturbing the wedding cake itself.

MORNING COFFEE BREAK SAID RUINING HEALTH

PARKERSBURG, W.Va. (AP)—A nutrition specialist asserted today that "the morning coffee break is weakening the health of our nation."

Dorothea Van Gundy of Arlington, Calif., member of the staff of the International Nutrition Laboratory, addressed the annual staff state conference of the Seventh Day Adventists. Miss Van Gundy said:

"Some 50 per cent of Americans suffer from low blood sugar. And that is caused largely by our national acceptance of the coffee break."

"No other race of people have as many ulcers and headaches as Americans. This is caused largely by the consumption of 3,000 cups of coffee every second in the U.S.A., with each cup containing from 1½ to three grains of caffeine."

Court Orders Twins Returned to Parents

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today restored to a youthful Dutch immigrant couple, now living in Toronto, twin sons placed out for adoption at birth three years ago.

The panel headed by Mr. Justice I. C. Rand, voted 4 to 1. The panel also included Mr. Justices Douglas Abbott, J. R. Cartwright, H. G. Nolan and C. H. Locke. Mr. Justice Locke dissented from the majority opinion.

Herman and Trudy Maat are entitled by the court's order to the immediate custody of their sons Richard and Roland, who ever since leaving Toronto General Hospital's maternity ward have been cared for by Austin and Ethel Hepton of Cooksville, Ont.

The Maats—Herman is from Leeuwarden and Trudy from Groningen—changed their minds three months after getting their family doctor to arrange adoption of the babies. Evidence was that an abortion had been sought but they were persuaded to allow the births to take place.

RULING IS FINAL
The Supreme Court hearing, by five judges headed by Mr. Justice I. C. Rand, was the third. Its ruling is final.

The Supreme Court of Ontario awarded the boys to the Heptons. The court of appeal for Ontario ordered them restored to the Maats. Its order was stayed, however, pending today's decision.

Woman Given 2,000 Pints Of Blood

HULL, England (CP)—A woman in this Yorkshire city has had more than 800 blood transfusions, and she expects to have one every two weeks for the foreseeable future.

Mrs. Barbara Longhope, 42, suffers from a form of anemia which inhibits production of red corpuscles. Doctors have been unable to hold out hope of an early cure.

The illness is believed to have resulted from war work in a London munitions factory.

She had her 66th transfusion in mid-June. In some 10 years she has received at least 2,000 pints of other people's blood.

Laing Threatened 'To Put Heat' On Kiernan, Farris Tells Court

VANCOUVER (CP)—Senator J. W. Farris told the B.C. Court of Appeal Tuesday that Liberal leader Arthur Laing wrote a letter to the provincial mines minister "to put the heat on the minister."

He is acting as defence counsel in Wade and Wells' Co.'s appeal against dismissal last November of its libel and slander action against Mr. Laing.

Senator Farris said Mr. Laing wrote the letter complaining of waste in the Cassiar-Stewart road contract after learning Wade and Wells still was working on the road under a no-tender contract although the government had promised the opposition that work would be suspended until tenders had been called.

When Mr. Laing learned Wade and Wells still had the contract, "he wrote the letter to put the heat on the then Minister of Mines Kenneth Kiernan that he must carry out his pledge," said Senator Farris.

The Wade and Wells suit alleges that libel was written in the letter and slander contained in a speech made later by Laing to a political meeting.

Senator Farris said the argument of the company's counsel, Cecil Merritt, V.C., that the letter was not "privileged" because Mr. Kiernan knew its contents before he received it, was wrong.

Prairie Author's Book Praised By London Press

LONDON (CP)—The Sunday Times puts in a good word for a book just published in Canada about the activities of Canadians in Europe.

A columnist, Atticus, writes that he was "much struck" by the facts amassed in I Found Canada Abroad, Ryerson Press, by Robert Moon of the Regina Leader-Post, who spent a year in Britain under an exchange plan sponsored by British publisher Viscount Kemsley.

Atticus says Moon spent part of his time in Britain tracking down the origins of great Canadians and the activities of Canadians now in Europe. The book shows this was a "rewarding quest," the paper says.

Small Car Market Eyed by Japanese

TOKYO (Reuters)—Japanese automobile manufacturers are trying to design a low-price, high-speed midget car which will break into the North American market for small cars.

The Toyota Motor Company is hoping to put a model of this description on the market in a year or two. It will be chosen from among four or five cars now being designed and tested.

Shotaro Kimiya, president of the Toyota Motor Sales Company, a subsidiary of the Toyota Motor Company, who has just returned from an inspection tour of the North and South American markets, believes that

North Americans soon will be buying 400,000 small cars a year.

According to Kamiya, an increasing number of North American families would like to own two cars.

COMMONWEALTH PARLEY

Arms Cut Talks
Feature Opening

LONDON (CP)—Commonwealth prime ministers unexpectedly launched into world disarmament discussions at the opening today of their one-week conference here.

The inaugural morning session was intended to limit itself to opening speeches and approval of the agenda, but the leaders of the 10 countries—representing one-quarter of the world's population—apparently felt the current five-power disarmament talks important enough to warrant immediate discussion.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd who has been attending the five-power talks, outlined the present stage of negotiations. Reuters news agency said it was understood that the general view of the prime ministers was one of guarded optimism for the conclusion of a partial disarmament agreement.

The morning session, first of two today, lasted two hours. World problems will be thoroughly discussed during the week by the prime ministers. They met at 10 Downing Street, headquarters of Prime Minister Macmillan, for week-long private talks on such issues as relations with Russia, hydrogen bomb tests, disarmament and the Middle East situation.

Plays of Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Ghana and the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland flattered from specially erected flagpoles.

The visiting statesmen represent about 600,000,000 of the world's 2,000,000,000 people and territory extending to about a quarter of the earth's land surface.

First to arrive was Jawaharlal Nehru, the Indian prime minister. The crowd surged forward to cheer him.

Twenty minutes later H. S. Suhrawardy, the Pakistan prime minister, arrived. Next came Senator M. W. H. de Silva, Ceylon's minister of justice; Thomas MacDonald, New Zealand minister for external affairs; and Eric Louw, South African minister of external affairs.

These three are representing their countries in the absence of their prime ministers, who were unable to attend.

Prime Minister Dr. Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana was next to arrive.

Australia's Prime Minister Robert Menzies was the only one to walk up Downing Street. His arrival coincided with that of Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

Last to arrive was John Diefenbaker, the new prime minister of Canada.

This is the broad pattern of the Commonwealth statesmen's world-ranging talks.

Today—the opening session discussed the agenda and then continued on Page 36

IWA to Meet Bennett
Strike Poll Underway

About 1,500 members of Local 1-118, International Woodworkers of America, in 15 plants in Victoria, Jordan River, the Malahat and Saanich Peninsula areas are voting along with 32,000 other IWA members today whether they will strike for higher pay.

An affirmative vote could cripple the $300,000,000 industry within 48 hours — the mandatory waiting period before a walkout can take place.

However, a ray of light shone through Tuesday when Premier W. A. C. Bennett invited both sides in the dispute to meet M. Billings, head of Forest Industrial Relations Operators' spokesman.

It seemed almost certain the government-supervised poll would result in a heavy "yes" vote.

"I have every hope that both sides will come to an agreement and there will be no closure of the industry," he said.

Meeting with the premier would be Joe Morris, B.C. district president of IWA, and J. sides in the dispute to meet M. Billings, head of Forest Industrial Relations Operators' spokesman.

Western Group
Okays Nuclear Test Suspension

LONDON (UP)—The Soviet Union gave immediate agreement in principle today to a new American proposal for mothballing ships, planes, tanks and guns in a "first step" move towards East-West disarmament.

Harold Stassen placed the proposal before the London disarmament conference today. The U.S. plan is to get away from percentage arms cuts . . . and to agree on firm specified reductions of numbers and types of conventional arms—such as tanks, planes, heavy guns and the like.

The U.S. plan called for a reduction of conventional armaments with the surplus to be placed in specified depots. The depots would be subject to international inspection and control.

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin—who had been filled in on the plan in advance—expressed immediate acceptance of the idea in principle.

LONDON (CP)—Western members of the United Nations disarmament subcommittee were reported today to have reached basic agreement on a suspension of nuclear tests.

A reliable source was quoted by Reuters news agency as saying they have adopted the position indicated Tuesday by U.S. State Secretary Dulles of nuclear test suspension for a limited period provided there is also agreement to halt nuclear production for military purposes at a later date.

Last to come around to this position was believed to be France, which together with Britain, the U.S. and Canada comprise the four Western members of the subcommittee. Russia is the fifth member.

The French, who plan to become the world's fourth producer of nuclear weapons, were adamant that any ban on tests must be accompanied by a simultaneous ban on nuclear production for military purposes. Otherwise, they felt they would have been prevented from developing their own nuclear weapons while the U.S., Russia and Britain went ahead in piling up stocks of already-tested weapons.

Now, it is reported, the French are reconciled to suspension for a year or two. They argued that it would take a year or two for them to stage their own tests. So, if the ban failed they could still go ahead.

Sources said this agreed Western position is a notable achievement for U.S. delegate Harold Stassen.

Sommers' Accounts
Can Be Inspected

OTTAWA (CP)—An attempt by former lands minister R. E. Sommers to prevent David A. Sturdy from examining his and other bank accounts in Vancouver and Victoria, as empowered by court order, was lost today in the Supreme Court of Canada.

The court rejected Mr. Sommers' application for leave to appeal from the order, issued by Mr. Justice Harry J. Sullivan of the Supreme Court of British Columbia.

The effect of today's ruling is that Mr. Sturdy may carry out the order, which gives him "liberty to inspect and take copies of certain entries in the books and records of certain chartered banks situated in the cities of Vancouver and Victoria, which entries relate to the bank account of the applicant Mr. Sommers and the bank accounts of certain other individuals and corporations."

Mr. Sommers' appeal already had been dismissed by the Court of Appeal for British Columbia.

DEFORMED TOES SOLVE MYSTERY

Headless Diver Identified
As Buster Crabb by Coroner

CHICHESTER, England (AP)—A coroner ruled today that the body of a headless frogman washed up on the shore early this month was that of Lt. Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabb, U.K. diver who vanished mysteriously a year ago after being spotted near a Soviet warship visiting Portsmouth Harbor.

Coroner G. F. L. Bridgman said he is satisfied the remains were of Crabb, but there is no evidence of the cause of death. He returned an open verdict.

Crabb, 46, a famous wartime frogman, disappeared near Portsmouth in April, 1956, during the visit of a Russian cruiser that brought Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev to Britain on a goodwill tour.

The missing diver's wife, Mrs. Margaret Crabb viewed the remains but was unable to identify them.

Mrs. Crabb, who divorced Crabb about 18 months before his disappearance, heard medical experts give a detailed account of the deformed toes of the corpse which virtually solved the mystery of the identity.

CCF Maps Out Role At Winnipeg Caucus

WINNIPEG (CP) — A party caucus of CCF members elected to Parliament in the June 10 federal election got underway here today to plot future plans for its role in the new House of Commons.

CCF leader M. J. Coldwell, has said that, in view of the fact his party holds the balance of power in the Commons, the Winnipeg meeting will be the most important party caucus in some time.

Interview statements by some of the CCF members who arrived in Winnipeg Tuesday showed no indication of compromise with the Progressive Conservative government.

Two of the MPs, who declined to be identified, said that, in their opinion, the Progressive Conservative government will call an election this year.

They predicted a June, 1958 date for the next federal election and also predicted that the Progressive Conservative party will sweep Quebec in the next election with up to 60 seats because "Quebec will get on the bandwagon."

Mr. Coldwell said in Ottawa Monday the party caucus will "talk over the results of the election" and generally get organized for the next Parliament.

He said the caucus will discuss attitudes the CCF will take toward certain campaign proposals by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Some shoe stores and men's clothing stores have decided to remain closed on Wednesday's despite the new freedoms offered in the Municipal Act.

Spokesmen for men's wear dealers on Yates and Douglas, Keith Borman, said there will be no change in their store hours. They will neither open Wednesday afternoon nor Friday evening. He said extra staff wages for longer hours would force an increase in prices.

Twenty-one retail shoe outlets will go on a five-day week in July and will close their doors all day Wednesday.

Spokesman Donald King said, "Further opening would mean increased costs for us because we do not attract tourist business."

CCF PROMOTES KNOWLES DEPUTY LEADER

WINNIPEG (BUP) — Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre) today was promoted to deputy leader of the CCF party, relinquishing his former post as CCF whip in the House of Commons (Assiniboia) as the party's caucus meeting in Winnipeg appointed its officers for the coming session of Parliament.

Mr. J. Coldwell was reappointed as party leader.

Knowles takes over from Angus MacInnis, who had been the former deputy party leader.

Dock Workers Strike

GLASGOW (Reuters) — Glasgow dock workers began a lighting strike today, bringing the whole port to a standstill.

The full labor force of 2,350 men walked out. Twenty-five ships were held up in the docks.

Pay Boost Soon?

OTTAWA (BUP) — The Treasury Board of the new Conservative government meets today to consider the possibility of including recently announced civil service pay increases in pay checks before Oct. 31.

'Honk-Honk' Replaces 'Toot-Toot' In Parliament's Railway Room

OTTAWA (CP) — The call of the wild goose echoes through Parliament's railway committee room today as a U.S. game official demonstrated a controversial electronic hunting device.

Robert H. Johnson of Washington shocked delegates to the annual federal-provincial wildlife conference with the realism of geese and duck calls coming from a compact battery-operated record player. He said it was being used by U.S. hunters to bring waterfowl within range of their guns.

Use of the waterfowl-calling device is "reported to be devastatingly effective," he said.

They are "being studied by the fish and wildlife bureau with a view toward recommending possible bans or control measures."

P. F. Oasler of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game

Associations, immediately said any ban which authorities in Canada might impose would be supported by the associations.

Mr. Oasler said the machine "posed a real threat" to good hunting.

H. Viv Sutton, secretary-manager of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, also promised support by his organization of any controls on the devices.

A survey in one east-coast goose-hunting state indicated a kill and crippling loss of 100,000 geese last fall, a substantial increase compared with previous years. U.S. state and federal officials attributed much of the increase to the use of the calling devices.

V. E. F. Solman, assistant chief of the Canadian wildlife service, said outside the conference "there is no question that it (the device) is a real killer."

U.S. World Policies Under Fire by Chou

PEIPING (Reuters) — Premier Chou En-lai said today in a major policy speech that after the anti-Communist revolt in Hungary "unity of the camp of socialism" was strengthened, and not weakened.

He warned Red China's internal enemies that the Communist dictatorship would not be changed "and no effort to shake it will be tolerated."

Dealing with foreign policy—

Chou is also foreign minister—he launched an attack on the world-wide policies of the United States, saying that "the new colonialism of the United States will end up no better than the old colonialism."

Chou spoke of a "demand to get rid of U.S. control, adopt a policy of peace and neutrality and oppose aggressive military blocs which were mounting in practically all U.S.-controlled countries."

REPORTERS' FACES RED— POLICE GET LAST LAUGH

VANCOUVER (CP) — Reporters in Vancouver are trained to work fast when they hear a holdup alarm on the police radio.

Today a few of them worked too fast.

At 10 a.m. the radio carried a report that two men held up a bank near east-end Exhibition Park and escaped in a car with an unknown amount of money.

Two broadcasting stations issued a brief bulletin on their newscasts at 10 a.m. and the Canadian Press put out a 75-word item.

A few minutes later, red-faced reporters learned it was an exercise for new police recruits.

A police official said each training class is given an exercise in a simulated bank holdup.

"FILL 'ER UP," said J. D. Kirkpatrick, left, plant superintendent at B.C. Power Commission station at Chehalis, to Lawrence McDonald, centre, captain of Ss. Oregon Standard that docked Tuesday with 110,000 barrels of fuel oil for plant's turbines. At right is H. H. Griffin, commission member, who welcomed Capt. Lawrence as first shipmaster to moor at site. (Basil Fox photo.)

Laing Threatened 'To Put Heat' On Kiernan, Farris Tells Court

VANCOUVER (CP) — Senator J. W. Farris told the B.C. Court of Appeal Tuesday that Liberal leader Arthur Laing wrote a letter to the provincial mines minister "to put the heat on the minister."

He is acting as defence counsel in Wade and Wells' Co.'s appeal against dismissal last November of its libel and slander action against Mr. Laing.

Senator Farris said Mr. Laing wrote the letter complaining of waste in the Cassiar-Stewart road contract after learning Wade and Wells still was working on the road under a no-tender contract although the government had promised the opposition that work would be suspended until tenders had been called.

When Mr. Laing learned Wade and Wells still had the contract, "he wrote the letter to put the heat on the then Minister of Mines Kenneth Kiernan that he must carry out his pledge," said Senator Farris.

The Wade and Wells suit alleges that libel was written in the letter and slander contained in a speech made later by Laing to a political meeting.

Senator Farris said the argument of the company's counsel, Cecil Merritt, V.C. that the letter was not "privileged" because Mr. Kiernan knew its contents before he received it, was wrong.

Nor did publication of the letter to the Point Grey Liberal Association change it from being privileged, he said. Laing's giving a copy of the letter which he read at the meeting to the press afterwards did not destroy the privilege.

"The letter must be construed as it would by members of the Point Grey Association in its context. That group of men was not interested in Wade and Wells. It was interested in the political situation between the government and the opposition."

A newspaper report of a speech made by Laing to a Young Liberal meeting made it clear he was attacking former

Small Car Market Eyed by Japanese

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japanese automobile manufacturers are trying to design a low-price, high-speed midget car which will break into the North American market for small cars.

The Toyota Motor Company is hoping to put a model of this description on the market in a year or two. It will be chosen from among four or five cars now being designed and tested.

Shotaro Kimiya, president of the Toyota Motor Sales Company, a subsidiary of the Toyota Motor Company, who has just returned from an inspection tour of the North and South American markets, believes that

North Americans soon will be buying 400,000 small cars a year.

According to Kamiya, an increasing number of North American families would like to own two cars.

His idea of an ideal car for the North American market is a small car costing less than $1,000 delivered, with low gasoline consumption, a high gear ratio, and a top speed of more than 60 miles an hour.
